Fast-flying flapper breaks the world's feminine record for going up in the air, which is going some!

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are;
Up above the world so high,
Like a Lindbergh in the sky."

East Washington policeman imposes the death sentence on a boy in a prohibition case, and makes the Jones law seem considerably less drastic than we had thought.

• • • •

There's something about prohibition that puts it in a class by itself, or shall we live to see the day when the Department of Justice enforces the Interstate Commerce Act by shooting a railroad president?

• • • •

Tom Heflin wears a white cotton suit to the Senate and encounters a severe frost. Don't rush the season, Senator!

• • • •

Mr. Heflin may drape his own form in Ku Klux Kotton, but he can't make Jim Watson wear a sheet for a toga.

• • • •

The most interesting thing about the beer bottle that was thrown at Brockton is the disclosure of the fact that there are people in this country who think Senator Heflin needs to be paid to talk.

• • • •

And while casting a roving eye over the front page, here's Senator Bingham, exponent of law enforcement, raising a roar because the Volstead Cutter Seneca used a peaceful merchant ship for a target 50 miles at sea. Somebody in that service must be pretty dumb to mistake a collier for a rum-runner.

• • • •

Two homes of policemen in Cleveland are bombed as a new gang war breaks out on the lake front. Some of those bootleggers are so ignorant they probably haven't read the President's New York law-enforcement speech yet.

The House votes down every amendment offered to the farm relief bill, and gentleman who think they could add something to make it more unsound than it is are just wasting their time trying to do it.

The Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League demands liquor in the home, which raises the interesting question, "isn't the cellar home?"

The beet sugar industry wants Uncle Sam to sweeten the kitty.

Representative Simmons gives a helpful boost to the proposed new municipal center for the District with a plan for making the money for a starter immediately available. The only discouraging thing about it is the reflection that the Government will now have to buy back on the Avenue near John Marshall place some squares of land that it once got for nothing and sold for a song.

With a singular lack of his usually keen Gallic perceptions, George Bernard Pshaw says he won't come over to visit us because the Americans are reverting to the savagery of the Indians, which is a gross slander on the only law-abiding element in our population.

The old-fashioned trader who used to start the bloodshed by selling whisky to the Redskin now has a son who confines his bootlegging to the white folks.

WHITTEMORE, HANGED BANDIT'S BROTHER, IS HELD AS BANK ROBBER

TAKEN AS SPEEDERS, MONEY BETRAYS PAIR

Marylander and Man in Car Have $3,574 in Their Pockets.

WESTMINSTER BANK LOOT, SAY PRISONERS

Third Man Is Implicated in Story; Baltimore Also Seeks Girl Aid.

St. Louis, Mo., April 24 (A.P.).—Two men, arrested here last night for speeding, and held for further investigation when $3,574 in currency was found on their persons, confessed today, police said, that the money was part of $15,000 loot obtained March 5 in the robbery of the Farmers & Merchants Trust Co., of Westminster, Md.

The men, according to police, in their confession gave the names of Rawlings Whittemore, 25, of Baltimore, Md., and Robert Minners, 25. They told police when first arrested they were Harry Miller and George Vaughn.

More Money in Rooms.

Police said that beside the money found in their possession when arrested, an additional $1,713 was found in their rooms, as were three revolvers. Whittemore's parole papers from the Maryland House of Correction also were found in the room.

Officers said the two gave the name of a third man who participated in the bank robbery, but who separated from them later. They are being held pending information from Maryland officials.

Baltimore, Md., April 24 (A.P.).—Police have been seeking Whittemore and his gang for several weeks, following identification of their photographs as participants in the Westminster robbery, they said today, adding that they had received word the arrested pair had waived extradition and would be brought to Baltimore immediately.

Brother of Hanged Man.

Whittemore, who is a brother of Richard Reese Whittemore, notorious bandit who was hanged in the Maryland Penitentiary in 1926, has a police record and at the time of the Westminster robbery was at liberty from the house of correction on parole after serving four months of a one year sentence for receiving stolen goods.

Minners also is known to Baltimore police, as is the third man of the group.

A woman is also to be made a party to the robbery. She is said by police to have acted as lookout while the others entered the Westminster Bank, shut three men and a woman in the vault, scooped up all the available cash and made their escape in a stolen automobile.

Army Pilot Is Blamed For Crash by Jurors

San Diego, Calif., April 24 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today held the late Lieut. Howard W. Keefer, Army air pilot, responsible for the mid-air crash last Sunday between Keefer's pursuit plane and a Maddux trimotored liner in which the Army flier and five persons in the passenger plane lost their lives.

After hearing a number of witnesses, several of whom testified the Army plane appeared to be "stunting" when it crashed into the Maddux liner, the jury found Keefer "criminally negligent" and had violated the rules of aviation when he followed and approached the passenger plane.

Schoolgirl Flier Wins Back Endurance Title

Elinor Smith, 17-year-old Freeport, Long Island flier, who established a new endurance mark for women aviators.

Elinor Smith, 17, Remains Aloft 26 Hours and 21 1-2 Minutes.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., April 24 (U.P.). Elinor Smith, 17-year-old schoolgirl flier, today won back the airplane record that she had watched two older women aviators snatch from her—and now she is likely to keep it for a long time.

She climbed wearily from the cabin of a great Bellanca monoplane this afternoon—a tired, slight figure in knickerbockers and leather helmet—dutifully kissed her father and mother, and smiled wanly as an official announced that she had bettered by more than four hours the solo endurance flight mark of Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden, of California.

The girl had flown for 26 hours, 21 minutes and 32 seconds—a performance

JURORS CLEAR BELL AS SMITH'S SLAYER

DENIES HE STRUCK BLOW

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—A grand jury today exonerated Samuel E. Bell, Baltimore oil promoter, of any blame for the death of Arthur Morgan Smith, wealthy Cleveland business man whom he was accused of fatally striking after a fashionable Park avenue party.

After the grand jury's finding, which was said to have been unanimous, the homicide charge on which Bell had been held in $10,000 bail, was dismissed and he was freed.

Smith died of a fractured skull suffered, according to information gathered by the police, when Bell resented an intrusion and struck him. Bell had taken Mrs. Robert Brown, of Lexington, Ky., to a party at the Park avenue apartment of Mrs. Robert Schuette, who inherited a Standard Oil fortune from her first husband, Harry S. Harkness. They met Smith there, a stranger to both of them, and left the building

PILOT, MOTOR DEAD, CRASHES; SAVES MAIL

Stalled Over Alexandria, V. E. Treat Glides Across River to Blue Plains.

HITS FENCE; IS UNHURT

Verne E. Treat, 32 years old, Pitcairn air mail pilot, saved his life and the mail at 12:10 o'clock this morning when the motor of his plane went dead over Alexandria, Va.

Sending out a couple of flares, Treat succeeded in gliding his plane over the river to land safely on the opposite side, near the Home for the Aged, at Blue Plains.

A fence was in the way, however, and, though Treat escaped without a scratch, he reported, when the plane tore through the fence, the plane was considerably damaged, wings and landing gear getting the worst of it.

Treat received his training in the war and has been flying since the armistice. He has flown for Pitcairn Aviation

Woman Is Slashed To Death in Street

Portsmouth, Va., Resident Is Attacked by Man as She Passes Church.

Portsmouth, Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary E. Morris, of Portsmouth, was stabbed to death here this afternoon as she was passing Trinity Church by an unknown white man. The murder occurred directly opposite the postoffice and within a few steps of the heart of the city. The woman's assailant escaped, leaving only a meager description on which the police are working.

Police learned from a preliminary investigation that Mrs. Morris was attacked from behind as she passed the churchyard. Her assailant, described as a tall young man, walked up beside her and began cutting her. As she turned to face him he stabbed her several times in the chest before she fell in a crumpled heap on the sidewalk, witnesses said.

In answer to a telephone call, police went to the scene of the attack and, together with H. H. Matthews, sealer of weights and measures for the city, took the woman to Parrish Memorial Hospital. She was pronounced dead by physicians when they arrived.

Texas Tornado Kills Ten, Hurts Scores, Razes Homes

School Children Suffer Brunt of Storm; List of Dead Growing.

Palestine, Tex., April 24 (A.P.).—Windstorms that swept over sections of eastern Texas shortly after noon today left in their path at least ten dead, scores of injured and heavy damage to farm buildings and crops. Several persons were reported missing as relief workers dug into debris.

The wind struck heaviest at Slocum, a hamlet 18 miles south of Palestine, where at least ten persons were killed and many injured by a tornado which blew up with little warning, cutting a swath half a mile wide and 4 miles long.

A tornado of lesser intensity swept over the Janes community 4 miles north of Center, near the Louisiana border, after the Slocum storm. No lives were reported lost, but a woman was seriously injured and 75 residents were made homeless when houses were destroyed.

Searchers believed the number dead at Slocum would be increased to more

SENATORS RISE IN WRATH OVER LIQUOR SLAYING

Two Policemen Held "On Duty" Pending Inquest in Fatal Shooting.

ACT REPREHENSIBLE, COMMENT OF BLAINE

Representatives Also Hit Killing of Man Driving Rum-Laden Auto.

PROHIBITION IS HELD VIEWED AS MAIN LAW

Sproul, Dry, Declares Smoke Screen Shows Attack Is "Expected."

A chorus of condemnation arose on Capitol Hill yesterday, following the killing of Ottmer H. Fleming, 21-year-old rum-runner, by Policeman Clyde O. Rouse, of the Eleventh Precinct.

Fleming was shot in the back of the head after he had sped through Anacostia in an automobile laden with liquor and belching forth a smoke screen.

Echoes of the shooting were heard on both sides of the Capitol, wet senators and representatives heaping criticism on the policeman and the prohibition law. The drys for the most part, were silent. None of them, however, condoned the killing.

In the meantime, Policeman Rouse and Policeman B. R. Campbell, who was with him, were being held at the police station on a duty status, while Maj. Pratt, superintendent of police, was engaged in an investigation of the shooting.

Inquest This Morning.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt has ordered an inquest for 11:30 o'clock this morning. Part of the evidence will be the bullet which, having passed through Fleming's head, dropped to the floor of the machine.

Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, declared that the act of the policeman was "extremely reprehensible."

"If there is any law under which he could be prosecuted and sent to the electric chair, it should be done," Blaine said. "He had no moral right to take this life. Government by force and guns is wrong. Taking of life, except in self-defense, is murder."

Representative Sproul, bone-dry Republican, of Kansas, who is sponsoring a drastic prohibition act for Washington, declared that, while he would not justify or excuse the killing, he felt that the wets always magnified such cases as that of yesterday morning.

Sproul Sees Attack "Expected."

"There is no such hue and cry when a prohibition agent is shot," Sproul said. "This rum runner had a smoke screen on his car. Does not that presuppose that he expected to be shot at?"

Senator Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who admits that, while he takes a drink, he votes dry, said that he condemned the shooting with all the spirit he possessed.

"The use of firearms in enforcing the liquor law," Blease said "leads me to think that the police have forgotten all th laws except the prohibition law."

Representative John Schafer, wet Republican, of Wisconsin, who, in the past, has defended the Washington police force, declared that the policemen should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Schafer Condemns Slaying.

"This is another example of the chaos and lack of respect for life that has been bred by prohibition," Schafer said. "Judging from the records of the policemen, they are both possessed with itchy trigger fingers. If they want target practice, why don't they join the Army?"

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, would not comment on the Fleming case, but he expressed the opinion that there is entirely too much indiscriminate shooting in the enforcement of the prohibition and customs laws.

Representative Gibson (Republican), Vermont, who has been investigating the local Police Department, said that he would not condemn a policeman until he had all the facts before him.

The shooting, the first here since the passage of the Jones "five and ten" act, took place shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Fleming, who lived at 300 N street southwest, died at Casualty Hospital a few minutes before 4 o'clock.

Companion Was Captured.

John Stevens, 27 years old, also of the N street address, was riding with Fleming and was captured after he had stopped the machine and fled. He now is at the Eleventh Precinct station charged with using a smoke screen and possession and transportation of liquor.

According to the story told by Policeman Campbell, he and Rouse were at Nichols avenue and S street southeast when the chase began. When Fleming failed to halt his machine at the intersection the two policemen gave chase in their machine.

When Fleming saw the uniforms he and Rouse were wearing, Campbell said, he tried to crowd the police machine

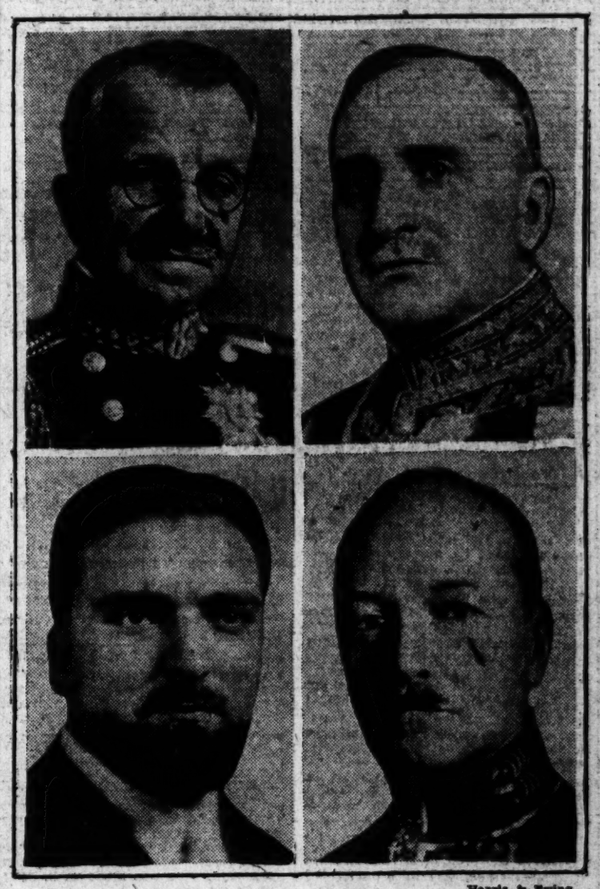
PARIS, ROME, BRUSSELS PREPARE TO SUPPLANT AMBASSADORS TO U. S.



Harris & Ewing.

Diplomats slated for other posts. Upper left—Ambassador Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italy. Upper right—Ambassador Paul Claudel, France. Lower left—Dino Grandi, vice minister of foreign affairs of Italy, who it is reported will succeed Ambassador de Martino, and Prince Albert de Ligne, Belgium.

French, Italian, Belgian Envoys Lose Backing at Home.

CLAUDEL IS ACCUSED OF DEBTS FAILURE

De Martino Is in Disfavor Over U. S. Immigration Developments.

GRANDI, SUCCESSOR, STUDIES LANGUAGE

Prince de Ligne Regarded by Native Critics as Being Too "High-Hat."

The imminent recall of three ambassadors—Paul Claudel, of France; Nobile Giacomo de Martino, of Italy, and Prince Albert de Ligne, of Belgium—was forecast definitely yesterday with the receipt here of cable advices from Europe stating that such action already has been decided upon and awaits only the moment of expediency before being put into effect by the foreign offices of these countries.

Political agitation at home against the three envoys is believed responsible for the proposed action. Washington's Diplomatic Corps, always on the alert for such events, views the report calmly and without marked astonishment. "I told you so" appears to be the current way of expressing the feelings of this body. Rumors of the recall of Nobile de Martino and Prince de Ligne have long been prevalent. Alone, Ambassador Claudel's withdrawal from the United States is causing some slight flurry of surprise.

It is, of course, no secret that considerable resentment is felt in French official circles in Paris at the failure of the post-ambassador to bring about a more felicitous phase in Franco-American relations. The approaching payment of American war stocks left in France, promised when the discredited Lucien Klotz was minister of finance, has not been handled with the delicacy and decision desired by Foreign Minister Briand, it is asserted.

Claudel's Recall Demanded.

As a result, France finds herself between the horns of a dilemma. She will be forced either to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement, which has encountered vigorous opposition ever since it was negotiated, or else she must arrange for the immediate payment, when due, of the $404,000,000 war stock payments. This situation, branded by political enemies of Ambassador Claudel as intolerable, has culminated in a unified and persistent demand for his removal.

Ambassador de Martino, it is well known, will be replaced by Dino Grandi, vice minister of foreign affairs of Italy. Only the latter's inability to learn the English language more rapidly has kept the Italian envoy at his post up to the present time. The recall of Ambassador de Martino was long ago decided upon. His failure to regulate the immigration question satisfactorily with the American Government was the ostensible reason. At first Premier Mussolini was determined to appoint the Italian representative in Argentina, who has satisfactorily negotiated immigration problems with that country, in Nobile de Martino's stead, but later Signor Grandi was selected.

Grandi Learning English.

This last-named diplomat, highly placed in Fascisti circles and an intimate friend of the premier, is learning English, for he declines to come to the United States until he can speak the language correctly. As soon as his English course is completed he will take over Ambassador de Martino's duties. Signor Grandi has enjoyed a meteoric diplomatic career and recently was given credit for helping to bring about the signing of the concordat between the Quirinal and the Vatican. Signor Grandi, it will be remembered, was one of the three "Black Shirts"

BROOKHART FIGHTS HOOVER FARM PLAN

HOUSE TO VOTE TODAY

(United Press.)

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, chief Hoover farm campaigner, "broke" yesterday with the President on agricultural relief in a Senate speech that possessed some of the fire the Iowa senator displayed when he first came to the Capitol five years ago promising to wear overalls.

Brookhart never donned his overalls, and in recent months he had been ironically dubbed by his colleagues "the closest man" to the President because of his ardent support of Mr. Hoover during the campaign. Previously he had been a leader in the Western farm revolt against the Republican party.

He reminded the Senate yesterday that he had made 200 campaign speeches for Mr. Hoover, but, he said in effect, the President has not carried out his campaign pledges to the farmer. The Iowa senator then went the whole route by urging that Congress disregard the President and prepare to pass "a real farm bill" over Mr. Hoover's veto.

The Iowa senator's break with the President was the outstanding development of the day in Congress, both branches of which were engaged with farm relief. The strong Republican

PLOT TO BLACKMAIL PARKERS CHARGED

VICTIMS DECLINE HELP

Reluctance on the part of victims of an alleged blackmailing "racket," uncovered yesterday in Takoma Park, Md., to testify against an arrested man, last night balked efforts of Montgomery County police to bring charges against their prisoner.

The scheme, according to police and complainants, was to approach automobiles parked on the dark roads at night and to demand money payments of the occupants, on threat of exposure if money was not forthcoming. In one case reported to police the occupants of a machine were threatened the next day, and a payment of $600 was demanded for secrecy.

Complaints about the racket resulted in the arrest Tuesday night of Everett D. Weakley, teamster, of Stanley, Va., who has recently been employed at Luray, Va. Weakley was arrested by Montgomery County Policeman Charles Barnes after a two-mile chase on foot across country, and an ensuing fist fight.

Barnes, taking a woman assistant with him, went Tuesday night to the area from which recurrent complaints have been received and parked there in his automobile. Soon after parking, he saw three men approaching through the grass. Barnes jumped out and

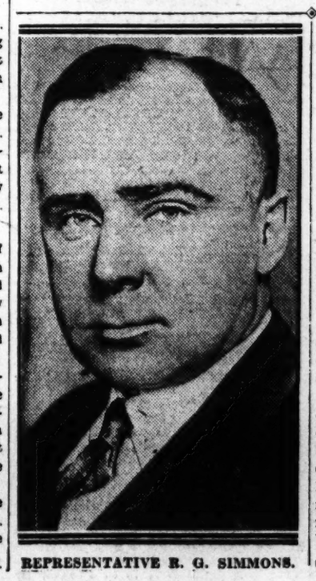
Selling of District Building May Aid Municipal Center



REPRESENTATIVE R. G. SIMMONS.

Simmons Requests Mellon to Indorse Purchase to Speed City Budget.

Establishment here of a municipal center, a group of handsome buildings for the use of the District government, may come much sooner than was expected, it appeared yesterday following a conference between Representatives Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. They discussed a plan, sponsored by Simmons, whereby the municipal center program might be speeded up and building operations started in the near future. Mellon was said to look with favor on the plan.

Representative Simmons, who is chairman of the District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, suggested that the Federal Government purchase the present District Building and so make available enough money to start erecting the new municipal buildings in the proposed center south of Judiciary Square. who led the legions of Mussolini during their historic march on Rome. With his two comrades he approached King Victor Emmanuel and presented the demands of the Fascist party which brought power to Mussolini's regime.

Prince de Ligne, much in demand in Washington's smart official and diplomatic life, has not been seen frequently enough concluding statesmanlike negotiations for his government, it is understood. Tall, distinguished, invariably well groomed and polished, the Belgian diplomat is nevertheless regarded by some of the leaders of his government as what might be termed in America "high hat." This reason, at any rate, is being urged strongly by those who desire Ambassador de Ligne's recall to Brussels and his replacement by a man of affairs thoroughly cognizant of American psychology.

It is conceded generally that the removal of the three European Ambassadors will be a blow to the brilliance of diplomatic prestige in the foreign contingent of the Capital. During their stay in Washington the envoys have made numerous American friends and have been lavishly entertained. Their hospitable mansions have been the gathering places where the official and diplomatic world rubbed elbows, discussing lightly the latest rumor afloat, dactylic hexameters, or perhaps the signing of some new treaty of arbitration and conciliation.

18-Year-Old Ward Of Admiral Is Bride

Anderson, S. C., April 24.—Miss Anastasia Sherbeck McCully, one of the seven Russian orphans adopted by Rear Admiral Newton Alexander McCully, U. S. N., in 1921, has just been married here to William Moritz, of New York City. The bride is 18, the bridegroom 25, and their wedding came as a romance which began in Charleston more than a year ago.

At that time Miss Sherbeck McCully was taking a course at Anderson College and Mr. Moritz was connected with the merchant marine. The plan had been that the wedding should not take place until the college course was completed, but Miss McCully prevailed upon her foster father to permit her to marry this month. So the ceremony was performed in the office of Probate Judge Herman E. Bailey on Monday.

It was on January 24, 1921, that Admiral McCully, a bachelor, who had been American high commissioner at Sebastopol, arrived in this city from Constantinople on the collier Ramapo with the seven Russian waifs for adoption. Their ages then ranged from 3 to 12 years, and there were five boys and two girls. With them the admiral brought a 19-year-old foster mother, also a Russian, to care for them.

Graf Zeppelin Flies Over Spanish Coast

Air Liner Crosses Mediterranean to Tangier and Back Again.

Malaga, Spain, April 24 (U.P.).—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin passed over this city at 7:30 p. m., heading toward Alicante, Spain. The dirigible approached from the direction of Gibraltar.

Seville, Spain, April 24 (U.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin was cruising along the Spanish coast tonight, making a leisurely tour of the Mediterranean after having flown over Lisbon, Portugal, and then southward to the Straits of Gibraltar.

The transatlantic craft, making a three-day tour, turned southward from Lisbon before noon, flying to Seville. Dr. Hugo Eckffener circled the ship over Seville for 15 minutes at an altitude of 1,500 feet.

The big craft reached Huelva at 4:45 p. m., circled the newly dedicated monument to Columbus, and continued southward to Gibraltar, passing out over the Straits at a speed of about 65 miles an hour. He reached Tangier, Morocco, at 5 p. m. The weather was excellent. The Zeppelin then turned back toward Malaga.

Elinor Glyn Joins Georgetown Group

Progressive Citizens' Body Favors Elimination of Cobblestone Streets.

Elinor Glyn, famous novelist, was one of six new members admitted to the Progressive Citizens Association of Georgetown at its meeting last night in Western High School. The others were Miss Sue Gardner, Mrs. May Griffin, Miss Margaret Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Kelliher and Mrs. Anna Chieves.

Dr. David Lumsden, of the Department of Agriculture, delivered a lecture on "Artistic Uses of Trees and Shrubs." His talk was illustrated. Miss Etta Taggart was elected delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. John Butler, due to ill health.

The association went on record as favoring the paving of Reservoir street from Thirty-second street to Wisconsin avenue; replacing of cobblestone streets with concrete; better lighting on Dumbarton avenue; the beautification of the Georgetown area near Key Bridge and the extension of Prospect avenue through to Rock Creek Parkway by way of Olive street.

SENATE INDIFFERENT TO HEFLIN'S DEMAND

Alabaman Faces Defeat on His Plea for Strong Rebuke to Bottle-Tosser.

DECLINE TO BE INVOLVED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The expansive cotton suit that enveloped Senator J. Tom Heflin, of Alabama, yesterday, suggested a cool serenity that was in sharp contrast to the turbulent beatings of his breast.

In the morning he spoke affectionately of his old State where the regular Democrats are planning to defeat him next year. He pleaded for letting bygones be bygones. He would have party harmony.

Then in the afternoon he grew so indignant that it seemed he would burst a blood vessel as the Senate, with the initiative taken by the Republican leadership, prepared to spank him on his latest anti-Catholic attack.

In vain he begged and threatened that the Senate express displeasure over someone throwing an empty beer bottle at him the other night at Brocton, Mass.

Didn't the senators consider that a serious matter? Didn't the senators care whether he was killed? His most persuasive voice lifted in righteous wrath. He importuned. If the senators didn't care whether he was killed or not, then he didn't want them to be uttering any eulogies over his grave.

Declares Big Issue Involved.

One by one the senators—Watson, Republican leader; Borah and Steiwer, of Oregon—arose and assured him that the incident was most unfortunate. They would not have him hit by a beer bottle.

But, the Alabaman screamed, it is the great issue between Romanism and Americanism. The roll must be called.

And it was on that issue that Borah and Watson, the latter less direct, assured him that he was not to be permitted to involve the Senate.

It became apparent as the situation shaped up that the Republican leadership had determined to use the incident to erase some of the religious smut that accrued to it in the recent campaign. When Heflin first began showing his resolution around shortly after the Brockton occurrence his colleagues just laughed and told him if he would cut out some of the "whereases" it seemed to be harmless enough. Without these whereases the resolution would in effect say simply that the Senate didn't think the people of Brockton ought to throw an empty beer bottle at the Alabama senator. He is a good story teller for one thing. With the whereases, the resolution attributed the incident to the Pope.

Has Opponents at Home.

But Heflin erred just as he did with his flag resolution at the last session. He was too impatient to set up the Americanism versus Romanism issue. He could have waited until his resolution was passed and then made capital of it.

But when he set the issue up before, the Republican leadership decided to take its stand. A vote was prevented yesterday when Senator McNary, of Oregon, called for an executive session. When the vote does come, unless there is a decided change in the situation, Heflin is in for another defeat, just when things are breaking badly for him at home, too.

In a statement in the morning he warned against the counsel of those Alabama Democrats who want to keep the Hoover Democrats out. They would do the party no good, the senator declared. It is time for them all to get back under the tent.

But these Alabama regulars are determined to get Heflin's scalp and they believe they can do it if they can center on one man to run against him. It is such a situation as this that prompts the senator to make capital over the Brockton beer bottle throwing incident. The bottle missed the senator, according to his narrative, but struck his policeman bodyguard. Had it struck him, he insisted, it would have "crushed my skull."

Stelwer Gets in Thrust.

It was a show that lasted nearly two hours and during which Heflin, now crouched for a spring at those who would deny him freedom of speech, and again with his arms thrown tremblingly far above his head, ran through the full and oft-cited story of his anti-Catholic grievance.

It remained for the seldom-heard Senator Steiwer to get in the greatest thrust. He recalled Heflin's tilt a year ago with the Democratic leader, Senator Robinson, when Heflin, in a moment of abandon, lost in the melody of his words, said that if Robinson came into Alabama and made his tolerance speech he would be tarred and feathered. Steiwer wanted to know if there were any great difference, in principle, at least, in tarring and feathering a man and throwing an empty beer bottle at him.

But Heflin said that "facetiously," he insisted, just said it for fun; everybody knew he was saying it in fun. But there was nothing facetious about the empty beer bottle that made a bee line for him.

It was Watson, who as Republican leader, now has to undertake work that he would like to leave to other hands, who walked bravely out to meet Heflin in his greatest wrath. His colleagues were right proud of his courage and Watson held his ground, although the Alabaman pelted him with his most choice invectives.

Calls Watson "He-horse."

He couldn't understand "Jim Watson," he declared. Why Watson is a "He-horse of the Ku Klux Klan."

"A what?" the Indianian asked him.

"I understand," Heflin repeated, "that you are a 'he-horse' of the Ku Klux Klan."

"I do not belong to the klan," Watson calmly assured him.

Heflin insisted that Watson told him that if he would cut out the whereases he would have no objection to the resolution. And for fully two minutes the two stood facing each other, Watson saying "I assert that I did not," and Heflin, his expansive face red with rage, retorting "I assert that you did."

Vice President Curtis finally called Heflin down for being out of order. No one sought, however, to take him off his feet which presumably could have been done.

It was at the end that Borah gave Heflin an old-fashioned "Jim" Reed dressing down, although it was not of a nature to hurt Heflin as Reed used to do. Many of the Idaho senator's friends have expressed disappointment to him since the campign that he permitted himself to be introduced as a "great Protestant senator" at a time when the phrase meant so much, and the deep thinker that he is, there are indications that he has pondered over it.

At any rate, he was not a Protestant campaigner, or of any other creed, when he reached a dramatic oratorical flight yesterday. It was short and those who followed him were carried quickly to the top rung of the ladder and there left dangling for breath when he abruptly quit.

Borah declared that he did not think it did any good to be talking about religuious questions any more than it was absolutely necessary. If Heflin produced any testimony there was any occasion for a "Romanism-Americanism" issue, he declared he would be ready to meet it. The acts of individual Catholics here and there might be criticized, he said, and so could the acts of individuals of any other church.

But until he was shown otherwise he believed that the millions of Catholics in this country were loyal Americans.

Round Table Is Told Of Problems of Buyers

Changing fashions and styles have changed materially the complex of department store buying to give the customer what he wants when he wants it, Washington Round Table members were told at their weekly luncheon yesterday at the University Club by W. W. Everett, retiring president of the Board of Trade and vice president of Woodward & Lothrop.

Mr. Everett, in discussing "The Modern Department Store," spoke of the specialization of the 48 buyers in the organization he represents and their close contact with the products of foreign markets, which, he pointed out, could be duplicated by American manufacturers if they desired.

Postoffice Padlocking Baffles Dry Officials

New Orleans, April 24 (A.P.).—The question of whether a postoffice can be padlocked confronted prohibition officials here today in the case of John Draube, who operates a store postoffice at the village of Harahan.

A court order initiating padlock proceedings has been issued for Draube, who is charged with violating the liquor law, but officials were uncertain whether they were empowered to enforce the padlock if it is allowed by the court.

FLETCHER TO RETIRE FROM POST IN ROME

American Ambassador Said Not to Desire Paris or Philippine Honor.

U. S. DIPLOMAT 27 YEARS

Henry P. Fletcher, Ambassador to Rome, is soon to retire, returning to the United States when President Hoover has appointed a successor.

Since serving as a private with the Rough Riders in Cuba in 1898 and with Volunteer Infantry in the Philippines, Mr. Fletcher has devoted the last 27 years to the more peaceful pursuits of the diplomatic service, living abroad since the turn of the century in more than a dozen diplomatic capacities.

Ambassador Fletcher came to the United States last year with the purpose of resigning, but was buoyed up by speculation that insisted on making him Secretary of State. Then Secretary Kellogg delegated him to accompany the Hoover good-will tour of Latin-America, and hopes of appointive honors mounted. These have died down now, and Mr. Fletcher is anxious to get out.

He has been urged by friends to run for the Senate from Pennsylvania and by other friends that he make himself available to become Governor General of the Philippines. He is reported from Rome as being annoyed at reports that he is quitting his post chiefly to take up another candidacy.

Rome, April 24 (U.P.).—American Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher said today he would not be a candidate for appointment as Governor of the Philippines or as Ambassador to France after his retirement from his present post. Fletcher is a great favorite in diplomatic circles here, and Premier Mussolini congraulated him when he returned to Rome after accompanying President Hoover to South America.

STRANGER GETS RICH MISSING MAN'S CASH

Wealthy Doctor Vanishes in New York; Order Signed by Him Honored.

MAY BE KIDNAP VICTIM

New York, April 23 (United Press).—Dr. Charles Brancati, wealthy Italian physician who owned and lived in the famous old Gouverneur Morris mansion in New York, has dropped from sight and with his disappearance as unusual a mystery as deep as any fiction writer could concoct has arisen to harass the New York police.

Mr. Brancati was last seen at 8 a. m. November 19 when he left the mansion where he and his brother maintained bachelor apartments, saying he had been called to visit a friend. Since that day, investigation has revealed, at least $225,000 has been drawn by a man who held papers empowering him to act for Dr. Brancati, from his $500,000 account with the brokerage firm of Hardy & Co. But today, after two weeks of secret search, detectives admitted they had as little idea where the man who drew the money might be as they did of the whereabouts of Dr. Brancati himself.

Successful as Investor.

The physician, who was in his forties, was a leading practitioner among the wealthy Italians of New York. After building his prosperous medical practice, he had invested in real estate, holding some 20 valuable parcels of New York property, largely in the Bronx. He also had speculated in the stock market with much success, rolling up a fortune believed to run well over a million dollars. The Gouverneur Morris mansion alone was worth $400,000 and his account with his broker involved a half million in cash, stocks and securities.

There had been nothing unusual in his activities immediately preceding his disappearance, according to his friends. They had remarked that he seemed to have left rather suddenly when several of them received telegrams cancelling appointments, but for a time little was thought of his absence.

Then a man appeared at the brokerage house with a paper, apparently well authenticated and bearing what was identified as Dr. Brancati's signature, authorizing the bearer to act for the doctor in financial matters.

The bearer of the paper began drawing against the account until he had transferred a total of $225,000 from the broker's office to an Italian bank in Mulberry street. At the bank he had given a midtown address, and had conducted himself in a manner which did not arouse suspicion.

Man Leaves No Trail.

But detectives, tracing this man, found that all of the $225,000 he had deposited in the bank had been checked out excepting $269 which still remains. It had been paid out in amounts of from $10,000 to $25,000 at a time, usually in cash.

Then, detectives who went to the address given at the bank, found the man who had the account had lived there only a few days, having rented a single room. No one knew anything about him nor was it known where he had gone.

Three letters, detectives found, had come here purporting to be from Dr. Brancati. But examination showed they were crudely worded, hardly after the manner of the physician, who was well educated. The signatures seemed genuine, however. Two of these letters had been mailed in Canada and the third in London. One, to a banker friend, gave assurance that the doctor was safe and asked that if any demands for money were made by anyone on his account that the demands be honored. Another, to his brother, Ercola, was of similar import. A third, to a friend, gave assurances of Brancati's well-being.

Tracing Letters Futile.

Attempts to trace these letters have led to nothing in the way of valuable information.

The brother, Ercola, placed the matter in the hands of the police two weeks ago. He had first attempted to solve the mystery himself. Police have worked secretly for a fortnight on the case without result. Today the first word of it was given to the public.

Numerous theories were offered in explanation of the disappearance. Friends of the doctor fear that he has been kidnaped and is being held, probably in Europe, by his captors, while they reduce his fortune to ruin by means of orders and letters which they are forcing the doctor to sign. Police, while not yet ready to accept the kidnaping theory entirely, admit their belief that in it may rest the final solution.

Hoover Asks Fund To Fight Fruit Fly

$4,250,000 Urged on Congress to Combat Pest Peril in Florida.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover recommended to Congress yesterday that $4,250,000 be made available to "meet the grave emergency due to the presence of the Mediterranean fruit fly in certain sections of the State of Florida."

The recommendation, transmitted by the President to the House, suggested that the amount remain available until June 30, 1930, for necessary expenses "in connection with the eradication, control and prevention of the spread of this pest."

Representative Green (Democrat), Florida, said he had been assured by House leaders that there would be no difficulty in getting the House within the next few days to pass legislation to carry out the recommendation of the Chief Executive.

"Dapper Dan" Faces New Prison Term

Alleged Ace of Confidence Men Is Convicted of $30,000 Swindle.

Paterson, N. J., April 24 (U.P.).—"Dapper" Dan Collins, conqueror of feminine hearts and alleged ace of confidence men, heard from a woman's lips today the verdict on which he will be sentenced for swindling Thomas Weber, of Egg Harbor, out of $30,000.

The suavity and witticisms of the defendant failed him at the time he needed them most, and a jury, which included eight women, found him guilty of operating a spurious stock selling scheme. He faces three years' imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

Dapper Dan went down fighting. Glib observations enlightened his defense to the last. He was his own star witness and appeared to enjoy it thoroughly.

COAST GUARD IS HIT FOR FIRING ON SHIPS

Senator Bingham, in Speech, Points Out Great Danger of Complications.

COUNSELS MORE CAUTION

By ALBERT W. FOX.

While awaiting the diplomatic exchanges between the Canadian government and the Government of the United States on the I'm Alone case, there was an unexpected development yesterday in the Senate here which has a bearing on the recent activities of the Coast Guard liquor patrol ships and which will be particularly noted in Canada.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, administration senator and strong advocate of law enforcement and the protection of American rights in the international field, charged that these Coast Guard liquor patrol ships were exceeding every ordinary principle of reason by shooting up merchant ships on the high seas and warned the Senate that very serious international complications will arise unless the Government puts a curb on certain of their present activities. The senator from Connecticut came close to asserting that these Coast Guard liquor patrol ships are beginning to virtually run amuck in the use of their shot and shell directed against merchant craft.

Thus, an unusual situation was presented where Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, was protesting against the action of the Coast Guard ships in sinking a Canadian schooner on the high seas, with loss of life, and a United States senator was simultaneously protesting against the action of Coast Guard ships in endangering the lives of American nationals by gun fire unjustified and without provocation.

Senator Bingham based his charge of promiscuous and unwarranted use of shells against merchant ships on the high seas on the case of the American collier Tad Jones, named after the famous Yale football star. The facts and been communicated to him from the officers of that ship, he said, but the defense of the extraordinary action had not yet come from the officers of the Coast Guard vessel Seneca, as that ship so far had made no report. Mr. Bingham urged the Senate to suspend judgment until both sides were heard from, but he said the reported circumstances were so unusual that he felt it his duty to call the matter to the Senate's attention without delay.

The Tad Jones was proceeding from Norfolk to New Haven with coal, the senator said, and was 50 miles out at sea when the officer on the bridge noted that a ship, which turned out to be a Government liquor patrol ship, was blowing her siren incessantly. The captain of the Tad Jones had been up all night on duty and was asleep at this time. The officer went below to awaken him when he noted signals from the approaching vessel. The captain came on deck, but before he had an opportunity to understand or answer the signals solid shots began falling perilously close to the collier, one shot coming within an eyelash of killing the mate. Apparently it was only by rare good fortune that the ship was not sunk with loss of life before the captain even knew what was transpiring.

"Apparently they enjoy firing shots just as well as small boys do," Senator Bingham said. "They like to hear the noise. One shot very nearly killed the mate."

The patrol ship then came alongside, the senator continued, and the process of examining the papers began. No irregularity was found. No charge was made, but the Coast Guard officers were arrogantly dictatorial, Mr. Bingham indicated, ordering the captain to keep his ship where she was until the Coast Guard ship had gotten under way.

"In our zeal to enforce the law we are likely to cause serious complications," Senator Bingham warned. If a lumbering American collier can be fired upon without the slightest provocation while plying from one American port to another, a foreign ship may be treated in the same fashion, and when this occurs there may be real trouble, the senator continued.

If Coast Guard ships to prevent smuggling can hold up ships on the high seas in the manner demonstrated there is no reason why these Coast Guard vessels should not attempt to hold up great European liners and insist upon searching some passenger suspected of having forbidden diamonds, the senator pointed out.

"Every one knows if that should take place there would be serious international complications," continued Senator Bingham.

"It seems to me that things have come to a pretty pass when a collier going from one American port to another is subjected to gunfire without any excuse whatever. It is a very sad commentary on the situation."

Senator Bingham concluded with an appeal for "a little more reasonableness and common sense" by the Coast Guard, and added that a protest should be made and that orders should be immediately issued to the Coast Guard to cease the unreasonable practices being indulged in.

HOWARD SAYS LOAN OF $2,000 RECEIVED

Mississippi Leader Admits Writing Indorsement Day After Getting Check.

DECLARES SUM REPAID

Meridian, Miss., April 24 (A.P.).—Only attorneys' arguments remained tonight to be heard before the jury receives the case of Perry W. Howard, negro Republican national committeeman from Mississippi, and three others charged with conspiracy to barter the southern Mississippi United States marshal office.

The defense closed its case after Howard had been questioned most of the day and the prosecution had examined six witnesses on rebuttal in regard to the alleged sale of the office to James G. Buchanan, one of the defendants, for $2,000. The others on trial are George F. McClelland, former Newton postmaster, and Ed L. Patton, negro politician.

The versions of Buchanan and Howard on the money transaction were related today by the two on the stand. Each refuted the argument of the Government that the $2,000 was provided in return for Howard's indorsement of Buchanan for marshal. Howard asserted the money was a loan to assist him with his Washington finances and was repaid. He testified that at the time he did not know that Buchanan put up the money which was delivered to him by McClelland in July, 1927, while Buchanan maintained that the sum was not loaned in connection with the appointment.

Lester G. Pant, Untied States attorney, obtained from Howard the admission that he was given a postdated check for $1,000 by McClelland in Washington on July 27, 1927, and that the recommendation for Buchanan's appointment was written the following day.

Buchanan testified the $2,000 was loaned by him to McClelland and admitted he knew at the time that it was to be made over subsequently to Howard. He denied that he was seeking appointment as marshal.

Howard at the time was an Assistant Attorney General at a salary of $6,000 a year and maintained national Republican headquarters in Washington for reception of negro members of the party.

The prosecution introduced statements from Commercial Bank at Washington showing that Howard's net worth had dwindled from $48,378.28 on March 3, 1926, to a balance of $518.95 last Saturday.

Federal Attorney Hints at Sensation

Florida Prosecutor Resigns; Promises to Stir "Nation-Wide Attention."

Jacksonville, April 24 (A.P.).—Issuance of a statement which he said would "create nation -wide attention" regarding the shake-up in the office of United States district attorney here, was promised tonight by Francis L. Poor, senior assistant district attorney, after he had telegraphed his immediate resignation to the Department of Justice in Washington.

Poor's resignation was to become effective today simultaneously with the resignation of William M. Gober, who recently announced he had quit the post of United States attorney for the Southern District of Florida.

The statement was promised by Poor when "certain pending cases are ended so the public may be fully informed concerning them." It was intimated that Poor was referring to the case of Representative M. Alfred Michaelson, of Chicago, who was indicted by a Federal grand jury here last fall on charges of liquor law violation. Michaelson's trial is set for May 6, at Key West.

REBELS AT MASIACA BOMBED BY PLANES

Insurgents Believed Making Last Stand, Says Calles; Sonora Line Closed.

GUNBOAT SHELLS TRAINS

Mexico City, April 24 (U.P.).—Federal planes have continued the bombardment of rebel troops entrenched at the city of Masiaca, Minister of War Calles informed the government today in a message dated Tuesday. Calles said the rebels apparently were determined to make their last stand at Masiaca.

The federal cavalry meanwhile had pursued a small force of rebels to Agua Caliente in Sonora, in an attempt to force a conflict, he added.

Calles said Gen. Juan Almazan, leading 10,000 troops, was now en route to Sonora from Chihuahua State, going through the Pulpito Canyon. Almazan was scheduled to reach Las Varas ranch today.

The federal gunboat, Bravo, anchored in Guaymas Harbor, on the Sonora coast, bombarded several rebel trains attempting to cross the railroad trestle from Empalme, the government announced. The cruiser Progresso continued its patrol along the coast.

Nogales, Ariz., April 24 (A.P.).—The international line here was closed suddenly, without explanation, by Mexican officials shortly after midnight. No persons were allowed to pass in either direction. The order was made to include United States border officials who sought to enter Sonora to discover the reason for the move.

LINDBERGH PREDICTS BIG 4 MOTOR AEROS

Safer and More Comfortable Planes Coming Shortly, Asserts Colonel.

SEES AIR-RAIL SERVICE

New York, April 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Giant four-motored airliners will soon supplant the luxurious trimotored "flying Pullmans," which are now considered the "last word" in equipment on air lines of the United States, Charles A. Lindbergh, technical adviser of Transcontinental Air Transport and Pan-American Airways, told a group of reporters today at the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics here.

"They will have greater carrying capacity, add considerably to present high safety factors in flying and be much more comfortable for the flying public," he said. "This arrangement, with the engines located at a distance from the cabin on either side, will greatly reduce noise and vibration in the passenger compartment and keep the cabin entirely free from gasoline fumes or burned gas odors from the motors."

He said he expected to see such ships in operation before long and indicated they would be used eventually in the air-rail system which T. A. T. expects to inaugurate between New York and Los Angeles July 1. In speaking of proposed night-flying planes to be put in service on this same route later, he said that he saw no reason "why passengers won't sleep at night on planes, because I have noticed that most of them pass their time that way in the daytime on long flights."

RUM ENTERING CITY FREELY, PECK SAYS

RUNNERS ARE DESPERATE

Capt. Charles T. Peck, commander of the Eleventh Police Precinct, yesterday told Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, that he had been correctly quoted in substance in recent newspaper stories that rum running into the District from southern Maryland had not decreased since enactment of the Jones law.

Furthermore, the captain said, it is true that the rum runners, faced with the drastic penalties of the Jones law, have become more desperate in their determination to evade capture, and the use of smoke screens on liquor cars, which had been on the decrease, has increased since enactment of the Jones law.

The captain's statements were contained in a report sent to Maj. Pratt in response to an inquiry from the superintendent asking if Peck had been correctly quoted in the newspapers.

Peck cited Constable A. C. Johnson, of Marlboro, Md., as one of his authorities for the statement that smoke screens were being made and put on liquor cars in increasing numbers, and declared that several of his men had experienced the results in chases after suspected liquor cars inside the District. The veteran police captain named Lieut. S. J. Marks, Sergt. G. M. Little and Privates M. Znamenacek, C. O. Rouse, M. Chmylko, M. Deakins, S. H. Miles, J. J. Tolson, C. E. Ripperger, B. R. Campbell, A. J. Walters and Guy Rone as among the officers and men who had run into smoke screens in pursuit of suspected machines.

Peck's report was written before the chase which early yesterday resulted in the killing of one man and the capture of another by police who said they found quantities of liquor in the automobile which had emitted a dense smoke screen when the police took up their pursuit.

Peck declared that since March, one automobile had been captured with a smoke-screen device attached and in working order, and five others had been altered for smoke-screen attachments. Officers of his precinct have seized 1,670 quarts of whisky, charged 15 persons with illegal transportation, 19 with illegal possession, 2 with sale and have brought about the padlocking of one establishment during that period.

The captain, however, denied that he had criticized the Jones law, or had advocated the free use of guns by policemen in pursuit of suspected liquor cars.

MUNICIPAL CENTER MAY BE ACCELERATED

meantime, the District Building would continue to be used by the local government until a new structure is ready in the center.

The time is eventually coming when the site now occupied by the District Building will have to be taken over by the Federal Government and made a part of the triangle in which a number of monumental Federal buildings are to be constructed. Simmons thinks it would be good for the Federal Government to purchase the building at once and thus make it possible for the District to start putting up its new buildings. When the time arrives the Federal Government must have the District Building, the new District building will have been completed and the transfer of employes could be accomplished without difficulty.

The Simmons bill for the purchase of four squares between Judiciary Square and Pennsylvania avenue was passed at the last Congress, and it is expected that the money will be made available at the next regular session. The District already has a surplus in the treasury, Simmons pointed out, and the necessary money could be drawn from that.

A municipal center is badly needed here, it is claimed. Not only are the various activities scattered, but the District Building and other municipal structures are limited in space.

At one time it was planned to build an annex to the present District Building, but this idea was abandoned when the Federal Government decided that it would need the site in the future.

into a derrick. In the meantime, he said, Stevens began pumping and laying a barrage of smoke on the road.

The two cars sped down Eleventh street, with the police automobile scarcely fifteen feet behind, although the policemen were almost blinded by the smoke, they said. Rouse emptied his revolver at the smoke-hidden machine.

Fifth Shot Kills Driver.

Four shots struck the left rear fender, puncturing the left rear tire. The fifth shot went high, passing through the top to strike Fleming's skull. Fleming slumped at the wheel.

The pursued car came to a quick halt on the up-hill grade and Stevens jumped from the car and ran, the police said. Stevens was captured in an alley in the block between Eleventh, Twelfth, I and K streets southeast, after a two-block chase.

Policeman C. F. Smith, of the Eleventh Precinct, who had been summoned by Campbell when Fleming was shot and the car halted, arrived and took Fleming to Casualty Hospital, where he died shortly afterward.

Rouse told Inspector Thaddeus A. Bean, who investigated, that he fired at the left rear tire, which he punctured, and the gas tank.

The bullet aimed low at the gas tank struck Fleming, he said.

Held Pending Inquest.

Rouse and Campbell were held yesterday at the precinct on a duty status, pending the holding of the inquest today.

Policeman C. R. Syndor, of the Eleventh Precinct, who aided in the foot race after the fleeing Stevens, fell and injured his right hand and knee and tore his pants, police reported. He was treated at the police medical clinic.

The pursued automobile, according to police records, was owned by Stevens. Sixteen cases, containing 284 quarts of corn whisky, were found in it, police said.

Policeman Campbell was exonerated in 1927 of a fatal shooting by a coroner's jury, sitting at the inquest into the death of Larry Hall, 21 years old, on July 10, 1927. Hall was shot by Campbell during an automobile chase through the Soldiers Home grounds. The automobile occupied by Hall and three other men was later found to have been stolen on July 9, 1927.

chased one, Weakley, for two miles across open fields. After a fight in which Barnes dislocated two knuckles of his right hand and Weakley received a bump on his forehead, Weakley was subdued and lodged at the Silver Spring substation.

The other two men escaped, but returned to the parked automobile, intent upon annoying the woman assistant, according to Barnes. She saw them approaching and by a quick getaway managed to elude them, driving to the Silver Spring substation. There she told police, who hurried to the scene and helped bring back Weakley.

Weakley admitted yesterday, according to police, that he and two companions had approached parked automobiles during the past week, but denied making attempts to extort money payments. He said they were acting out of curiosity. Police expect to place charges against Weakley.

Witness Testifies Deputy Sold Liquor

Others Tell of Paying "Hush" Money at Trial of Sheriff Falkner.

Birmingham, Ala., April 24 (A.P.).—Government witnesses today continued to add to the volume of testimony adduced at the trial of Sheriff Curtis J. Falkner and fifteen others on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, with accounts of payments of hush money to the officers for protection from arrest in their illicit operations.

E. S. Brantley, of Straven, testified today that on one occasion he bought liquor from a can supplied from the car of Deputy Sheriff Charlie Goodwin.

J. W. Williams, of Jefferson County, who said he was engaged in the liquor business in Shelby County for three years, ending in 1925, told of paying $25 weekly protection money "indirectly" to county officers.

Joe Nichols, of Oneonta, testified that while he was engaged in operating a still in Shelby County, he early received instructions to make weekly payments of $10 for protection to his outfit.

Isaac Jefferson, an admitted rum runner, testified late yesterday that on two occasions before starting out with truckloads of liquor for Birmingham, he had conferred with Sheriff Falkner on the advisability of the trips and had been told to "go ahead."

Discard of Traffic Bureau Advocated

Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Claim $18,000 Would Be Saved by Plan.

Abolition of the Traffic Bureau and placing of traffic control directly in the hands of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, Superintendent of Police, was urged last night by the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association, in a resolution to be presented to the District Commissioners and the District committee of the House.

Such a change would save $18,000 annually for District taxpayers, members of the association said in urging the change. The meeting was held last night at the Social Oyster Clubhouse, Twelfth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast. Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, spoke on citizens' activities.

The short business session was followed by a special program, arranged by Mrs. William A. Powers.

Supper and dancing followed.

Man Held on Assault Charge.

Police early last night arrested Arthur Pitcher, negro, 22 years old, of 780 Columbia road northwest, on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon in firing nine bullets through the front door of 3003½ Sherman avenue northwest, a house occupied by Sylvia Sonders. A short time earlier he was reported to have been enraged at the girl and her mother, Carrie Sonders

HARDY COURT CALLS ON MRS. M'PHERSON

Evangelist to Be Witness in an Attempt to Refute Judge's Testimony.

NIGHT SESSION ORDERED

Sacramento, Calif., April 24 (A.P.).—Efforts to break down the testimony of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy in his impeachment trial before the State Senate were begun today by the Assembly Board of Prosecutors. In order to push the hearing to a speedy conclusion it was agreed to hold a night session of the Senate court.

At the same time Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, next to Hardy the principal figure in the impeachment case, was summoned to reappear at Sacramento as soon as possible as a witness. She was excused last week when it was believed her testimony would not be needed.

Assemblyman William Hornblower cross-examined Hardy regarding the employment of detectives to investigate and disprove charges that Mrs. McPherson was on a romantic trip to Carmel, Calif., with Kenneth G. Ormiston, her temple radio operator, at the time she declared she was in the hands of kidnapers in Mexico. One of the impeachment articles accuses Hardy of aiding and advising the evangelist and receiving a "fee" for his services.

The prosecution introduced reports of detectives who investigated the Carmel angle of the "kidnaping case." Hardy, asked if he had received these reports at the time, replied that "I suppose I did." Efforts also were made to impeach his testimony that he did not know Judge J. H. Bardin, of Salinas, Calif., had been employed as one of the McPherson attorneys until he read about it in the newspapers.

Mrs. Clara McDonald and Mrs. Virla Kimball, mother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, who testified she produced a woman to pose as "Miss X," the radio operator's companion at Carmel, instead of Mrs. McPherson, were subpenaed today. The prosecutors expect these women to contradict the testimony of Roland R. Woolley, one of the McPherson attorneys, that he had never met Mrs. Wiseman-Sielaff until he was introduced to her in Hardy's office at the time the "Miss X" matter was discussed. Mrs. Wiseman-Sielaff previously testified Woolley knew her in Salt Lake City years ago.

Woman Swallows Drug; Is Expected to Recover

Mrs. Marie Deff, 23 years old, of apartment 3, 927 New York avenue northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital late yesterday afternoon for the effects of four poison tablets said by the police to have been taken with suicidal intent.

The young woman, whom police understand is separated from her husband, was found violently ill by another occupant of the apartment building, who summoned an ambulance. She was removed to Emergency and treated by Dr. J. E. Lewis, who said last night that her condition was undetermined, but that she probably would recover.

Annuities Puzzling War Debt Experts

Uncertainty in Paris Over Including Figures of the German Delegates.

Paris, April 24 (A.P.).—Whether there should be one or two sets of figures in the final report on German reparations of the second Dawes committee was the chief preoccupation of the experts of the committee today.

If there is to be only one, then the creditors must come to an agreement with the Germans. Otherwise, the schedules of annuities proposed by the allies in their memorandum and those offered by the Germans must be listed separately.

Although there are still some optimists who cling to the hope of finding a way to bring about a compromise, most of the persons connected with the conference have concentrated on preparation of their final report. The French and the Belgians remain firm in their determination to make no further reductions.

2 Killed in Moslem Riot.

Bombay, India, April 24 (A.P.).—Two persons were killed and eleven injured last night in a communal riot, when Moslems rushed a Hindu procession near a mosque. A silver idol was being carried in the procession.

MRS. LORRAINE WISEMAN-SIELAFF, witness in impeachment case of Superior Judge Hardy, at Los Angeles, says she plotted with judge to produce "Miss X" during Aimee Semple McPherson's disappearance.

FEVER ABOARD LINER IS LAID TO EXPOSURE

Three of Four Who Died Upon Cruise Marooned Long in African Rains.

PARTY REVEALS HARDSHIP

Paris, April 24 (A.P.).—Bringing a story of fever and death, passengers who cruised the coast of South America and Africa for several months in the steamship Duchess of Atholl were divided between London and Paris tonight.

Four of their original number were missing, victims of malignant malaria which some of the tourists contracted in overland tours to Victoria Falls and Krueger National Park.

Those who died were Henry Norweb, 68, of Roslyn Heights, N. J., on March 26; Dr. Edward Hardenbrook, 52, of Rochester, N. Y., on March 28; Luther Facey, 71, of Kingston, Jamaica, on March 30, and Mrs. Alice M. Ernecke, 46, of Hollywood, Calif., on April 1.

Toll of Severe Heat.

The four deaths had saddened the passengers. Many told of the oppressive heat, saying that it was from 96 to 100 in the shade at times and as high as 136 in the sun.

It was in this heat, and presumably bitten by insects in the interior of Africa, that seven passengers were stricken by fever. It was thought at first they suffered from sunstroke, but later it was determined their illness was malignant malaria. The three who recovered, after long illness, were Miss Wilhelmina H. Comstock, of Ottawa; William John Mills, of Toronto, and George A. Chandler, of Hartford, Conn.

Three of those who died and two of the other three who recovered were members of a party of 40-odd who were marooned by the sudden flooding of two rivers. They were drenched to the skin and were without food and drink for eighteen hours, part of which some spent in a picketed stockade built as a shelter against roving beasts, while the rest climbed trees and passed the night there.

Walk Miles in Mud.

A relief party eventually brought aid, but it was morning before the group was able to make its way back through the mud several miles to their train. Some of the women were in light slippers intended only for a short automobile ride.

The passengers said that the next week the malaria made its appearance.

Dr. Legras, Cherbourg public health officer, went aboard the Duchess of Atholl on her arrival and gave the ship a clean bill of health. He remarked upon the advanced age of most of those who contracted the malaria and said that, considering the length of the cruise and the high average age of all the passengers, the death rate had been below what might normally have been expected.

Library Burns in France.

POLICEMEN'S HOMES BOMBED; TWO SLAIN

New Crimes Cause Cleveland to Begin Bitter War on Gang Terrorism.

ONE SUSPECT ARRESTED

Cleveland, April 24 (A.P.).—Stirred by the bombing of two policemen's homes and the slaying of a pair of notorious gangsters here today, the Cleveland police department tonight was in the throes of a city-wide offensive against bootleggers and their killer associates.

"We'll meet this gangster reign of terror with a reign of terror of our own," Edwin D. Barry, safety director, instructed members of the police department.

Although criminals of all sorts were being sought in the clean-up, the center of the campaign was the search for the man who planted the bombs, who, police said, was a "master bomber," and for the gangsters who killed Morris Fuerstman and Isadore Shiller, two of their own forces.

None Injured by Blast.

Although the bomb blasts damaged two houses and gave the occupants a severe shaking up, no one was injured by them. Police said the bomber was an expert.

Bodies of the two slain gangsters were found in a ditch in the outskirts of the city. They had been garroted.

Police of Cleveland and Detroit said the killings were a new outbreaking of gang warfare, and were probably in retaliation for the killing last week in Detroit of Samuel Abramson, a professional bondsman with a long police record.

Morris Bronstein, alias Morris Assoline, sought by Detroit police for questioning in the killing last week of Abramson, was arrested in Cleveland today. Detroit police said the arrest of Bronstein and Bruce Moorise might yield a solution of the Cleveland killings today as well as clear up the death of Abramson.

The Bonds Forfeited.

Assoline and Moorise were arrested in Detroit recently in company with Fuerstman and Shiller. Bonds for release of the four were provided by Abramson, but were forfeited when the defendants failed to appear for trial. Abramson's death followed. He had been shot.

Arrest of the quartet followed an alleged attempt to kill Arthur Lingeman, a farmer, residing near Detroit. Lingeman found a truckload of liquor in his barn and turned it over to police. Later the four appeared at his house and demanded the liquor. Learning what had happened, they threatened to "get" him. He told police and the four were arrested charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The two policemen who were the objects of the bombings are Capt. William A. McMasters and Sergt. Patrick J. Holland. At the McMasters home part of the porch was torn away and windows were shattered.

Woman and Children Shaken.

Mrs. McMasters and two children, William, jr., 9, and Ruth, 3, were shaken severely. At the apartment house where Holland lived until four weeks ago the porches were damaged, windows broken and occupants of the building were thrown from their beds.

Police said the explosives probably had been hurled from automobiles. The blame was placed on bootleggers, however, because both of the officers have been unusually active in campaigns against liquor selling.

The safety director's orders to the police department as the clean-up started were to "give no quarter and expect none from our enemies."

"Police wrecking crews, backed, if necessary, by firemen with crowbars, axes and fire hose, will start to clean out all known bootlegging joints. Be prepared on the slightest provocation to tear the places down and break everything in them."

Shriners Bid $1 Each For Pennies of Boy

Helena, Mont., April 24 (A.P.).—Modernizing the biblical story of the widow's mite, a sack of pennies contributed by a 9-year-old youngster toward a fund for hospitalization of crippled children has grown an hundred fold.

Shrine members are collecting tinfoil as a part of a campaign to finance their hospital work at Spokane. The youngster, Jack Cottingham, appeared with a sackful of pennies. It was explained to him that money donations were not asked but he pleaded to be allowed to contribute. The little bag, with a letter from Jackie, was sent to Spokane. Members of the order present when the letter was read, bid a dollar apiece for the pennies.

Suit Would Restrain Use Of Trade Name of Store

David Danov, trading as the Parisian Fur Co., of 641 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, petitioned the District Supreme Court yesterday for an injunction to restrain M. Weinberg, of 831 Eleventh street northwest, from using a similar trade name.

The petitioner, through Attorney D. Edward Clarke, declared he has done business under the trade name for the last eleven years. In the last eighteen months, he said, Weinberg opened an establishment on Eleventh street under the names of the Parisian Fur Co., and the Parisian Fur Shop. The plaintiff declared that although he has notified Weinberg of the alleged infringement and that the trade name is patented, the defendant has declined to refrain from use of the name.

OIL MEN BACK PLAN OF FEDERAL BOARD

Petroleum Institute Agrees to Support Program of Conservation Under Compact.

WOULD LIMIT DRILLING

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—The American Petroleum Institute today fell into step with the Federal Oil Conservation Board's program of conservation. Directors of the institute voted unanimously to cooperate with the board in the promulgation of an interstate compact which would limit production by controling drilling.

In adopting the board's program the institute abandoned a plan of voluntary curtailment, which met with a suggestion from Attorney General Mitchell that it was in violation of the antirust laws when it was submitted to the Federal agency.

The immediate need of the oil industry, members of the institute said, was to curtail 1929 production to the 1928 level, but in abandoning the voluntary curtailment plan it was thought that any interstate compact secured would be lasting enough for production to be limited over a period of at least three and possibly six years.

Governors' Opinions Obtained.

In view of the possible adoption of its plan the conservation board already has sent Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the Geological Survey, to obtain opinions from the governors of various oil producing States on the type of legislation necessary. The institute learned today that Gov. Moody of Texas, has promised Dr. Smith his cooperation and has said he would recommend any changes in the present drilling laws of the State necessary to meet the requirements of an interstate compact.

Today's meeting lasted over four hours, during which the discussion centered principally around methods which the oil industry would use in cooperating with the Federal Government. There was some discussion, directors said, of going ahead with a voluntary curtailment and facing any court action the Government wished to take.

Others of the directors said such a course would only handicap real conservation and that since the institute had followed recommendations of the board over a course of four years it would continue to do so now. A number of directors declared their companies would not participate in any movement which appeared to be a violation of the antitrust laws.

Study of Legislation Urged.

Heads of the various oil producing companies were asked by the institute to begin an immediate study of legislation necessary to effect an interstate compact. The legal staff of the institute also will be asked to confer with the attorneys of the conservation board with a view to working out details of the compact.

Mark Requa, a member of the institute's board of directors and one of the country's leading conservationists, declared that the action of the institute was "the only rational one it could take."

"In my opinion," Mr. Requa said, "the decision of the institute will have a tremendous effect on the future development of the country. Its influence will not only affect the oil industry but every phase of American life."

R. C. Holmes, of the Texas Co., chairman of the committee which drew up the institute's conservation program, said that he was "very happy that the oil industry and the Government find themselves working side by side."

E. B. Reeser, president of the institute, also declared that he was "highly pleased over the action taken."

BELL IS EXONERATED IN DEATH OF SMITH

with him after the party, at which the guests were offered liquor to drink.

Police information was that Smith attempted to enter the taxi that Bell had called to escort Mrs. Brown to her hotel and that Bell struck him, knocking him to the sidewalk. After Bell had driven Mrs. Brown away Smith was arrested by a policeman who charged him with drunkenness. The charge was suspended the same day in court and Smith went to his hotel, where he died.

Bell contended he did not strike Smith but merely pushed him.

The driver of the taxi cab in which Bell escorted Mrs. Brown home fainted while being questioned after Smith's arrest and has been in Bellevue Hospital since. He was ordered detained still further today for additional interrogation, the purpose of which was not revealed.

Army Plans Attack On Langley Field

Destruction of Air Center to Be Aim of Maneuvers in May.

Newport News, Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Langley Field is to be the object of attack in extensive general maneuvers of aircraft in this section May 1, 2 and 3, Army officials announced today. An attacking force based at Richmond theoretically will attempt the destruction of the local post, while antiaircraft guns located at Fort Story, near Cape Henry, will attempt to break down the attack in day and night maneuvers. Army officials say the whole maneuver will be based on the working out of defense of Langley Field by antiaircraft guns, presupposing no defense of the field by airplane.

Engaged in the problem will be 36 airplane pilots with a squadron of nine bombing planes from Langley Field, six pursuit planes from Selfridge Field and three from Langley, with three attack ships from the local field.

MEMORIAL SUCCESS HAILED BY NEGROES

Congressional Approval of Building Here Celebrated at Church Session.

MANY GROUPS ATTEND

More than 2,000 persons, white and colored, attended the "victory celebration" last night at the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church, under auspices of the National Memorial Association, celebrating the recent act of Congress in approval of the bill for erection of a national memorial building here as a tribute to the negro's contribution to the achievements of America.

Representatives who sponsored the measure—Will R. Wood, J. Will Taylor and Maurice H. Thatcher—addressed the gathering, as did Judge Wendell P. Stafford, of the Supreme Court of the District; the Rev. Walter H. Brooks and Matthew Henson, negro Washingtonian who accompanied Peary for 30 years in the Arctic regions and is the only man alive today of those who discovered the North Pole on April 6, 1909.

The exercises were participated in by the Health Unit of Columbia Temple of Colored Elks, a service detachment from Fort Myer, naval guards escorting Henson, Spanish War Veterans, American Legion posts, representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Women's Relief Corps of the Department of the Potomac. Mrs. Julia West Hamilton, presiding, introduced Ferdinand D. Lee, president of the memorial association, as master of ceremonies.

Letters and telegrams of commendation and approval of the memorial project were read from Senator Theodore E. Burton, Representative Oscar DePriest, George Akerson, Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Arthur J. Klein, Newton D. Baker, Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, Bishop Eugene E. Stevens, Henry Allen Boyd, H. S. Howard, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, William Tyler Page, Charles W. Darr and Charles Moore, of the Commission of Fine Arts.

Stebbins, Theater Man, Critically Ill

Former Director of Capital Playhouse Is Operated On in Detroit.

S. J. Stebbins, widely known theatrical man, who for many months was managing director of the Fox Theater in this city and more recently has been serving in the same capacity at the Fox Theater in Detroit, Mich., underwent a major operation in Detroit yesterday and is in grave condition, according to word received in the Capital last night.

Mr. Stebbins two weeks ago was stricken with a recurrence of a kidney ailment from which he suffered while in Washington and yesterday his condition became so acute that physicians concluded an immediate operation was necessary. While Mr. Stebbins seemed to have reacted satisfactorily from the knife at last report, attending physicians still viewed his condition as critical and were unanimous in their opinion that the crisis in his illness would not be passed until today.

"Jack" Stebbins is looked upon as one of the most successful "trail blazers" in the theater business. His specialty is the opening of new houses and the systematization of their conduct both out front and back stage. He has been associated with the William Fox organization for a quarter-century.

LEGISLATURE CALLS JERSEY CITY MAYOR

Frank Hague, Who Defied Committee, Summoned to Joint Session.

REFUSAL TO REPLY SEEN

Trenton, N. J., April 24 (A.P.).—The Legislature today adopted a concurrent resolution authorizing a subpena to be issued for Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City directing him to appear before the bar of a joint session Monday, June 24.

The measure, introduced by Senator Albert R. McAllister, chairman of the legislative investigating committee which has made an extensive inquiry into charges of political corruption in Jersey City and Hudson County, Hague's Democratic strongholds, was approved by the large Republican majority in the Senate and House, the Democrats refusing to vote.

Hague, head of the Democratic organization in New Jersey and Eastern vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, appeared before the McAllister committee last month and refused to answer questions which he deemed his private affairs and "none of the committee's business." Today's action was taken so that the questions Hague ignored might be asked him again.

Senator Alexander Simpson and Assemblyman Morris E. Barison, both of Hudson, minority leaders in the Senate and Assembly, respectively, said that it was their belief that Hague would obey the subpena and present himself at the date set.

"And when he gets on the stand before the Legislature," Simpson predicted, "he will not answer the questions because they concern his private affairs, he will say, 'Tag, you'er it,' and then there will be another habeas corpus."

The Jersey City Mayor was arrested on charge of contempt of the 1928 Legislature when he refused to appear before the investigating committee last October, but he sued out a writ of habeas corpus in the Court of Chancery and avoided answering the charge. The writ was recently sustained by the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Hughes Urges U. S. To Get Into Court

Tells the International Law Society Nation Should Become Member.

(Associated Press.)

Comprehensive arguments favoring the entrance of the United States into the World Court were offered by Charles Evans Hughes in his address last night opening the twenty-third annual meeting of the American Society of International Law. Mr. Hughes is president of the society.

In his speech on the subject of "Institutions of Peace," Mr. Hughes emphasized that judicial action is the indispensible requisite of any legal order. He said this fact had been stressed by the negotiation and ratification of the Kellogg antiwar treaty, which he described as the outstanding event of the year.

James Brown Scott, vice president of the society, in an exposition of the significance of the Vatical-Italian accord, said that it would not be astonishing if, in the course of a few years, the city of the Vatican should become the world's center of mediation.

GIRL FLIER SETS NEW ENDURANCE RECORD

that would have proved a strain to veteran men pilots twice her age.

Yet Elinor, of the flying family of Smiths, who learned aviation from her father at the age of 14 and who now teaches him the fine points of the art, still retained enough alertness of mind to banter and wisecrack in the best tradition of American youth.

"What do you know?" was the first thing she said to her father.

"You'll find out when you get home," replied the elder Smith, adding with a grin. "Where were you between 5:30 and 8 o'clock this morning?"

"Down at Montauk Point," she answered. "The air was better down there."

A newspaper man asked what she did to pass the time.

"I read 'Tom Sawyer Abroad,'" she said, "almost through."

A field physician examined her and said she had stood the strain of the record-making flight very well. Her entire diet consisted of one tomato, a few oranges and several drinks of water.

There were anxious moments shortly after dawn today when the flying flapper of Freeport dropped a note to her parents and officials at the field informing them that the plane had developed serious trouble.

"The stabilator has gone haywire," wrote Elinor. "Can't wind it back. Have both arms wrapped about the stick. It was a tough night, but it won't be long now."

Emil Burgin, one of the field pilots, went up to keep her company shortly before noon, taking several passengers. On the side of his plane was painted, "At 24 hours now," informing Elinor she had equaled Mrs. McPhetridge's record.

The party threw kisses to the girl. In mock coyness, she covered her face with her hands.

On past noon she flew and well into the afternoon, hoping to hang up a record that would stay for a while, one that she could not be beaten out of by a matter of minutes.

When only 2 gallons of the original 209 were left in her tanks she glided down to a cheering throng of congratulators.

Her eyes showed she was tired, but when asked if she had been cold during the night she only blushed and exchanged an understanding smile with her father.

"No," he answered for her; "Ellie was nice and warm this time. She had her heavies on. Mother and I saw to that before we let her start."

Rivals to Make New Try.

Bentonville, Ark., April 24 (A.P.).—Louise McPhetridge, of Oakland, Calif., whose endurance flight record for women was broken today by Elinore Smith, sent word to her mother here that she and Bobby Trout, of Los Angeles, would attempt in June to surpass the endurance record of the plane Question Mark. The flight will be made, Miss McPhetridge said, in a specially constructed plane now being built at Wichita, Kans.

Miss McPhetridge also advised her mother she and Miss Trout will enter the air derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland this fall.

Pittsburgh, April 24 (A.P.).—Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic Ocean by air, today congratulated Elinor Smith, 17, who now holds the world's endurance flight record for women. "Congratulations. You're famous," was the brief message sent by Miss Earhart.

As for herself, Miss Earhart said that since her transatlantic flight she had been congratulated three times for swimming the English Channel and had been pointed out once as "the woman who had swum the Atlantic Ocean."

DE KING NEVER SOLD RUM, SAYS NEIGHBOR

Filling Station Owner, on Premises, Tells Jury He Supplied Buyers.

SAW MYSTERY WITNESSES

Geneva, Ill., April 24 (A.P.).—Joseph De King, whose wife was killed a month ago by dry raiders, never sold liquor at his home, the Kane County grand jury was told today. George Stafford, who operated a gasoline filling station on the De King premises on the outskirts of Aurora, Ill., testified he had never been in the liquor business with De King.

He told the grand jury of the visit of the six deputy sheriffs, of their loading the guns before entering the De King home, of their remarking that they were going "to get De King." He testified he had frequently sold liquor to Philip Johnston, but that De King had nothing to do with it. Johnston bought the liquor March 16 on which the search warrant was issued for the raid on the De King home.

Recalled by the State's attorney to tell of being taken to the De King home by Eugene Boyd Fairchild, dry investigator, and of his purchase of the liquor, Johnston sat outside the grand jury room most of the day. He had a poor memory yesterday in regard to certain facts and State's Attorney George D. Carbary thought further questioning might improve his memory.

Although relatives of De King testified De King was in Moline March 16, Johnston testified he saw him when he bought the liquor. Johnston could not remember, however, who sold him the liquor.

An element of mystery entered the investigation when ten men from Warrenville, Batavia and Glen Ellyn strode silently into the courtroom and took positions outside the grand jury room. Although no information was forthcoming as to why they had been called, it was believed they would be asked about buying liquor at the De King home.

Most of the day was taken up with examination of Stafford, Joseph De King and his father, John. Joseph related in dramatic fashion the visit of the deputies the night of March 25, their attack on him and the shooting of his wife. Before he fell unconscious, De King said, he heard two shots, saw the flash from a gun and heard his wife scream. He remembered no more until revived some time later.

Inquiry Demanded In Woman's Death

Coroner Refuses to Issue a Certificate; Slashed on Maryland Farm.

Mrs. Joseph Rustka, 50-year-old farm woman of St. Marys City, Md., who was brought to Providence Hospital by a neighbor Tuesday night in critical condition with her throat slashed, died late yesterday afternoon at the hospital. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt withheld a certificate of death because of the pecular circumstances surrounding her death.

Because her husband, who found her lying in the woods behind their home, would not accompany her to a hospital, the certificate will not be issued until the death is investigated by Maryland authorities, Coroner Nevitt said.

She was brought to Washington by James Goddard, a neighbor, who told Policeman J. E. Bennett, of the Fifth Precinct, that a red-handled razor, identified by Rustka as belonging to him, was found 50 feet from the woman. She was given emergency treatment at the office of Dr. P. J. Beane, at Great Mills, Md. At Providence Hospital she was unable to explain her injury.

Sat on Governor's Lap, Says Hula Girl

Dancer Testifies to Long's Attendance at Party in Studio.

Baton Rouge, La., April 25 (A.P.).—Testimony that Gov. Huey P. Long sat on a divan with a girl hula hula dancer on his lap and a glass in his hand the night the Louisiana National Guard raided alleged gambling places near New Orleans on his orders, was heard tonight by the Louisiana House of Representatives. Five impeachment counts against the youthful executive were voted late today, and previously two other charges had been certified to the Senate, which will try him.

Testimony on the alleged hula hula party was given in connection with the charge against Long of gross misconduct in public places. A. D. Danziger, president of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, was host at the party given late on the night of February 13, at his studio apartment in the French quarter. He said the dancer failed to pay particular attention to the governor, and that drinks were served, but although he saw Long with a glass he could not say whether he drained it.

The entertainer, however, Helen Clifford, who said she danced the hula hula, declared she sat on the governor's lap as she finished a number, "about a minute. He had his arm about my neck," she declared.

since its establishment of the New York to Florida mail route last May 1.

As soon as it was possible for him to reach the Home of the Aged after the accident, which caused tense excitement in Alexandria, a number of persons seeing the flares and the falling plane, Treat called Ray at Bolling Field.

As soon as Ray learned of the crackup, he called for a reserve plane from Richmond, which he expected within an hour. The reserve plane, Ray said, would be utilized to carry the mail on to Atlanta.

First reports had it from Alexandria that the plane had fallen into the Potomac River and that two persons were seen to jump in parachutes. Search for the persons who were supposed to have jumped was started, but this was stopped when Ray informed them that Treat, the only person in the plane, had landed safely.

District Woman Again Heads Girl Scouts Area

Norfolk, Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frederick Brooks, of Washington, was reelected chairman of region 3, Girl Scouts of America, at the concluding session of the tenth annual conference of the region here today.

Philadelphia was selected as convention site for the eleventh annual regional conference, which will meet next year in April, it is expected. The choice of a name for the region, which now is designated only by a number, was left undecided and referred again to the various scout councils in the region, which embraces Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and District of Columbia.

Dispensary League Urges Home Liquor

New Regulation Displacing Volstead Law Sought in Resolutions.

Substitution of legislation for the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act by Congress to permit manufacture and sale of wines, beers and spirits for home consumption was urged by the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League, Inc., in resolutions unanimously adopted, according to announcement by its newly appointed national executive committee yesterday.

The action, taken at a reorganization meeting of the league at Congress Hall, likewise emphasized other major aims of the organization, including opposition to all legislation permitting return of the saloon, creation of a public opinion favoring temperance and promotion of legislation by States supplementary to a Federal dispensary plan.

Rice Hooe was elected chairman of the national executive committee; Joseph McReynolds, first vice chairman; Leo P. Harlow, second vice president; F. W. Proffit, treasurer, and Elmer F. Nagel, recording secretary, all of Washington.

Canoeists Carried Over Dam; Boy Is Drowned

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., April 24.—The first drowning victim of the season here was Charles, aged 17, son of Thomas B. Jones, member of the city fire department, who today with Aloysius Cellner, son of William Cellner, plunged over the dam in the Potomac here in a rented canoe.

They were caught in a current and drawn over the edge. Cellner says Jones stood up when the canoe went over and was thrown out. He remained in the boat and paddled it ashore. He later saw Jones standing waist deep in water, but as he had told him he could swim, he directed his efforts toward getting the canoe to shore.

Mt. Tamalpais

Very low round trip fares this summer on all railroads to San Francisco

. . . sentinel of the Golden Gate across from San Francisco. . . .

A VIEW that encompasses almost a third of northern California may be enjoyed within two hours of San Francisco. Mt. Tamalpais, accessible by motor, train or trail, lifts her crest 2590 feet above the bay. The bay with all its arms and inlets and the Golden Gate are an open page before you. San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Sausalito and a score of lovely towns and villages are spread out at your feet. Then at the foot of this spire is a primeval forest of giant redwoods where never a tree has been commercially logged. One thousand to fifteen hundred years old, rising two hundred and fifty to three hundred and forty feet high, they cast their shade on lovely trails. Thousands of travelers have declared this to be one of the most beautiful one-day mountain trips in all the world.

SAN FRANCISCO

AMERICA'S COOLEST SUMMER CITY

Your headquarters city for your California vacation is an ideal summer city. The average summer temperature is 59°. No summer rain will mar a single day. On every hand are highways and rail lines leading to California's wonders—Yosemite, Lake Tahoe, Lassen Volcanic National Park, the Redwoods, Monterey Peninsula and a hundred other beauty spots.

To the south of San Francisco are broad beaches, orange groves covering the valleys and foothills, old missions and the headquarters of the motion picture industry, while northward are the "Evergreen Playground," the Puget Sound Country, the valley of the giant Columbia River, Crater Lake, and Mt. Shasta. Plan to see the entire Pacific Coast either by side trips from San Francisco or as you return home at the end of your finest summer.

Come this summer to find a new kind of vacation. You may find, too, as thousands of others have, a better place in which to live in this land of opportunity. San Francisco is destined to be greater than the New York of today, say wise prophets. Come and see.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

BOATMEN SAVE 20 STRANDED ON LEVEE

South Quincy Residents Are Rescued After Day on Perilous Perch.

BREAK FOILS WORKERS

Quincy, Ill., April 24 (A.P.).—Twenty persons marooned on a levee along the South Quincy Gardens today by flood waters of the Mississippi River were rescued later in the day by a boat sent from Keouk, Iowa. They were marooned following a break in the South Quincy wall of the river at 7 o'clock this morning.

The Mississippi hurled a telling blow at a place that had been considered sound. Farther south in the district workers had struggled all day and night piling sandbags against soft places and seepage spots and they thought the battle had been won when word came that water was rushing through at the extreme north end. A torrent came through a gap 60 feet wide, which soon crumbled and made a hole about 150 feet across.

The alarm was quickly spread to remaining residents who had not moved out before, and the section soon became the scene of a hasty exodus with women and children aiding the men in moving out what personal belongings and household goods they could by automobile or on foot. Live stock hustled along ahead of the retreating families.

By noon the district was two-thirds covered and roads leading toward the dikes soon became either perilous or entirely impassable. National Guardsmen quickly were stationed at roads leading into the district to keep out any one not carrying a pass and to prevent looting. The Red Cross disaster committee of Quincy hurriedly assembled tents for refugees and the Salvation Army turned over a newly completed barracks to homeless families.

Five thousand acres of South Quicy farm land were under several feet of water tonight, and rain reports from watersheds to the north indicated that inundation of other drainage tracts might come by tomorrow. The river fell rapidly at Quincy after today's break.

10 PERSONS KILLED BY TEXAS TWISTER

than fifteen. The work of searching debris went forward, and several residents were reported missing.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. P. E. McIver, Russell McIver, school child; Charles Fay Turner, school child; Mr. and Mrs. P. E. McDaniel, Mrs. B. E. Kirkwood, R. W. and Marvin Kirkwood, sons of Mrs. Kirkwood; a Mrs. Gatling.

Physicians and ambulances were rushed to the stricken area at Slocum, and the I. G. N. Hospital and Palestine Sanatorium were filled as emergency cars and private automobiles continued to bring in additional injured. Preparations were under way to care for some of the injured in public buildings. Roads leading to the hamlet were congested with motor cars bearing relief parties from several nearby towns.

O. H. David, postmaster at Slocum, gave a graphic description of damage wrought by the tornado, which was one of the worst ever felt in this section of the State.

David stated but one small structure in the community escaped fury of the wind, which razed two schools, two churches, seven store buildings and nine dwellings.

Approximately 150 school children were playing on the campus when the tornado appeared suddenly from a shroud of dark clouds, he stated. Frenzied by fear, the children rushed into the buildings for shelter. At least two of the children were killed and many were believed seriously injured. It seemed a miracle, David stated, that more were not killed.

"The tornado approached very suddenly," David said. "I was in my store. I did not realize what was happening until I heard a deafening sound. I rushed outside and saw roofs and trees flying through the air and buildings crumbling to the ground. The storm continued for about seven minutes."

The twister swooped down from the sky to bring destruction at an hour when many were eating lunch. Few persons were in the streets of the little community and those in their homes had little chance to escape from falling debris.

Slocum is a typical Texas farming community of not more than 300 inhabitants. The village is an important trading center for farmers within a radius of about 5 miles.

The storm crippled communication lines and details of the disaster consequently were slow in reaching points beyond the disturbed areas.

Seward, Nebr., April 24 (A.P.).—A farmer was reported injured late today by a tornado that struck 3 miles southwest of Ulysses, Nebr., and destroyed farm buildings over a path of 14 miles to within 1 mile of David City.

It also was reported here that tornado clouds near Octavia destroyed a number of farm buildings in that vicinity.

Miss Johnson Elected By Pan-State Society

Miss Bede Johnson, of the Minnesota State Society, has been elected president of the Pan-State Society of Washington, an organization composed of various State societies in the District. Other officers are W. E. Hoffheins, West, Virginia, first vice president; J. M. Otterness, South Dakota, second vice president; Mrs. Algernon B. Bailey, Illinois, third vice president; Miss Edith Lathrop, Nebraska, secretary; Miss Gertrude Louis, Iowa, assistant secretary; Dr. W. N. Johannesen, Idaho, treasurer, and A. R. Bailey, Illinois, assistant treasurer.

Lee Lamar Robinson, retiring president, was made an honorary president of the society. There will be a meeting of the officers Monday, April 29, to discuss plans for a joint social affair.

Hospital Building Bids Will Be Asked

$250,000 to Be Spent for Psychiatric Wing at Walter Reed.

The War Department will advertise soon for bids for the construction of a psychiatric ward at Walter Reed Hospital, it was announced yesterday.

Congress appropriated $225,000 for the work at the last session. The building of this ward is only one of the many construction jobs that will begin within the near future at the various Army camps and posts throughout the country and for which Congress has appropriated more than $12,000,000.

About $400,000 will be spent at Fort Meade, Md., for a noncommissioned officers' quarters and an officers' quarters. A noncommissioned officers' barracks will be built also at Fort Humphreys, Va., at an approximate cost of $180,000, while a radio building will be begun at Fort Myer, Va. Congress has authorized $30,000 for this job.

BRITAIN MEDITATES NAVAL NOTE TO U.S.

Chamberlain Tells House of Agreement With Views of Hugh Gibson.

HOLDS STANDARD JUST

London, April 24 (U.P.).—Great Britain earnestly wishes to achieve a complete naval reduction agreement with the United States and "fully shares" the sentiments expressed by Hugh S. Gibson at Geneva, Sir Austen Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

The foreign secretary extended a warm welcome to the declaration in Gibson's speech before the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission and emphasized that England desires reduction as well as limitation of war vessels. The speech was in reply to questions of Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Laborite, who has been prominent in naval limitation efforts.

Meanwhile, it was understood that the cabinet discussed Gibson's speech with a view to instructing Lord Cushendun at Geneva as to procedure in preparing for the next public move. Whether Britain should send a note to the United States was understood to be under discussion. It was believed that preliminary conversations already were in progress at Geneva, but authorities were noncommital.

Great Britain already has proposed a general reduction of naval arms which would be applicable to every class of vessel, as stipulated in Gibson's speech, according to the foreign secretary. He added that Britain attaches great importance to the possibilities of great elasticity in a formula for reduction as contained in Gibson's suggestion for adjustment. He agreed that the strength of world powers should be considered in the light of differing circumstances.

Chamberlain pointed out that differences between England and the United States in regard to reduction of navies concerned a formula for limitation of categories of ships alone, not the principle of relative strength of the two navies. Britain has insisted that parity of navies is only just. The foreign secretary said his government was most interested to note the new criterion established and attached great importance to it.

Chamberlain said the government wished to express warm appreciation for the cordial and conciliatory spirit which the United States delegate showed at Geneva, and to make it clear that it was Britain's earnest wish that complete agreement might be achieved.

BROOKHART BREAKS WITH WHITE HOUSE

majority in the House brushed aside one attempt after another by Democrats to amend its farm bill, and prepared for a final vote today. A Democratic move to revive the old equalization fee appeared in the Senate in a proposed amendment by Senator Copeland, of New York. This is doomed to failure.

The equalization fee was raised in the House yesterday, but the strong Republican majority there was not even given an opportunity to vote it down. An amendment for the fee provision, introduced by Representative Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, was ruled out of order by the chair.

Thirty Other Amendments Fail.

Thirty other amendments were voted down by the Republican majority, whose "No" was so vociferous that a count of noses was called for only on rare occasions. One of these showed an 101-to-31 vote against an amendment by Representative Larsen (Democrat), Georgia, authorizing cooperative buying agencies for farmers, while another was a Democratic proposal to take from the President the power to fix the salary of the Farm Board chairman, which was defeated, 90 to 30. There were no record votes.

House leaders had hoped for a final vote on the bill last night, but still other amendments were pending, including one for the debenture plan which President Hoover denounced so strongly. A final vote is expected today.

It was Brookhart who held the center of the stage yesterday. Whether he will be able to raise any considerable revolt remains to be seen. All indications have pointed to a Hoover victory after a preliminary display of fireworks. Brookhart has a plan of his own which he urged before the agriculture committee guaranteeing the farmer the cost of production plus a fair return on investment. This has gained little support, but he indicated recently that the debenture plan would satisfy him as a substitute.

Would Override Veto.

The Iowa senator said that in campaigning for Mr. Hoover he had read the latter's acceptance speech and the Republican platform promising the farmer equality with industry. These pronouncements and Mr. Hoover's St. Louis speech, he said, were materially different from his message at the opening of Congress. He quoted the President as declaring in the campaign that the farm problem must be solved.

"In his message to Congress his statements are different," Brookhart declared. "He says no solution can be made at one time.

"Why have we turned around and tried to find a way out of establishing equality? Why do these 'can'ts' and 'note' appear now? I expected when I came to this special session that we would carry out our pledges that the problem would be solved. Congress has no right now, having given these pledges, to stand back because the President has said it.

"Let us pass a solution over his veto. We owe it to the farmers and if we don't do it they will make themselves felt later."

ITALO-FRENCH NAVAL PARITY BARS ACCORD

Success of Any Five-Power Limitation Plan Menaced by Italy, Is View.

GENEVA FAVORS DELAY

Geneva, April 24 (A.P.).—The problem of naval parity between France and Italy tonight loomed out as a reef which might imperil the success of any five-power naval conference to reduce armaments.

Premier Mussolini is represented here as firm as a rock in demanding parity for Italy with France, both on land and sea, while France apparently fails to see the justice of such demands.

France thinks that her communications with her extensive colonial possessions and her mainland, open to two oceans, are sufficient reasons for her having naval forces superior to Italy's.

This problem of satisfying Italy, at least on paper, is worrying delegates to the preparatory disarmament commission. Some are beginning to wonder whether a real advance on the naval problem could not best be made by establishing first of all an understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

French Praise Gibson.

The Associated Press correspondent has received the impression that France would place no obstacle in the way of such a parliamentary understanding, provided it did not affect her position in relation to other continental powers. A high French authority voiced tonight enthusiastic approval of the speech of Hugh S. Gibson on Monday because it gave a magnificent impetus to reduction in armaments as a whole.

This personality explained that France desired to hasten general reduction in armaments and hoped that delegates would even be able to submit a draft treaty to the September assembly of the League of Nations, thus permitting an international conference by 1930. This would involve a second session of the preparatory disarmament commission during the present summer, until which time he thought the naval question had better be adjourned.

Referring to the second Washington conference, scheduled for 1931, the French spokesman suggested that it might be advisable to make this contingent upon decisions taken with reference to noncapital ships, since these decisions might influence the question of revising the Washington treaty. He added that it was clear that France could not accept 1.75 as her ratio for cruisers, destroyers and submarines and did not believe the United States contemplated demanding such a ratio.

See No Progress Now.

The present drift of discussions on the naval question is distinctly in the direction that nothing definite can be achieved at this session of the preparatory disarmament commission.

Delegates believe that detailed suggestions from the Americans concerning the estimation of the strength of navies on the basis of equivalent tonnage, must be studied by the various governments after the Americans have put them into form.

Germany's drive for prohibition of bombing by airplanes during war was rejected by the commission today after the French had retorted that "big Berthas" or other such long range guns were sometimes as dangerous as airplane bombs.

By the treaty of Versailles, Germany is prohibited from having military airplanes, but is entitled to have sufficient commercial planes for normal purposes. Restricted as she is in the air in a military sense, Geneva thinks that Germany is aiming at the same restriction for other continental powers.

American Association Opens Forty-Third Convention in New York City.

DELEGATES ARE GREETED

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—The American Newspaper Publishers Association at its forty-third annual convention today extended a vote of confidence to S. E. Thomason, of the Chicago Journal, and its paper committee, of which Mr. Thomason is chairman.

A resolution approving "all the actions and activities of the paper committee" was adopted after a full afternoon of discussion of the paper situation, the International Paper Co., and the paper committee.

Earlier in the day Mr. Thomason submitted his report, in which he said he would make a personal statement to the convention regarding criticism of his committee, to the effect that the committee was influenced by the fact the International Paper owns securities of a newspaper published by the chairman.

Alleged large investments in newspaper properties by the International Paper Co. led to criticism of that company some time ago. Recently the company announced a new scale of prices and a new form of contract and publishers have shown great concern over the question of paper supplies.

Mr. Thomason told the convention that he was director and secretary of a large newspaper at the time of his appointment to the newspaper committee. He added that he twice had submitted his resignation and that both times it had been refused. He said the committee had done its utmost to hold down the price of paper and to keep the membership adequately advised of the situation.

Several leading publishers praised Thomason and the committee's work in the present newsprint situation and paid high tribute to the manner in which affairs had been conducted.

The session was secret, but it is understood that action on a resolution attacking the International Paper Co.'s policy of buying up newspaper stock was deferred until tomorrow.

Man Under Arrest Is Hurt in Crash

Brother of District Detective Injured When Car Hits Telephone Pole.

In an unsuccessful attempt to escape from two United States revenue agents who are said to have arrested him on a whisky warrant, Stephen Murphy, 27 years old, of Leonardtown, brother of a Washington detective, yesterday drove his automobile into a telephone pole when one officer went to telephone while other remained to guard him.

He was arrested in Leonardtown by Revenue Agents Joseph R. Brewer and W. H. Schultz, who planned to take him to Baltimore, police report. At Morganza, Md., one agent left the car to telephone and Murphy attempted the get-away during his absence, according to police. The agents brought him to Providence Hospital, where he was treated for injuries to his head and body. He was later removed to Gallinger Hospital in the patrol of the Fifth Precinct.

Murphy is a brother of Detective Dennis J. Murphy, attached to the Tenth Precinct, who lives at 1500 Trinidad avenue northeast.

Wales Loses in Golf Contest.

London, April 24 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales played a round of golf in a tournament of the household brigade today in 93. It was his first competitive golf since 1922. It was a scratch event and was won by Maj. G. Cornwallis West, with an 82.

Resolve Today to Have a Good Head of Hair

Excessive hairfall, dandruff, and itching scalp today lead to baldness tomorrow. The process is gradual and painless, and before you realize it your hair is gone. You need not lose your hair, or if you have lost it already you need not remain bald.

The Thomas' Prevent Baldness and Grow Hair

By their own original method, proved by fifteen years of successful application. The Thomas' can prevent baldness by scientifically eliminating the baldness producing germ and restoring the scalp to a normal, healthy condition. The Ultra-Violet Quartz Lamp is used as a part of this treatment, which is adapted to each person's specific needs. New hair is generally visible on the scalp within a short time.

Examination FREE

Let The Thomas' start your scalp on the road to health and hair by their proven treatment. Resolve TODAY to have a good head of hair and let The Thomas' make it possible for you to keep that resolution. No charge or obligation for an examination by a Thomas' specialist.

Gasoline Tax Increase Is Opposed by Citizens

The Anacostia Citizens Association last night opposed the proposed increase in gasoline taxation in a resolution adopted at the first meeting of the organization in its new meeting place, the Ketcham School Community Center.

A special program will make the association's celebration of the reelection of S. Tracey Campbell, its delegate to the Federation of Citizens Association to the Citizens Advisory Council, at next month's meeting. Robert Thompson, first vice president, presided in the absence of Dr. George C. Havenner.

National Officers Are Given Another Term; Greeted by Hoover.

Reelection of six national officers for a two-year term and a greeting by President Hoover at the White House yesterday afternoon brought to a close the annual convention of the United States Daughters of 1812 here.

Mrs. Samuel Z. Shope, of Philadelphia, Pa., was returned to the presidency for another term, together with Mrs. Charles F. Rice, of Atlanta, Ga., second vice president; Mrs. J. Harris Baughman, of Danville, Ky., fourth vice president; Mrs. Albert P. Olson, of Baltimore, Md., librarian; Mrs. James A. Ostrom, of Chicago, Ill., curator, and Mrs. W. S. Shaw, of South Portland, Me., chaplain.

Mrs. George E. Lamb, of Burlington, Vt., was elected an honorary vice president, and Miss Edith Edwards, of Woonsocket, R. I., chairman of the organization's Monticellian Fund.

Higher Duties on Sugar Asked by Beet Industry

(Associated Press.)

After hearing reports on the present conditoion of the American beet sugar industry, the United States Beet Sugar Association, at its annual meeting yesterday formulated a program of increased duties which it will seek to have incorporated in the tariff bill now being drafted by the House ways and means committee.

The program calls for higher duties both on foreign and Cuban imports and a restriction on Philippine free sugar shipments into this country. The association would have the present 2.20 cents pere pound duty on foreign sugar cents per pound; an increase from 1.76 to 2.40 cents in the Cuban preferential tariff and the limiting of Philippine free imports to 500,000 long tons with the full 3-cent duty imposed on additoinal shipments.

It's as simple as setting a watch

Yet this remarkable new Frigidaire feature allows you to regulate the freezing time in the ice trays exactly as you regulate the cooking time in your oven.

New low prices . . . a small deposit secures immediate delivery of Frigidaire in your home

IT'S easier and quicker now to freeze sparkling full-sized ice cubes . . . quicker than you ever thought was possible. It's simpler and more practical to make those delicious frozen salads and desserts . . . so simple that it's more fun than work.

But more important, you yourself can now regulate the time it takes to freeze them. You can now control the freezing temperatures . . . and it's as simple as setting a watch.

The Cold Control is just a simple dial . . . with six freezing speeds . . . yet here at your finger-tips is complete control over Frigidaire's famous surplus power.

We have your free copy of this new recipe book

The new Frigidaire recipe book contains scores of unusual new recipes. It tells how to make new and delightfully different salads and delicious frozen desserts. We want you to stop in and get your copy of this book. At the same time you can see the new Cold Control and how it works. And you will be surprised at the new low prices and the very small down payment that will put Frigidaire in your home.

DEATH IN THE STREETS.

The killing of a suspected rum-runner by a police officer yesterday morning during an exciting chase, in which a smoke-screen was used to foil the pursuing officers, raises the question whether shooting is to be permitted in the streets of Washington, in spite of the danger of taking innocent life. The officer who fired the shots asserts that he did not shoot to kill, but that his shots were directed at the gas tank and rear tires. Thus, on his own statement, his aim was bad, and the bullet may have found lodgment in the heart of some one innocent of crime.

Are the people of Washington to be placed in jeopardy of death as the price of using the highways in order that bootleggers may be apprehended? The reasoning of enforcement authorities, which too often leads them to regard the capture or killing of fugitives more important than the protection of public safety and life, is intolerable. If accepted it would inevitably result in the slaughter of innocent pedestrians and motorists.

Commissioner Doran announced a few weeks ago that enforcement officers had been warned to avoid the use of firearms except in self-defense. Have the police received a similar warning from Maj. Pratt? If not, the warning should go out forthwith, accompanied by an emphatic notice that officers firing upon suspects shall be severely punished. In yesterday's killing the victim undoubtedly was a criminal, but the law has not yet provided the death penalty for his crime. Great as was his offense, he was entitled to live. The taking of his life was not justifiable homicide, as the officer was not defending his own life.

Many dry agents and policemen are obviously so deficient in judgment that they can not be depended upon to refrain from killing while in hot pursuit of fugitives. Such officers should be stripped of their authority. The public right to use the streets in safety will ultimately be enforced, no matter how high up the enraged people must go in order to make their will effective. An emphatic order from President Hoover to all enforcement authorities, directing them to put an immediate stop to the reckless use of firearms, would go far to bring about the public cooperation for law enforcement which he so earnestly desires.

TAMMANY AND DEMOCRACY.

Following weeks of maneuvering among leaders of factions contending for control, the Tammany Society has chosen John F. Curry to succeed George W. Olvany as leader. The new chief was Mayor Walker's choice. The result of the election increases the prestige of Mayor Walker by demonstrating his leadership in Tammany Hall. It seems to assure his re-election to the mayoralty next fall. The election is, of course, a bad setback for Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Mr. Curry's entire experience has been in New York City politics, and he is on record as opposing all attempts to involve the organization in national politics. His election marks a return to the old idea of centering all effort toward control of the local government. Tammany, under Mr. Curry's leadership, probably will increase its power in New York City, but it will make no effort to wield influence in the broader field. Its excursion into national politics last fall was not productive of good results and it lost prestige by neglecting purely local affairs. Nor did it make a showing impressive enough to lend hope to those who would have created around Tammany a new Democratic party. Tammany could not have gained a position of paramount influence in the councils of the national party except by dint of years of incessant labor, during which it would have run the risk of losing its grip on New York City.

Possibly the elevation of Mr. Curry to the leadership of Tammany will make easier the task of the Democratic National Committee, which is seeking to revivify the party. Since Tammany is to become once again a purely local organization it no longer should constitute a stumbling block in the reunification of the national Democratic party.

GEN. DAWES' WORK.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes and his commission of private American citizens have completed their work in the Dominican Republic and are on their way home. The former Vice President has analyzed the financial difficulties of the little republic with characteristic precision, and if his recommendations for stringent economy are carried out its budget will be made to balance. The work of the Dawes commission has no doubt been closely watched by other Latin-American countries, and his report may have far-reaching effects on a number of budgets.

Previous to the visit of Gen. Dawes to Santo Domingo President Vasquez was in a dilemma. Faced with a large deficit, he was urged to increase taxes or ask the consent of the United States to float another loan. The national debt is limited by a treaty with this country. Including the appropriations for 1929 the deficit was estimated at $4,127,000. The economic and financial condition of the republic was found to be inherently sound, but the absence of a central accounting system made it impossible for the administration or legislature to know the relation between appropriations and the total deficit at any one time. Internal finances were in a muddle. Huge appropriations have been made without funds in the treasury to meet them.

The American commission suggested that contracts already in process of fulfillment be carried out, and that the legislature repeal all appropriations for works which can not be financed at present. The commissioners also pointed out how a vigorous campaign for reduction of expenditures would result in an annual saving of $1,570,000. If all the recommendations are carried out, Gen. Dawes estimates that there will be a possible surplus of approximately $1,562,000 in 1930.

The Dominican government is evidently happy at the results of the investigation. A director of the budget has been appointed and assurance given that every recommendation will be carried out. The Dominican Congress is preparing a vote of thanks to the commission, and a gold medal will be struck in honor of Mr. Dawes. The work of the commission will no doubt prove of incalculable value to the little republic and ought to impress Latin America as a testimony of American good will.

BETTER PRISON METHODS.

It has been evident ever since President Hoover launched his law-enforcement campaign that he does not intend to attack the problem from one angle alone. His New York address reiterated the necessity for reorganization of the enforcement agencies, strengthening the judiciary, improvement of the jury system, and appointment of men who are especially qualified for the various positions. In view of this and previous statements, the appointment of Sanford Bates, of Boston, as superintendent of Federal prisons, may be considered as part of the general movement to place crime prevention on a more scientific basis.

Mr. Bates has been prominently identified with movements for prison reform and crime prevention. He served as penal institutions commissioner in Boston and was selected to head the Massachusetts department of correction when former President Coolidge was governor of that State. In 1927 Secretary of Commerce Hoover appointed him a member of the Federal committee on prison industries. He has also been prominently associated with the American Prison Association. A statement issued by the Department of Justice refers to Mr. Bates' present appointment as the culmination of some years of effort on the part of Assistant Attorney General Willebrandt to make the prison division one of the major scientific branches of the Government.

Under the leadership of Mr. Bates a successful probation system has been developed in Massachusetts. In his new position he will undertake a study of Federal methods of parole and probation. The Department of Justice is also depending on him to apply advanced ideas of penology, "having as an object such management of the prisons that persons confined therein may be returned to society with a purpose to be law-abiding, to cultivate the habits of industry, thereby better enabling them to live honestly."

Since there is an average of 18,000 persons incarcerated in Federal prisons, this movement should have an important bearing on the crime problem. It is not a plan to make life easy for criminals while they are serving prison terms, but an attempt to make useful citizens of them. It is a waste of taxpayers' money to imprison men for a few years while they increase their knowledge of criminal methods and in idleness nurse their desires for revenge, and then turn them loose on society with none but unlawful means of making a living. If the Government can cut down the number of criminals who return to unlawful practices when released, an important step will have been taken in the general solution of the crime problem.

JUVENILE COURTS.

Thirty years ago this week the first juvenile court in America was organized in Chicago. During the same year Colorado passed a law under which the Juvenile Court of Denver, which Judge Ben Lindsey later made famous, was established. The movement has grown until today all but two of the 48 States have juvenile court laws.

Development of the juvenile court is an important advance over the old method of dealing with delinquencies in children. The child who commits a minor offense is no longer left free to repeat his act until he becomes a confirmed criminal; nor is he dealt with as a criminal by the law. He must answer for his actions before a judge trained in psychology and child problems. It is impossible accurately to measure the achievements of the juvenile courts, but their influence has no doubt been considerable, and will be still more important in the future.

There is special need in the present age for well equipped and intelligently administered juvenile courts. In a radio address last week John Hays Hammond asserted that approximately two-thirds of the entire boy population of the United States lack proper parental supervision and have opportunities to "go bad" on every hand during their adolescent years.

The possibilities of these courts in supplementing home discipline have not been fully exploited. Surveys by the National Probation Association and the United States Children's Bureau prove that many of the State laws are seriously inadequate. In some cases the law is limited to a few large cities or counties. In others the courts do not have full jurisdiction to deal with children, and some grant no authority to deal with adults who are responsible for the delinquency or neglect of children. Many courts have not been able to break away from criminal procedure in handling children's cases.

Twenty-five years ago the juvenile court was an experiment; today it is an institution of recognized value in preventing crime. There is no longer need for any State to hesitate in adopting it in the most advanced form. The National Probation Association has issued a revised standard juvenile court law plan which combines the best features of the existing laws in 46 States. It calls for a judge of special training in social problems and child psychology as well as law; a corps of experienced probation officers to carry on the "follow-up work;" an efficient record system and clerical staff; pleasant quarters for the court; the services of a clinic with trained physicians and psychologists, and a detention home which has nothing of the atmosphere of a jail. No State or community which is concerned with conservation of its youth and the prevention of crime can afford to overlook the possibilities of the modern juvenile court.

In considering the advisability of eliminating parking in front of all apartment houses of three stories or over, District officials would do well to consider where automobiles owned by apartment dwellers are to be parked. Certain sections of the city are almost exclusively apartment areas, and they do not contain enough garage space to store even a small portion of the automobiles owned therein. It may be necessary, in the interest of better fire protection, to restrict parking in the neighborhood of apartment houses, but unless and until other facilities are made available for the storage of automobiles, it may be impossible.

One solution lies in compelling all rum runners to fly green flags in the daytime and exhibit green lights at night, so that the police will know which cars to ignore.

Despite the "ten dry years" no member of even the youngest generation will need the services of an interpreter when a local dramatic company produces "Ten Nights in a Barroom" this week.

CAUSES OF EARTHQUAKES.

BY DR. WILLIAM BOWIE,
Chief Division of Geodesy, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, in the Scientific Monthly.

Isostasy is a term derived from the Greek and may be defined as equal standing or equal pressure. According to the isostatic idea, the outer portion of the earth exerts an equal weight for equal areas at some unknown surface below sea level. * * * We may now assert that isostasy is an established scientific principle. * * *

The establishment of the principle of isostasy leads us to the conclusion that earthquakes may be a result of the shifting of great masses across the earth's surface as a result of rainfall. The isostatic equilibrium is undoubtedly maintained at all times. This means that the crust of the earth under the sediments must be pushed down. It is formed of brittle material, and under the great loads will be fractured. When the fracture occurs a vibration is set up which may, if the earthquake is large enough, travel all around the earth and also through it.

Then the area of erosion which has been made lighter is pushed up by the subcrustal material. There again the crustal material is brittle and when the forces are too great it snaps and sends out its vibrations.

Then we have the process of mountain building which takes place in all cases, as far as we know, along margins of inland seas and ocean areas where sedimentation had been heavy. In the process of uplift to form the mountains the earth's crust is ruptured and earthquakes occur. We also have the sinking of the areas which previously were occupied by mountains, and during the process of sinking the earth's crust is again broken and earthquakes result.

This building of mountains and the sinking of former mountain areas must be due to the changes in the temperature of and pressure on the crustal matter which lies beneath the areas of sedimentation and erosion.

We therefore have four causes of earthquakes which are quite in accord with the isostatic principle. There may be other causes of earthquakes but we do not see so clearly what they are. It is quite evident that they are caused by erosion and sedimentation, the building of mountains and the sinking of former mountain areas below the sea. * * *

The cause of volcanoes must be an expansion of the earth's crust beneath. If this is true, then the volcanic cone formed at the surface of the earth is not an extra mass added to the prism of the crust on which it rests. Of course, the cone is an extra load on the earth's surface, but there must have been no increase, as a result of the formation of the volcano, to the weight exerted by the prism on the subcrustal material.

Isostasy has certainly come to stay, and the geologists of today are using the principle more and more in their interpretations of the earth's history and what is to happen in the future. Surely the geologist who runs counter to the isostatic principle is likely to run into grave difficulties.

The earth is not a rigid, strong, unchanging mass. It is yielding to the changes of load at the surface and would change to conform to any shift of its axis or of its rate of rotation. Probably we are better off with a yielding earth than with a very rigid one, for, otherwise, great stresses might accumulate through millions of years and then when the rupturing came the disaster might be tremendous and overwhelming. We shall have changes in the earth's surface, earthquakes and volcanoes as long as we have sunshine and rain. Without sunshine and rain we should not be very much interested in anything else that might occur.

The Fodder Scorned by the Dog Is Excellent Feed for the Cattle.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

EVERY man who preaches or lectures or writes on many subjects must seem stupid or untruthful to some portion of his public, for the thing that is true to one man is not true to another.

For example, I am reading a book in which one of America's best-known economists complains bitterly because the average wage of adult male workers in this country is nineteen hundred dollars. That, he says, is not enough decently to support a family of five.

And yet in my section there are thousands of happy families, living in houses that are paid for or riding in cars that are paid for, who would feel very fortunate if they had nineteen hundred a year to spend.

Abundance in one section is too little in another, and thus any generalization in regard to living costs must seem false to one section if another thinks it true.

The preacher who endeavors to reach the understanding of simple folk in his congregation, and to give them the measure of truth they are able to comprehend, will bore his more intelligent hearers with platitudes and truisms.

And the writer who makes deliberate effort to reach one group will be scorned by others to whom his ideas seem threadbare or denounced by others who think his ideas revolutionary because their acquaintance with ideas is small.

Roosevelt declined to read books he could not enjoy, and every reader must adopt a similar plan if he would be fair to the author.

The book that does not please you was not written for you.

There must be many books, presenting the truth from many angles and offering it in fragments of many sizes if the capacity of all readers is to be fitted.

A book that seems absurdly simple and therefore tiresome to you may tax the resources of some other man's intellect.

Would you leave the book unpublished because it does not measure up to your capacity? Must infants go unfed because they can not digest the meat your appetite demands?

The writer presents a fragment of truth for those who can give it welcome, and presents it in terms familiar to them.

To one reader it is "old stuff;" to another it is a lamp in a window.

Those who think it new may also think it untruthful, for the ignorant man scoffs when told the whale isn't a fish.

The truth is for those who have ears to hear, and the food value of grass is not lessened by the lion's inability to enjoy it.

EGYPTIAN INCUBATORS.

The incubator for hatching chickens is probably as old as history, which in the Mediterranean region runs back more than 4,500 years, says the San Francisco Chronicle. There were doubtless incubators in Egypt before Moses was born, and to this day in that country there are just what they were in the lifetime of the great Hebrew leader.

The art of hatching chickens is handed down from generation to generation, from father to son, a secret craft. Baby chicks are an important article of trade, and they are produced by millions for rearing.

The typical Egyptian incubator is a rude and cumbersome affair when compared with the modern device. It is a building of considerable size, of sun-dried brick. Through it run one or more passages, and on both sides of each passage are ovens (so to call them) in two tiers. The oven at the ground level has a small door; the one directly above it is entered from beneath through a manhole. The ovens are arranged in pairs, one below and the other above. The eggs are placed in the lower oven, and a fire is lighted on the floor of the oven overhead to furnish the warmth requisite for hatching.

A PERFECT VILLAGE.

After months of search the Royal Society of Arts has found the "perfect English village," says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Its fifteenth century church loft, which is used as a parish hall; its Elizabethan cottages and its three old "pubs" are to be preserved just as they are as a reminder of the England that has passed. Visitors now and hereafter will be able to see the village as it was in Shakespeare's day. This is very much the same idea as that which has led to the restoration of Williamsburg, Va. In Both England and the United States there is a feeling for the past which dislikes the prospect of having every relic of an earlier age buried beneath modern changes. If it is not practicable to live under the conditions which our forefathers endured, at least we can preserve a few of their private houses and community buildings as museum pieces. There are countless examples of old houses which have been restored in this country and filled with the furniture we call antiques. To do this is one of the current fads. But to restore a town or a village as in the case of England's West Wycombe and our own Williamsburg is another matter. Yet only by such undertakings will future generations be able to visualize conditions of life in England and America which already have virtually disappeared.

LEE'S BIRTHPLACE.

There is a project in process of development to make the birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee a national shrine, observes the Cincinnati Enquirer.

This should appeal strongly to the magnanimity of the American character. Grant, the conqueror, looked upon the great Southern general as a gentleman and a soldier who exemplified the noblest virtue of citizenship. The Nation should do no less.

Lee came of a noble line. He abided by the decision of his section of the Nation when the Civil War crisis arose—remained true to his friends and neighbors. He brought the full power of his genius as a great commander to their aid.

There are at present no conspicuous monuments testifying to the courage and chivalry of the South, in the war, unless we except the vast historic Stone Mountain enterprise. Many have been erected in commemoration of the victor in the Nation's civil strife. Is it not time to symbolize a united country by the creation of a worthy memorial to the greatest among the Confederate leaders?

Lee is deserving of this honor. It would be received, it may be believed, by the people of the South, and of Virginia in particular, as evidence holding a national significance—evidence of a proper appreciation of the virtues of a truly great American, one whose name illuminates the pages of our history.

BENEATH THE SOIL OF PARIS.

Many ancient remains are hidden away here and there beneath the soil of Paris, especially in the neighborhood of the old Roman arena, the Arenes de Lutece, behind the Rue Monge, observes the London Daily Mail. It was in 1869, when the extensive town planning scheme was in progress in that quarter, that the well-preserved amphitheater was discovered. It has been converted into a pleasant spot and is linked up with one of the prettiest gardens in the city. Now, the boring of a new branch of the underground railway has led to the discovery of a further piece of Roman masonry connected with the arena, but it is doubtful whether it will be allowed to remain in its present position, as it obstructs the new line beneath the corner of the Rue de Navarre. It is probable that many more vestiges of ancient buildings are embedded in the vicinity, but the area is too thickly covered with modern construction to permit of excavation. It may be recalled, however, that when the arena was discovered in 1869 efforts were made to modify the town-planning arrangements so that further explorations might be made, but the project was deemed too costly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Street Car Vagaries.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please explain why it is that the cars on Connecticut avenue do not alternate, one Mount Pleasant and one Georgetown. There are about five Mount Pleasant cars to every Georgetown or Cabin John's Bridge cars. The population in the Georgetown area equals that of Mount Pleasant, it seems to me. Why the discrimination? A Biography of Admiral Buchanan.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Prof. Charles Lee Lewis, of the Naval Academy, author of "Matthew Fontaine Maury—Pathfinder of the Seas," "Famous American Naval Officers," "Famous Old-World Sea Fighters" and other works, is now writing a biography of Franklin Buchanan, formerly of the United States Navy, and later admiral of the Confederate States Navy. Prof. Lewis will greatly appreciate hearing from any one who has letters or other source material that will be helpful in this work. His address is 41 Southgate avenue, Annapolis, Md.

Organization the Only Cure.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Lewis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, is quoted as saying the farmers "want no price-fixing and no excise tax."

In the vexed problem of "farm relief" what the farmers need more than anything else is intelligent and loyal leadership. Mr. Taber voices no complaint against "price-fixing" of everything the farmer has to buy; but is so excessively virtuous in his capacity as a representative of a great farmers' organization that he will not think of helping the farmers to fix a reasonable price on what the farmer has to sell.

The head of the National Grange makes no objection to the law which imposes a customs tax in aid of the manufacturer but opposes the use of the same function of government to impose an excise tax in aid of those branches of agriculture which by reason of producing a surplus are not benefited by a customs tax.

The price of freight and passenger travel is fixed. The price of (interest) money is fixed. The price of nearly all manufactured goods the farmer buys is fixed. The price which the farmer pays for labor is fixed. The farmer is about the only element in the community who has to take what is offered him without having any voice whatever in fixing a reasonable price on what he has to sell. The taxing power of the Government is used in boosting the price of nearly everything the farmer has to buy. When it is proposed to use these same agencies in the farmers' behalf the great economist at the head of the National Grange says that he objects.

Mr. Taber's solution of the farmers' difficulties is a $200,000,000 a year subsidy to the millionaire grain and flour exporters. He seems to think that some mystic virtue is attached to this bonus for the grain dealers by calling it a "debenture."

By proper organization, with or without Government assistance, the farmers of the Nation could put themselves at once upon an economic equality with organized labor, organized industry, organized finance, organized transportation; but they will never do so under such mock relief as that of the proposed "debenture" plan. MARIATEGUI.

Airplane Collisions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems incredible to those not used to flying that there should occur collisions between aircraft such as that which happened at San Diego last Sunday, resulting in the death of six. The ether, to all practical purposes, is limitless. It gives space for the operation of innumerable aircraft. The airplane, unlike other conveyances, can be maneuvered in all directions, and it would seem that there should be no difficulty in dodging other aircraft. Fliers, however, point out that congestion in the neighborhood of airports has come to be a grave problem. Vision, from cockpit or cabin, is not equally good in all directions, and big ships can not be maneuvered quickly in comparison with small ships. Numerous explanations can be offered for the San Diego tragedy. It remains to be seen whether it will be used as a basis upon which to build a code of regulations that will forestall similar accidents in the future.

It is alleged that the Army pilot, whose plane collided with the Maddox air liner, had followed the larger ship in his speedier pursuit plane for some distance after it left the San Diego airport. Whether or not he was stunting for his own amusement and whether or not he was violating flying regulations will be brought out in an official investigation. Judging by eye-witness accounts, it is apparent that both ships were caught in an air pocket while the pursuit ship was above the transport and that the former, because of its smaller size, fell more rapidly and collided with the latter. Even though it may be found that the Army ship was not being operated in violation of the regulations, rigidly interpreted, no question can be raised against the assertion that its pilot should not have flown his ship in a position where there was even a remote possibility that it would interfere with the flight of the bulky, less agile transport.

The airplane, because it can be maneuvered in all directions, is susceptible to danger from all directions. Its pilot should be able to see not only forward, sideward and downward, but backward and upward as well. In many planes upward vision is obscured by the wing surfaces, and in cabin ships the fuselage obstructs vision to the rear. It should be possible to arrange mirrors, much after the fashion of automobile rear-vision mirrors, to assure a clear, all around view of the air. If the pilot of the transport plane that crashed at San Diego had had a way of knowing that another ship was flying dangerously close above him, he might have been able to get out of the way before the fatal crash.

THE ONCE OVER

SOCIETY AND TESTIMONIALS.

The world do move. Society leaders have joined the Indorsing Cult. A few years back if an advertising agent had knocked on the door at the homes of Our Best People and asked the lady of the house publicly to indorse a gadget, facial cream, cigarette, rug, perfume or bath fixture, she would have ordered the butler to call a cop. Today all is changed.

• • • •

Milady will now lend her name to the commercial advancement of ships and shoes and sealing wax. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Morris has indorsed a stocking. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., Mrs. Adrian Iselin 2d, Lady Louis Mountbatten and Mrs. George Grant Mason have placed the seal of approval on a cosmetic and any number of smart women, including Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, jr., Mrs. Robert McCormick, Countess Colordo Mannsfield and Mrs. Joseph Leiter have sung the praises of a mattress and springs.

• • • •

Full pages in the rotogravure sections have given the public intimate glimpses of the Church and Leiter boudoirs that the lower half may know how the other half sleeps.

• • • •

No longer does the company behind a product satisfy itself with small fry testimonials. It goes after the big fish and gets them.

• • • •

The man with a pancake flour, a new face cream or a four-poster bed to market used to take an indorsement from Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith, but today he goes straight for Mrs. T. De Quincy Rockingbilt, bluest of the blue bloods.

• • • •

Of course, it takes more money. He can get six Mrs. Jones for the price of one Mrs. Rockingbilt, but Mrs. Rockingbilt is worth it.

• • • •

The modern advertising expert has no compunctions about approaching the Upper Crusters. He doesn't even hesitate. He is finding it just as easy to get a dowager to speak up for an oil furnace as it used to be to get an average housewife to sing the praises of a skillet, and as simple to land a testimonial for a cigarette, overshoe or suit of underwear from a debutante as to land an indorsement of a freckle-remover from a salesgirl.

• • • •

It has become a fad.

• • • •

The Smart Set loves it. Where it will end nobody can tell. We soon may see Mrs. Throneckmorton Wallabout, holder of one of the low numbers in the Four Hundred, proclaiming how easy it is to make money raising Belgian hares at home, telling of her success learning cartooning in ten simple lessons, or saying "All that I am today I owe to Tesated Iron."

TO A LIVE TROUT IN A NEW YORK STORE WINDOW.

Twinkle, twinkle, little trout,
Wond'ring what it's all about,
Swimming in a window brook
Where the passing throngs may look;
List'ning to the shrieking brakes
And the bedlam traffic makes;
Harking to the traffic cop
Whistling for the "Go!" and "Stop!"
Quiv'ring to the constant jars
From the flat-wheeled surface cars;
Blinking through the window glass
As the funny faces pass
At you in the water there;
Do not worry, don't get blue
Wond'ring why it is that you
Of all trout, both small and great,
Should be picked for such a fate;
Splash about and pleasure find.
Try to bear this thought in mind:
Mighty few trout 'neath the sun
Ever got a "Broadway Run."

Mittleberger Fails To Form New Cabinet

Vienna, April 24 (A.P.).—Prof. Johann Mittleberger, a noted financial expert who has been invited by the Christian Socialist party, which holds a small majority in parliament, today failed in efforts to form a cabinet.

Prof. Mittleberger was called in when Dr. Otto Ender declined the chancellorship of Austria because of the serious illness of his wife and the political deadlock which has existed some time. Chancellor Ignaz Seipel, who had been in office for several years, resigned more than three weeks ago and there has been much concern for the political peace and economic stability of Austria during the protracted crisis.

"I'll Match You"

the slogan of smart accessories this season.

With strong interest in color contrast, accessories need not match the costume, but match each other. Also, the tendency toward novelty materials and designs makes it possible to match a similar note in costume ensembles. Four typical examples of smart accessory ensembles are illustrated.

Patou's "Capucine" shade is a smart accessory color with the black or brown costume. Capucine bangkok hat $35—Capucine crepe scarf, $7.50.

Bright blue and navy ensemble includes a bag in both shades, $10—a smart chalcedony choker, with a carved plaque, $23.50 and navy kid gloves, $4.50.

Watersnake accessories harmonize or contrast with one's costume with equal smartness. Frameless watersnake pouch, $15—instep buckle strap pump, $15.

Brown and white is a smart combination for sports—this ensemble of brown galilith choker, $1.95—brown "diamonet" hose, $3.95—brown and white two-strap oxford, $13.50.

Airplanes as baggage

The world moves faster and faster! Leading the cross-Atlantic parade of progress once again, the French Line institutes a new service . . . "airplanes, uncrated, carried as baggage." On shipboard, the air-minded ultra-modern will find his own high-powered gayety endlessly multiplied by the smart young crowd who never consider any other kind of crossing. The ship's personnel . . . French to the last smile in the matter of service. The food . . . why mention it, when everybody knows that France begins the moment you cross "the longest gangplank in the world?" The "Ile de France", "Paris" and "France" call first at Plymouth for London . . . then slip over to Le Havre where the 3-hour boat-train for Paris waits. The ultra-modern may fly himself up if he chooses, for mechanics wait his pleasure at the dock. The "De Grasse" and "Rochambeau" for a leisurely cabin voyage.

PROPERTY OWNERS TO FIGHT TAX SALE

Holders of Prall Estate Express Objection to Levying of Illegal Assessments.

Owners of the Prall estate, on Sixteenth street, between H and I streets northwest, yesterday took public issue with District tax officials in a statement made public by Alvin L. Newmyer, their attorney.

The property owners, Newmyer said, never had refused to pay taxes due on the property, but did object to large and legal penalties assessed by the District.

"The heirs have never refused to pay the taxes and expect to pay the District whatever taxes are lawfully due," the statement said, "but have objected, and do object, to the attempted collection of thousands of dollars in illegal assessments which they do not owe, and the District of Columbia has never, as a matter of fact, actually determined the correct amount of taxes legally payable."

Chatham M. Tower, tax collector, recently asked the commissioners to approve sale at public auction of a part of the property for the payment of delinquent taxes and penalties.

Towers placed the total amount due the District at $40,078.23, of which amount $16,886.67 represents the taxes due and the balance, $23,172.91, penalties assessed for arrears, to which was added $18.65 as a charge for advertising the property for sale for taxes.

"The estate itself and the title to the property," Newmyer said in his statement, "was in litigation in the District of Columbia for 22 years last past, and only recently were the Prall heirs established as owners of the estate.

"Even during the years of litigation, although heavily burdened with the expense of defending their estate against the claims of parties seking to establish title to the property, the heirs have from time to time, for a number of years, paid the taxes as they were able and several years ago, when an effort was made by the District to collect alleged taxes with certain penalties that were illegal, the District Supreme Court refused to permit the sale of the property, and appointed a receiver, who has used whatever income was obtained from the property toward the payment of accruing taxes.

"The heirs have never refused to pay the taxes and expect to pay the District whatever taxes are lawfully due."

Original Romney Portrait Is Sold

Lawrence Fisher to Receive Genuine Work After Buying Alleged Copy.

London, April 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Duke of Sutherland sold the famous Romney portrait of the Countess-Duchess of Sutherland to Howard Young, New York art dealer, for more than $250,000, it was reported here this afternoon.

This is the original from which the alleged copy was made, which Young bought here more than a year ago from A. L. Nicholson and afterward resold to Lawrence Fisher, Detroit motor magnate, for about $200,000. Recently a controversy arose when the Duke of Sutherland issued a statement that this was a copy of the original, which, he said, still was in his possession. The picture is one of a beautiful girl, daughter of the seventeenth and last Earl of Sutherland.

Upon the news that the Duke of Sutherland held the original, Young refunded the purchase price to Fisher and left with the portrait for London. There Nicholson offered to show side by side the two Romney portraits in order to determine which, if either, was a copy.

Chaplin's Hair Dyed.

Hollywood, Calif., April 24 (A.P.).—Charles Chaplin had his hair dyed at a beauty shop here yesterday. The graying streaks about the temples were made black. He said it was necessary because of immediate film work.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

RITES HERE TODAY FOR DR. A. C. TRUE

BURIAL ON LONG ISLAND

Funeral services for Dr. Alfred Charles True, who died Tuesday after 40 years of service with the Department of Agriculture as director of agriculture research and extension education, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Foundry Methodist Church. Interment will take place at Flushing, N. Y.

Dr. True entered the Department of Agriculture in 1889 as editor in the office of experimental stations. He became director of the office four years later, after serving two years as assistant director. While in that position, Dr. True began his work in the field of teaching of agriculture and research. He was dean of the first graduate school in agriculture at Ohio State University, and of succeeding graduate schools held under the auspices of American agricultural colleges and the United States experimental tations, from 1906 to 1916. He was president of the association in 1914.

After the passage of the Smith-Lever act in 1914, creating the national system of cooperative extension and the States relations service, comprising the office of experiment stations, the office of extension work, the office of home economics and the office of agricultural instruction, Dr. True was appointed director of the service and continued in that office for eight years.

From 1923 until his death, he was engaged in preparation of a series of publications covering the history of education and reasearch in agriculture

Dr. True was born at Middletown, Conn., June 5, 1853. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and took a postgraduate course at Harvard. He was an instructor at Wesleyan University before becoming connected with the Department of Agriculture.

He was a trustee of Foundry Methodist Church, chairman of the committee on religious education, a trustee of American University, and a member of the Cosmos Club and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is survived by a son and daughter, Henry Hyde True, of Lake Wales, Fla. and Elizabeth True Twamley, of Flushing, N. Y., and a granddaughter, Mary Rebecca Twamley.

RITES FOR MRS. MARY DAVIS.

Funeral Today of Founder of Rhythmic Training School.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Gale Davis, 73 years old, principal of the Rhythmic Training School since 1911, who died Tuesday at the residence, 1880 Biltmore street, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Hysong funeral home. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

The Rhythmic Training School was founded by the late Lucy Gale Barber, a sister of Mrs. Davis. After Mrs. Barber's death Mrs. Davis carried on the work. The school was devoted principally to the teaching of young children.

Mrs. Davis was a graduate of New York University and a postgraduate of Columbia. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. G. M. Davidson, of Rutherford, N. J.

Fireman Killed, 13 More Overcome in Louisville

Louisville, April 24 (A.P.).—One fireman lost his life and thirteen of his fellows were overcome by smoke and otherwise injured fighting a $75,000 fire that swept a four-story building occupied by a shoe store last night. John Malick, 36, fell through a skylight and was overcome by smoke. He died en route to a hospital.

Malick stepped through the skylight hidden by the dense smoke. A rope was lowered to him to which he grabbed and was drawn almost to safety only to drop back. Three other firemen were overcome trying to save him.

DEAD SCIENTIST

DR. A. C. TRUE.

U. S. Pathologist Expert Found Dead

Dr. Leigh H. Pennington, of Syracuse, Expires During Heart Attack.

Dr. Leigh H. Pennington, 52 years old, of Syracuse, N. Y., an expert pathologist in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of Miss Rosalie Johns, 3215 Adams Mill road northwest, where he was a roomer. Death was due to heart failure, it was declared, following an autopsy yesterday morning.

The remains of Dr. Pennington were shipped to Syracuse yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Pennington and a married daughter survive, according to H. E. Allanson, assistant director of the bureau.

Dr. Pennington was on leave of absence from Syracuse University, where he is a noted professor in the forestry course. He had been connected with the Department of Agriculture for many years for various periods of time. He had worked Tuesday all day and until 10 o'clock in the evening, apparently being in the best of health. When he did not appear for breakfast at the Johns' home his absence was investigated and his body found in bed.

WINSBORO FUNERAL TODAY.

Rites Will Be Conducted at Front Royal for Veteran.

Funeral services are to be held at Front Royal, Va., today for John F. Winsboro, 80 years old, of Warren County, who died at the Soldiers' Home here Tuesday. Burial will be at the Bennett Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Winsboro is survived by two sons, Lee Winsboro, of Harrisonburg, Va., and William Winsboro, of Luray, Va., and by two daughters, Mrs. I. Burke and Mrs. Ella Laing, both of Washington.

PULLMAN COMPANY PRESIDENT IS DEAD

E. F. Carry Continued Work Until Week Ago; Began as Iron Founder.

WAS KNIGHTED BY POPE

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—Edward Francis Carry, 62, whose heritage was the iron founder's trade and whose destiny the presidency of the Pullman Co., died at his home today of cerebral embolism. His health had been failing, but until a week ago he had been at the desk he had occupied as president of the Pullman Co. since 1922.

The son of a Fort Wayne, Ind., iron founder, young Carry gravitated naturally into his father's trade, and when he came to Chicago in 1888 entered the employ of Wells & French Co., railway car builders, as a stenographer.

When he left the company as secretary, in 1899, it was to join the staff of the American Car & Foundry Co. He was vice president of that corporation in 1916, when he was elected president of the Haskell & Barker Car Co. at Michigan City, Ind., and in this capacity remained until its absorption by the Pullman Co., of which he was president from that time until his death.

War-time emergencies brought Mr. Carry's abilities into play in various governmental shipping commissions. He was director of operations of the Shipping Board, chairman of the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board, trustee of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and chairman of the Port and Harbor Facilities Commission.

Mr. Carry's active direction of the Associated Catholic Charities and his interest in Catholic educational facilities earned him the knighthood of St. Gregory, conferred by the Pope. He was also a knight of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta.

He was born at Fort Wayne May 16, 1867, the son of Joseph J. and Margaret Stoops Carry. His widow, Mrs. Mabel Underwood Carry, and two daughters, Mrs. W. F. Nicholson and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, jr., all of Chicago, survive.

Doctor and Girl of 12 Die in Burning Home

Nicholasville, Ky., April 24 (A.P.).—Dr. John Thomas Welch, 70, former State senator, and Katherine Wolf, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolf, lost their lives in a fire that destroyed the physician's home early this morning.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was discovered by a 14-year-old daughter of Raymond Rose, who escaped and turned in an alarm. Dr. Welch was treating other children in the Wolf family for scarlet fever and had taken Katherine to his own home to prevent her from contracting it. The other child had accompanied her.

When firemen arrived Dr. Welch's body was plainly visible through an open front door. It is thought the doctor was out on a call when the fire started and entered his home in an effort to rescue the children.

BEHIND THE SCENES

With NELSON B. BELL

It will come as a shock to a vast number of film fans in the Capital to learn that the engagement of Wesley Eddy as master of ceremonies at Loew's Palace Theater will terminate, at least temporarily, at the end of his seventy-fifth consecutive week at the close of the last performance on May 10, according to present plans that have just come to the knowledge of this column.

For the week beginning this Saturday, April 27, Mr. Eddy will be on leave of absence, priming himself, no doubt, for the series of farewell ovations that will inevitably be accorded him by his host of admirers during his final appearances the week of May 4.

According to my information, which I deem reliable, Wesley will transfer his ebullient and versatile talents to Pittsburgh for a three-months period—if all goes as well there as it has here—after which it is not beyond the range of possibility that he will return to the corner of Thirteenth and F, the scene of an engagement that has been epochal in Washington's picture-house history.

There is no reason why I should not confess that I contemplate the departure of Mr. Eddy with the utmost regret. It has always been my view that he is one of a precious few particularly gifted in his chosen profession. In addition to being an entertainer of exceptional resourcefulness, he is a valuable aid to any show in the capacity of master of ceremonies. He has the knack of getting the numbers on and off with speed and precision and without offensive affront to an audience often enthusiastic beyond the deserts of the given act. Furthermore, he is blessed with pep, an easy stage presence and an apparently inexhaustible fund of contagious good humor. These necessary attributes are easy to find singly, but to secure them in combination in a single individual is something else again.

The matter of Mr. Eddy's successor, as I understand it, has not as yet been definitely determined. One rumor has it that a new m. c. is to be assigned to the Palace; another, that each stage unit will bring its own major domo as part of the traveling troupe. Whichever way it eventuates, the boys are going to have a tough time trying to fill the vacated shoes.

And all this revives another persistent rumor to the effect that the Loew interests, since the acquisition of control by Fox, plan to produce their own unit shows and that the Publix units, so long a popular fixture at the Palace, will be transferred to the Earle, ostensibly the downtown ace house of the Stanley-Crandall Co., now controlled by Warner Brothers. This, at least, is in line with the report that the Warners are conferring with Paramount-Famous-Lasky on the matter of amalgamation, as well as with United Artists. Publix is a Paramount affiliation, or, perhaps better said, subsidiary.

The shift in stage shows, I am told, was originally scheduled for April 15, then deferred to the 30th, and now may take place any old time. One guess is as good as another, and none at all may be no worse.

And as long as we are into this discussion of the Loew-down on various topics, it might be of interest to his Washington friends to know that Charlie Raymond, former managing director of the Rialto Theater in this city, is now general manager of the Loew enterprises in Baltimore, having been transferred back East from St. Louis a fortnight or so ago.

After his departure from Washington, Mr. Raymond married Virginia Futrelle, daughter of the late Jacques Futrelle, noted author, and a gifted soprano whose voice is familiar to music lovers of the Capital, and there is now a little Raymond running around the house in addition to the hedge.

Contrary to original intention, "The Broadway Melody" will not be continued through a fifth week at the Columbia, although a lobbyful of standees at 8:15 Monday evening when I passed there would seem to have warranted it. At any rate, devotees of the new type of talking-singing-dancing picture will not be at a loss for some place to go. The Metropolitan, beginning Saturday, will present Paramount's "Close Harmony," co-starring Nancy Carroll and Charles "Buddy" Rogers, two of the most popular screen luminaries currently before the public, supported by Jack Oakie, "Skeets" Gallagher and a notable list of assisting artists.

It is in this picture that "Buddy" Rogers achieves the ambition of a lifetime. He plays practically every instrument in the band, including trombone, piano, saxophone, trumpet and drums—in addition to which he sings a bit. And I am assured by those who ought to know that he really does all of the performing himself. Ghost artists are out. Jess Stafford and his band, one of the most popular of the West Coast musical organizations, supply the background for Charlie's versatile pastiming

Incidentally, the Ambassador will break in a new sound equipment on Sunday, consisting of Vitaphone, Movietone and public address system. This is identical with the equipment in use at the Metropolitan and Earle and will enable the Eighteenth and Columbia road house to present identical bills with those offered in the downtown-first-run area, a thing heretofore impossible.

Next week's attractions: Columbia, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Iron Mask;" Metropolitan, Nancy Carroll and "Buddy" Rogers in "Close Harmony;" Fox, George O'Brien and Lois Moran in "True Heaven;" Palace, Willard Mack in "The Voice of the City;" Earle, Richard Dix in "Nothing But the Truth;" Rialto, Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut in "Show Boat;" Little, "Shiraz." All-talkers in the majority.

Wireless to Messrs. Idzal, Meakin and Winchester, Fox Theater, Washington, D. C.: Thank you. Will be at the preview of "Through Different Eyes" tonight and hope I won't see it that way.

So long. See you Saturday.

AN ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR THE FIRST ...THE ONLY ONE!

THIS General Electric is the only refrigerator built entirely of steel! Think what that means! It is sturdy and durable beyond anything that you ever believed a refrigerator possibly could be.

This small-family model freezes a generous supply of ice... and in a shorter time. One tray freezes in two hours, both trays in four. These freezing rates can be speeded up at will by means of the easily accessible temperature control. It uses less current because the cabinet is so efficient that cold does not leak out and heat does not creep in.

And, of course, it has the exclusive advantage of simplified mechanism, enclosed in an hermetically sealed steel casing and mounted on top. This leaves the greatest area available for food storage and makes possible the up-on-legs model which renders underneath cleaning easy.

In operation it is extremely quiet. It never needs oiling. It is as portable as a piece of furniture. You just plug it into any convenient outlet. See all its unique features yourself. Come in today. And ask about the very convenient plan on which it can be bought.

Listen in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening, 9 to 10 Eastern Standard Time, over the N.B.C. network of forty-two stations.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

THE HURRY CALL FROM DAWSON.

CHAPTER V.

The Uprising on the Yukon Lilly.

Klondike Kate and Harry land in a treetop. Kate recognizes the Fire Feather mine, and they are planning to approach the mine when they see a number of armed men going toward the mine. They proceed hastily to warn the miners of their danger. Kate recognizes Capt. Dodo as her husband. They declare a truce.

LITTLE FOX did not hesitate, but led the way back among the trees to the ledges at the foot of the mountains. Here, pushing aside some bushes, he revealed a small low-roofed cave. "The gold is there, boss. You go in and see."

"You go in and bring some out, Little Fox," ordered the old detective, not wanting to take any risks.

The boy crawled in and a moment later came out carrying a gunnysack. "Dere, boss. Weap more inside."

Old King Brady stooped and opened the bag which Little Fox had placed at his feet. The gunnysack was filled to the brim with tiny nuggets of gold!

When Old King Brady had finished examining the store of gunnysacks in the cave he put Forty-Mile Mike aboard one of the boats and with Little Fox pulled down to the next cove. Here he found Joe Provine waiting and acquainted him with the fate of the balloon. Joe was greatly excited. "Do you think Mme. Kate is dead?" he asked.

"No, I don't. She and my partner fell into the top of a spruce tree. The branches were thick enough to break their fall and I don't doubt they are safe in the Fire Feather basin now. We must return to the yacht and talk it over with Capt. Modler."

"The boys won't go," growled Provine.

"We have two guides right here," continued the detective, pointing to Little Fox and Mike. "Are they all cowards that they will refuse to attempt the rescue of the woman who has used them so well?"

"We'll go to the yacht, and see. But I don't think any of the boys will want to take a chance on being dynamited."

"That fellow means mischief," thought Old King Brady.

They made all haste back to the Yukon Lilly. Capt. Modler was greatly excited. "It's a bad job, and just as you suspect, Brady. There is gold stored away in the hold. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if the men made this an excuse to seize the yacht and make off with the gold."

"Are there no honest ones among them?"

"Don't know. Frank and Dave were straight, but they are counted out. I scent trouble, I do."

"How about the mate and the engineer?"

"I wouldn't trust the mate, but Emmons is all right."

"You would make no move to run up after the gold, then?"

"I would wait until morning. We may hear from Mme. Kate yet. She has a commanding way which has held these fellows in check so far. I know they are plotting against her, and I was opposed to this trip from the first."

"Come, come. There is no use taking such a gloomy view of it. If you distrust the mate, have the prisoner put in confinement, so that if he has not told the men about the gold already he won't do it. Then order a run up to the upper cove. I see no sense in hanging back."

Having made these remarks, Old King Brady departed.

Old King Brady felt uneasy about having confided in Capt. Modler. He no sooner stepped on deck than his fears were further aroused. The prisoner had not been put in confinement as ordered, but was the center of a listening group. Joe Provine and Little Fox were among them, also. Deeply disturbed, Old King Brady descended to the cabin. He had to do some thinking. Just then Margaretta came gliding in.

"Hush!" she whispered. "Don't speak aloud. Tell me where Kate is?"

"The balloon was caught in the storm and she was thrown out with my partner. She may have escaped, but I don't know."

"Fool!" hissed the old woman. "Why you tell dem? Dey had lot. Dey plot against madame. Now dey kill you and me. Man, dere iss gold on dis yacht. Dey vill get it, I know. Follow me." She threw open the door and Old King Brady followed her through Klondike Kate's cabin into a narrw passage which led forward between decks. "Listen!" she ordered.

Old King Brady Overhears a Threat.

Old King Brady heard the voices. "What we really want is the gold," said one. "Everything else must stand aside."

"And the detective?" the voice of the mate was heard.

"I say shoot him and chuck him into the river," said the voice of Joe Provine.

"It's the easiest way, but may lead to trouble."

"What about Capt. Modler?" asked another.

"He can't hurt us," said Fergus.

"Come now, you fellers is losing time," growled Forty Mile Mike. "That man Brady shot me, and I'm going to stick a knife in the detective's heart I tell you all that gold is no dream. There's over three hundred thousand dollars in it."

"Settled! Let's get right down to it," a number of voices cried. "Let's go for the detective."

Old King Brady lost no time in slipping back to Margaretta. "You were right. They are getting ready to kill me. What shall we do?" He looked about him. "How many ways out of the cabin?"

"Three. By the door, by de odder door forward, by dis hatch."

The old detective drew the bolt which secured the hatch and gently raised it. He could see no one on deck. "They are in the cabin looking for me. If I could only fasten them in at least it would give me time to escape by boat."

He sprang out on the deck. The forecastle companionway was close beside him. He quickly shut the door and bolted it. It was the same with the cabin companionway, quick as lightning he had bolted it.

"What is all this?" spoke a voice at Old King Brady's elbow.

"You hear?" cried Old King Brady, as there came a loud banging on the door. Capt. Modler stood there as pale as death. "You see I spoke the truth They mean to kill us both."

"What we want now is to fasten those fellows in. Have you hammer and nails handy?" asked Old King Brady.

"Plenty in my stateroom. But we are stuck now, the engineer is locked in there with the others!"

The Mystery of the Yacht.

"You are with me in this deal, captain?" Old King Brady did not say that he had doubted him, although such was the case.

"To the last. Can you doubt me?" He hurriedly left for the hammer and nails.

Would the door hold? Again and again the men threw themselves against it, but it gave very little. Back came the captain and in no time the hatch was secured and the companionway doors also, and for the time being they were safe.

"We can't stay here long," said the captain. And Old King Brady agreed, adding, "Let's take the launch, you and I and Margaretta, and go in search of Klondike Kate. These fellows are sure to follow us. If we are sharp we may get the yacht back and the gold with it."

"You are right. You and Margaretta go ahead and I'll join you in a minute. This they did. Old King Brady began to think he had misjudged the old woman. She had lapsed into silence and was regarding Old King Brady closely, her little snaky eyes snapping. Soon Capt. Modler joined them, and the launch went flying up French River.

Some two hours later Young King Brady and Klondike Kate were pacing up and down the shore, waiting for the return of the outlaw and his ten followers who had gone back to the Fire Feather for the last installment of the gold. Harry paced up and down impatiently, for all he could see was trouble ahead.

"Look here, Harry, I know you think I have have made a big mistake, and now that I have time to think, I agree with you. I know Capt. Dodo is one of the biggest liars in creation—and I know him thoroughly."

"For your sake, I wish we were safe aboard the yacht, and ready with a search party for my chief."

"You must have thought me crazy when you saw that balloon and it was a bad job all around, Oh! Brady! Look there!" At this instant the Yukon Lilly was coming around the point of rocks.

"I don't see a soul on deck," reported Harry, peering through his glass.

"If the Lilly passes the point she will be thrown into the basin and the force of her steam is bound to drive her against the rocks on the upper point." And that is just what did happen. She ran head on against the ledges at the upper end and remained there.

This put an end to conversation between these two. It was not impossible to get out along the base of the ledges on the lower side, as there was much shelving rock before the final rise began. Harry and Kate hurried in that direction and soon came to the spot where the Yukon Lilly was lodged.

"The launch is gone!" cried Klondike Kate as they drew near.

"Yes. And see, the companionway is broken all to pieces," added Harry.

"This means trouble! There doesn't seem to be a soul on board. What can it mean?" cried Kate.

"There may have been an attack on the yacht by some outlaw band."

"I know of none in these parts except Capt. Dodo's, and you know that can't be it. We'll go aboard and see what we can learn."

"Not you!" said Harry. 'Remain here and let me try it. There is no telling what danger we may run up against."

"That's just the reason I am going," said Kate, stubbornly. And they hurried down to the water's edge. Here was indeed mystery. If the mutinous crew of the Lilly had succeeded in breaking out of the cabin then what had become of them? How did it happen that the yacht had been abandoned under full steam?

Another chapter in this gripping story of adventure in the Far North is in tomorrow's paper. Don't miss it. Old King Brady is having new experiences.

What Today Means to You

APRIL 25

"TAURUS."

IF April 25th is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 8:05 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 7:40 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m.

A keen desire to be busy and active will be felt today, the effect of stimulating influences. Much will be accomplished. During the evening hours a feeling of weariness will prevail. Optimism will be followed by pessimism.

The child born today will be born with a spark of genius in some artistic line. It may not, however, have sufficient force of character to develop its talents upon its own initiative.

Yours, from choice, will be a life of service. You like to please and do for others and by so doing, derive much happiness. You are exceedingly grateful for all kindnesses and considerations bestowed upon you, but you are willing to give of self without a reward in view. The privilege to help others toward happiness, the privilege to ease a burden, and the privilege to cheer the weary are to you joys in themselves.

It is true that one of your nature is often imposed upon, and that you do not always receive kindness for kindness, but this does not embitter you, nor does it destroy the sweetness of your character. You are not, however, without spunk; you are not willing to be anyone's doormat. You do not have a Pollyanna optimism or goodness; you are simply a red-blooded person with a loveable disposition and a most generous, sympathetic and an unselfish nature.

You do not pose as a saint or a sinner. You are your natural self at all times. Your ambitions are simple and not beyond your reach. Your tastes and desires are not extravagant.

Successful people born April 25th.

U. S. Girl Wed in London.

London, April 24 (A.P.).—Miss Esther Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Francis Murphy, of New York, was married today in St. Mary's Church, Cadogan Gardens, to Evelyn John Strachey, son of the late St. Loe Strachey, famous editor of The Spectator.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

APRIL 25.

HER Royal Highness Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary, commonly known as Princess Mary of England, duaghter of King George V and Queen Mary, was born this day, 1897.

Her marriage in 1922 to Viscount Henry Lascelles was attended with regal magnificence. The whole British Kingdom rejoiced at the marriage, which was particularly popular because although her husband was of a royal family he was a commoner. He had served in the World War as captain of the Grenadier Guards and was wounded three times. They have two sons.

Princess Mary speaks German, French and Italian fluently. She is an expert needlewoman, an expert cook and can take dictation and type. During the World War she was a nurse. Her chief amusements are hunting and music.

Her father ascended the British throne in 1910. She is the only daughter. She has four brothers, of whom the oldest is Edward Albert, Prince of Wales.

Mrs. Burton Harrison, American dramatist, was born this day, 1840.

Orphans of St. John's Will See Marionettes

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will be presented this afternoon by Theodore Tiller's marionettes for the benefit of 40 children from St. John's Church Orphanage, who will be guests of the Hecht Co. The special performance will begin at 3:30 o'clock.

Tiller's repertoire includes three plays written by himself for his tiny actors. They are "Puppet Follies of 1929," "From the Depths of Fuji Yama" and "Two Chinese Vases."

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Ottum, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

NATIONAL.

Next week, beginning Monday, April 29, the National Theater Players will produce the play "Square Crooks," a new kind of crook comedy. In New York it proved one of the most successful attractions of its season, playing at Daly's and the Maxine Elliott Theaters for long runs.

Although the title might lead to contrary belief, "Square Crooks" is basically a comedy. It is packed full of thrilling moments, it is true, and it is sometimes touched with melodrama; but the comedy is a dominant element, and there are also moments of real pathos.

The play has to do with two young men formerly engaged in careers contrary to the law. One is married, the other in love with a beautiful girl. A hounding detective, on the trail of the two, brings about their arrest when a valuable string of pearls is stolen from their employer's home. After that, events move quick and fast and a whirlwind finish makes "Square Crooks" one of the most unusual plays to be presented here this season.

The regular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday have been scheduled.

BELASCO.

On Sunday, April 28, Morris Gest will bring Balieff's Chauve-Souris to the Belasco Theater for an engagement of one week with an entirely new program and a curtain of "The Talking Pictures of 1929," devised by Gest himself. Only one old-time favorite has been retained, "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

Once again the bland Nikita, rotund and cherubic, will introduce his artists with customary drollery, cracking ingenious jokes in his sly patios that has become famous. And his delightful emigres from Russia will be seen in a new international revue; Muscovite in its origin and naivete, splashing with colors and animated movement. The curtain will fall and rise upon episodes both sad and gay, revealing performers who seem to have stepped from a Volga showboat, so unsophisticated are they in their efforts to please.

Among the items which have most delighted the New York audiences have been "The Midnight Review," in which Napoleon and his marshals examine their spectral troops to an accompaniment of mournful music; "Popoff's Porcelains," seemingly a Watteau; and "Fragment of an Etruscan Vase," a lovely dance-tableau enlivened by an imitation of Charles Chaplin.

POLI'S.

Theatergoers who have never seen "Blossom Time," one of the outstanding musical triumphs of all time, and those who annually await its appearance will have cause for delight in the announcement that this year's presentation, which comes to Poli's for one week commencing Sunday night, will be all new and superior in every character, with the same production and company fully intact that has broken all its own previous records this season and was the hit of Chicago a few months ago.

The tour of "Blossom Time" this season is highly significant, for it is being made in conjunction with the Franz Schubert centenary. In case there are some playgoers who may not know it, this popular success is based upon the life, romance and music of Franz Schubert, the great composer.

Genevieve Naegele, Herbert Lyle, John Charles Gilbert, Robert Lee Allen, Ivan Servais, Nancy Sheridan, Elsa Lang, Erba Robeson and Joseph Wilkins are among the outstanding personalities in this year's super "Blossom Time." Miss Naegele Allen and Gilbert have been in it for the last three years, while Miss Robeson and Servais were in the original New York company, eight years ago Lyle was the outstanding hit of the record-breaking Mid Western Company of "My Maryland" last year.

STRAND.

Another new and enterprising burlesque show, "Merry Whirl," will be presented at the Strand Theater next week. It is said to provide entertainment of corking good fun, interspersed with plenty of catchy songs, and nifty dances. Art Gardner, one of the most popular of comic actors, and Marie Breen, soubrette, are featured. Other performers include Billy Kavanaugh, Jack Lamont, Loretta Beyes, Bonnie and Joe Mack, all noted for their versatility. An exceptional chorus caps this most inviting show.

LECTURE AT NATIONAL.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, Dr. Archibald Henderson, distinguished critic and historian, will deliver a lecture on George Bernard Shaw and his plays at the National Theater here. This special lecture, which is free, is sponsored by the New York Theater Guild and guild subscribers and their friends are especially invited to attend. Dr. Henderson is internationally known as the biographer of George Bernard Shaw and his talk includes some exceedingly interesting highlights in the career of the famous Irish dramatist.

ROBIN HOOD PLAYERS.

Paul Messink's Robin Hood Players will present Joseph Carlton's "The Road Back," a comedy-drama in three acts, this evening at St. Paul's Hall, beginning at 8:20.

The cast is selected from the outstanding talent among local dramatic organizations.

Marionettes at Hechts.

Theodore Tiller, jr., in his marionette presentations at The Hecht Co. this week revives his Japanese play, "From the Depths of Fuji Yama," which depicts the story of the kidnaping of a nobleman's daughter by the sacred dragon of the sacred mountain. Another of Mr. Tiller's attractions is "Two Chinese Vases," a tragic romance in a Chinese garden.

The puppets will give a performance of "Puppet Follies of 1929" today. "Two Chinese Vases" is scheduled for tomorrow. Saturday will bring forth the entire repertory.

"Even outdoor girls come to me with this problem"

—Says a woman athlete about this phase of feminine hygiene

Not even the outdoor girl is free from fear of offending others at times. She now learns with relief of this new process which ends all odor in sanitary pads.

NO woman is sure, when she learns the possibilities of this offense against daintiness, that she, herself, may not be guilty at certain times. But she is sure, today, that she need not be guilty. Kotex Laboratories have discovered (and patented*) a process which neutralizes all odor. Each Kotex sanitary pad is now scientifically treated by this formula. The results, in peace of mind, are vitally important to women.

The fear of being conspicuous

Equally important is the fact that the new pad is shaped to fit. Corners are rounded and tapered to permit no evidence of sanitary protection when worn. All the clumsiness of old-fashioned methods is overcome.

Greater softness of texture; instant disposability—no laundry; and the fact that you can adjust the layers of filler—these things are of great importance for comfort and good health. And the remarkable absorbency is still one of the most important advantages of Kotex. Cellucotton absorbent wadding takes up 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times more than cotton itself.

Buy a box . . . 45c for twelve . . . at any drug, dry goods or department store. Also obtainable in vending cabinets in rest-rooms by West Disinfecting Co.

SUPER-SIZE KOTEX

Formerly 90c—Now 65c

Some women find Superior size Kotex a special comfort. Exactly the same as the Regular size Kotex, but with added layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding.

Cross Honor Pleasing to Radio Fans

Gold Medal for Good Diction Awarded to WRC Announcer by American Academy — Achieved Fame as Tenor Soloist.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

Judging from the telephone calls which have been received at Station WRC, Washington fans are pleased that Milton J. Cross, of the National Broadcasting Co., was awarded the gold medal for good diction over the radio by the American Academy of Arts and Letters. At the same time medals for good diction on the stage and distinction in arts and letters were awarded to Julia Marlowe and Edith Wharton, respectively.

It was the first time the academy had awarded a medal to a radio announcer. A national committee was formed and during the past two months has listened in on practically every announcer of consequence in the United States. There were those who expressed surprise that the award did not go to Graham McNamee. An inside story from New York is that for a time the committee seriously considered John B. Daniel, who is also well known in Washington, having previously been an announcer here.

When Station WRC was opened August 1, 1923, Mr. Cross came down from New York as the announcer. He has always been connected with Station WJZ, but every now and then returns to the Capital for special occasions. When Lindbergh returned Mr. Cross had a point of vantage in the Capitol dome. During the inauguration ceremonies he was stationed on the Capitol steps.

In appearance Mr. Cross is not unlike John McCormack, excepting that he is considerably younger, being but 32 years old. He is of medium height, rather stout, very unassuming in manner, and not a person who pushes himself forward on any occasion. Although possessing a good sense of humor, his demeanor is always quiet and more or less subdued. He was born in New York and educated at the DeWitt Clinton High School and received his musical training at the Damrosch Institute of Musical Art. Before his entry into radio in 1922, Cross was a singer and attained considerable renown as a tenor soloist. Washington listeners who tune in on the Slumber Hour, which is heard over WRC at 11 o'clock most every night, are familiar with his singing of "Slumber On," which, by the way, was written by another WJZ announcer, Keith McLeod.

Although Mr. Cross has a deep, full voice over the radio it may interest listeners to know that when he talks it is in such a low voice that without the aid of a microphone it could probably not be heard more than three or four feet away. At the time of the Lindbergh celebration in Washington, two of the speakers on the Press Club's program, Richard V. Oulahan, dean of Washington correspondents, and Louis Ludlow, now representative from Indiana, were seeking some pointers with regard to the broadcasting of the program. That they might have expert advice on the subject they were introduced to Graham McNamee and Milton Cross, who happened to be in the club at the time. Mr. McNamee advised Mr. Oulahan to talk into the microphone about the same as one talks into a telephone. Mr. Cross concurred in this.

That night standing in the wings of the Washington Auditorium Mr. Cross introduced the two speakers to the radio audience and in so doing spoke in such a low voice that this writer, who was standing beside him, could scarcely hear what he said. So, where Mr. McNamee advised that a speaker over the radio talk into the microphone about like a person ordinarily talks into a telephone, Mr. Cross talks into the microphone about like a professional telephone man talks into that instrument—not much louder than a whisper.

Naturally, the winning of the American Academy medal by Mr. Cross is not only a feather in his own cap but also that of the National Broadcasting Co. When Hamlin Garland presented the medal to Mr. Cross in New York, the latter said that good diction can be acquired through study and hard work.

"We are taking our work seriously," Mr. Cross went on, "and this annual award still further brings home to us a realization of our responsibilities to the public."

An outstanding program was the Eveready Hour night before last, when portions of the life of Franz Liszt were enacted with a musical background. Elly Ney, concert pianist, played with a brilliance not often heard. There was real fire in her music and she was ably assisted by an orchestra under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret, who made an enviable name for himself in the old days in the Victor recording laboratories and appears to be repeating his success as a director with the radio audience.

There have been complaints—especially with regard to the programs of last summer—that the Eveready Hour has not been keeping up to its old high standard. However, judging from early returns in The Post's balloting, this is still one of the most popular features on the air and promises to give a good account of itself when the returns are finally in.

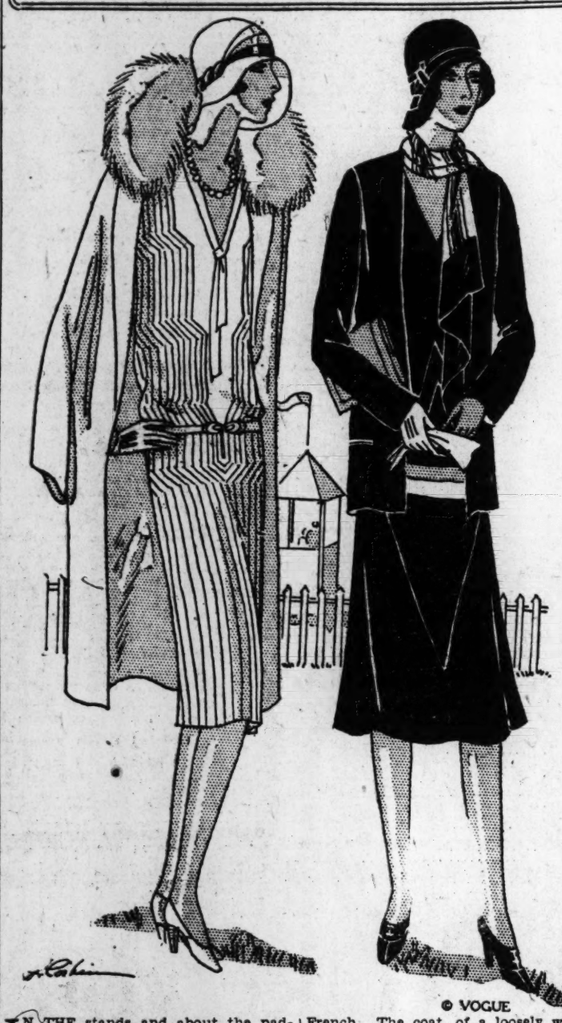
At the Auteuil Races



© VOGUE

IN THE stands and about the paddocks at the races always may be seen an assemblage of women in the smartest costumes. First, at Auteuil mannequins herald the advance mode. Then, at the Grand National in England, the foremost women display their aptitude for sports clothes. And later, at Belmont Park, American women turn out in their smart choices of the season.

In the sketch two young women seen at Auteuil are wearing costumes typical of the new mode. At the left is an ensemble in true beige. The frock with its intricate flat pleating is typically French. The coat, of a loosely woven tweed, has a beige fox collar, and the felt hat is accented with a twisted capucine and brown band.

More typical of the costumes adopted by English and American women for wear at the races is that at the right. Brilliant red is the color, relieved by beige accessories and blue-and-beige banding about the sweater. The scarf, too, has blue-and-beige striping. Bright red was a high color note at the Auteuil races, which is likely to carry over into the American season.

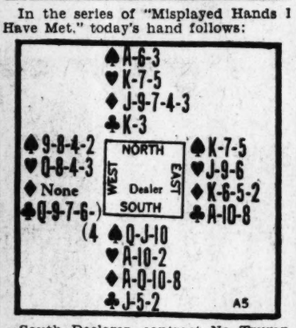
WORK'S BRIDGE

Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play Progressive Auction Bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any Bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work, care of The Washington Post.

In the series of "Misplayed Hands I Have Met," today's hand follows:



South Declarer, contract No Trump. West led the Six of Clubs. Dummy, with King and one small, played the King. East won with the Ace and led back the Ten of Clubs. This cornered South's Jack, so that the adversaries started by winning five Club tricks. On the last two Clubs South discarded a Heart and a Spade. West led a Heart to trick 6. Dummy won and led a small Diamond. Closed Hand won with the Queen, led a Spade and finessed; East's King took the trick and the adversaries made a total of six tricks.

How should the hand have been played?

The Correct Play.

Declarer, having Jack and two small in Closed Hand and King and one in Dummy, should not have played the King of Clubs on the first trick. By playing small from Dummy a trick in the suit must be made regardless of where the adverse Ace and Queen are located. King is played in Dummy from King and one other when closed hand has Jack and only one small, or only cards of the suit smaller than the Jack; but when Closed Hand has Jack and two small, if a small card is played from Dummy on the first trick, it matters not whether East finesses or wins with the Ace and returns the suit. Supposing East to finesse, South would win with the Jack, put Dummy in with the King of Hearts, lead the Jack of Diamonds from Dummy and, East not covering, play the Ten from the South hand, then lead the Nine of Diamonds, playing the Eight from South, and then two more Diamonds exhausting East. Declarer next would lead the Queen of Spades from his own hand and when

Hoover Will Speak Over Air Tonight

Coast-to-Coast Networks to Tell of Beautification of Capital—Marine Band This Morning—Scenes of France by Music at 8:30.

Again two coast-to-coast networks, headed by WEAF and WABC respectively, are scheduled to broadcast the speeches of President Herbert Hoover and other Government officials tonight between 9 and 10 o'clock from the United States Chamber of Commerce Building when plans for beautifying the Capital City are to be discussed.

The WEAF network will include 33 broadcasters, including WRC, and the WABC chain lists 28, with WMAL. There will probably be additions before the event goes on the air.

The speakers, besides President Hoover, will include Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah; Representative Richard N. Elliott, of Indiana, and Milton M. Medary, member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

These distinguished men will tell the radio audience of the Nation the progress of plans of the United States Government for the erection of new Government buildings in Washington and for the development of park systems of the city, projects which involve several hundreds of millions of dollars.

Dr. George C. Havener and Mrs. Grace Hays Riley will be the speakers in a half-hour program on national representation for the District of Columbia from WRC at 8 o'clock.

Halsey-Stuart's "Old Counselor" will be heard again at 10 o'clock tonight from WRC. Musical selections during the period will include the "Scarf Dance," from "Ballet Symphonique," Chaminade; selections from "Blossom Time;" "Tambourin Chinois," Kreisler, xylophone solo; "Rendezvous," Aletter; "After Sunset," Pryor, and "Wedding of the Painted Doll."

A concert by Arcadie Birkenholz, violinist; Caroline Andrews, soprano, and Nicholas Vasilieff, Russian tenor, will be presented by the National Broadcasting Co. and Concert Bureau at 10:30 o'clock. The soloists and the concert orchestra will be under the baton of Cesare Sodero, maestro of the National Grand Opera Company.

George Olsen will be heard in an hour of dance music at 11 o'clock.

Both WRC and WMAL will broadcast a play-by-play account of the Washington-Philadelphia baseball game at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The United States Marine Band will be presented by WRC at 9 o'clock this morning from WRC. Capt. Taylor Branson will conduct. There will be an organ recital at 12:10 o'clock, lasting an hour.

Scenes of France will be depicted by a symphony orchestra directed by Harold Barlow as the subject of the Musical Vignettes from WMAL at 8:30 o'clock. A program composed entirely of popular numbers to be presented by Oliver Smith, tenor, the Sonora Male Trio, the Picadors, and the Mayfair House Salon Orchestra, will be the offering of the Sonora Hour at 10 o'clock.

The Swanee Syncopators will be broadcast from 11 o'clock until midnight.

Cooking in Cuba, the sugar producing island, is the timely subject of Ida Bailey Allen's broadcast this morning at 10 o'clock from WMAL. Mrs. Allen will tell how to prepare "Cuban Hedgehog," Spanish salad, cheese fritters, banana butter and coconut cream.

A Carlton dinner concert will be broadcast by WOL at 7 o'clock, with an interruption at 7:11 o'clock for "Amos 'n' Andy." The National Theater Players will be on the air for a 15-minute period at 6:30 o'clock, followed by Florence Jane Adams, impersonator. Two hours of dance music will be broadcast, beginning at 10 o'clock this evening.

Another National Society, Children of the American Revolution program will be broadcast from WJSV at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The Squash Center Bible Class is to be heard at 9:15 o'clock and the Columbia Trio between 10 and 11 o'clock.

JUST FOLKS

LIFE.

Live for the minute, live for the hour,
Live for the bud and live for the flower.
Live for the baby, live for the lad,
Take what life gives you today and be glad.
What if this minute you're troubled and glum,
Something worth waiting for surely shall come.

Live for the laughter that rings in the hall,
Live for the friends who will drop in to call,
Live for the help which your strength can bestow,
The friend you can be to some others you know,
Live for the wrong you may some day set right,
Live for the morning and live for the night.

Live out the burdens and live out the cares,
Live for the harvest which summer prepares.
Live for the task and its prize to be won,
The joy of achievement when toiling is done,
Live and rejoice that God made you a man

Jane Interprets the Mode

"Gavroche," an ensemble; dress of black and brown plaid woolen, front of beige gio embroidered in brown dots, belt of brown and black grosgrain. Coat of plain brown woolen fabric, trimmed in the dress material. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie., Paris.)

THE modistes seem really determined this time to put an end to the supremacy of the little felt hat. Felt will by no means disappear from the field, but in many cases it will be the trimming and not the body of the hat.

Straws will be more and more important—tropical straws mostly, Bakou, Bengal, palm-leaf and such. But these straws will be combined with a wealth of other materials.

The vogue of Scotch plaids, for example, has been capitalized by Marcelle Roze in an extremely successful series of hats combining plaid ribbons of gay coloring with paillasson straw (a coarse weave of wide straw) in colors matching those in the ribbon.

• • • •

J. Suzanne Talbot is using a good bit of taffeta, interestingly combined with straw, Georgette shows a charming straw model, with wide turndown brim trimmed across the front with a double band of felt and at the right side with little flat feathers of rose, green and white. Agnes has made up some typically tiny models of jersey straw, which show both forehead and ears generously. Reboux is reviving the use of ostrich feathers.

All of which is leading us slowly but inevitably away from the small, close-fitting and extremely plain hat into something more decorative and more feminine.

You might want to know how to batik some time, or to paint on material—and then you would have to dig up a school, pay for your course and spend hours at the school besides! But if you sit down right now and send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet we have made for you this week, you can learn exactly how to both batik and paint on materials with no looking up of schools or paying for courses. Better send it, you'll wish you had some day!

New Fabric Notes.

Woolen pongees printed in quiet but striking futuristic designs in color! Something like the old-fashioned challis, but ever so much prettier. Occasionally there is a design in the same color as the background, woven right into the fabric in silk. And sometimes this silk and woolen surface is printed right over with a colored design.

"L'tl Atmosphere."

Excerpt from a fashion magazine of 1881:

"There is still a great urge for artistic costumes, some of which are very charming and becoming, especially for dinner and evening wear, when the wearers sometimes look as though they had stepped out of family portraits of two or three centuries ago. We learn from good authority that the Princess of Wales has ordered some costumes in Paris to be copied from a portrait at the Louvre, representing the Valois Period."

• • • •

An elegant and entirely practical ensemble—typically Bernhard et Cie—we have illustrated for you today. It is a black and brown plaid woolen, with lingerie touches of beige gio embroidered in brown dots, and has a belt of brown and black grosgrain. The coat is of a plain brown woolen fabric simply trimmed with the dress material.

Visits Among the Birds.

IV. OUR SMALLEST NATIVE BIRD.

DO YOU know what is our smallest native bird?

Yes, it is the ruby-throated humming bird.

The "ruby-throat" gained his name from the patch of red feathers on his throat, as red as a ruby. The rest of his coat is glossy green above and white below. His length is less than four inches.

Ruby-throated humming birds beside their nest.

Take away the feathers, and you find that the body of this little bird is hardly as large as a man's thumb. But he is supplied with strong wing muscles, and he buzzes through the air like a dart. We may say that he can both "hum" and "hump."

The speed of the ruby-throat, together with his sharp bill, makes him a dangerous fighter. Manly Hardy reports that he watched one of these birds drive a robin out of a garden. The ruby-throat is more than a match for sparrows and kingbirds. The woodpecker is one of the few birds which does not run away from the little demon.

"Little demon," to be sure, but if we forget his fighting ways he is a charming creature to watch. He makes his living largely by sipping the nectar of flowers and the sap of trees. He is very fond of sugar maple sap, and often takes the nectar of lilacs, jasmine and honey-suckles.

For solid food the ruby-throat captures spiders and small insects. If you do not like spiders, you may be pleased to hear this news.

In Louisiana this humming bird sometimes grows "tipsy" by taking the nectar from the flowers of the china tree. He drinks so much that he falls to the ground, almost "dead to the world." Then he may be picked up by a human being, and for some moments he will be still; but he will recover and, if set free, will go the rounds again. Let us hope that after his tumble he learns to let drink alone.

NEW U. S. FINANCING EXPLAINED BY MILLS

Undersecretary of Treasury Tells Bankers of Proposed Legislation.

BOND TRADING EXPANDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The proposed Treasury bill, which Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills says will enable that department to conduct financing with greater economy and flexibility, was explained by him last night at the season's final forum dinner meeting of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the Raleigh Hotel.

Reviewing the war-time system of Government financing, which has functioned successfully since, largely because of its facilitation of preliminary short-term financing, Undersecretary Mills said the bill recently introduced by Senator Smoot and Representative Hawley will enable the department to maintain the advantages of the present system and remedy its defects.

Under the legislation, Treasury bills would be issued from time to time on a discount basis, with maturity not exceeding twelve months, to be sold for cash under competitive conditions, at the lowest rates bid by prospective buyers.

Explaining that while this would be a new type of Federal security, he reminded there was nothing novel in its form, corresponding to one of the oldest types of commercial paper, the bankers' bill; and that a Treasury bill had been used for many years by Great Britain as a most convenient and economical way to obtain funds for current needs.

The British treasury has so developed financing by this means that with weekly offerings, daily issues and maturities the bills have obtained a state of flexibility that enables the treasury to adjust its cash positions practically daily.

Assuring his audience that it was not the United States Treasury's intention of proceeding on anything like the British scale where aggregate outstanding amount averages £600,000,000, he expressed belief that a monthly offering of a comparatively small amount of 90-day Treasury bills would offer numerous definite advantages.

Competitive bidding for them, he said, would enable the Treasury to get lowest discount rates consistent with current market conditions rather than obligation for a best estimate of what the rate should be, and in face of quarterly expenditures an adjustment of their sale could be made to avoid borrowing of funds in advance of requirement, with consequent heavy interest cost.

Maturity of the bills on actual rather than nominal dates of tax collection would save the money market from disturbances which would occur every quarter-day were it not for special intervention of Federal Reserve banks, added Mr. Mills.

Ordinarily, he explained, it would not be necessary to sell any considerable amount of these bills at times of temporary stringency and high money rates such as prevailed in March, and the Treasury would also be in position to take full advantage of periods of ease.

The final advantage, in the speaker's belief, would be the fact that the Government would get the full benefit derived from furnishing the public a new instrument for employment of temporary surplus funds, which, because of its convenient and frequent maturities, should prove popular.

Admitting success of the program would depend largely on the attitude of the bankers, he said in conclusion:

"Let me emphasize that there is no intention to undertake anything revolutionary, or to overturn a system which has proved so eminently satisfactory in the past, but to supplement it and improve it by rendering it more flexible, more closely adjusted to our current financial needs, and more economical in its general operation.

Recalling to the bankers the fact that they had always cooperated with the Treasury in the past, Mr. Mills expressed hope that the considerations he had outlined for the Treasury bill carried weight enough to justify their cooperation and support.

The meeting was followed by an interesting discussion, in which Mr. Mills answered questions concerning the plan. A buffet supper was then served.

Acacia Officers Elected.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Acacia Mutual Life Association held yesterday, the following officers were elected: William Montgomery, president; J. Harry Cunningham, vice president; J. P. Yort, secretary and actuary; J. Claude Keiper, treasurer; Charles E. Baldwin, assistant treasurer and secretary to the board, and John B. Nichols, medical examiner.

Bond Trading Broadens.

Scope of trading in the bond market on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday was substantially larger than Tuesday, transactions increasing more than 200 per cent in volume, and a total of $11,400 being listed, against $4,600 the day before.

This was a notable feature in a receding market which opened with a $400 lot of Washington Gas 6s, Series B, selling at 103, two points off. A $2,500 lot of these sold after call at 104½, however. A $1,000 worth of the A bonds traded at 102¼, and a $500 lot of the 5s at 100¾, both fractional declines. A $6,000 lot of Washington Railway & Electric 4s passed at 86¾, fractional rise.

Moving of 1,000 shares of National Mortgage & Investment preferred at 5¾, and 100 of Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred at 7½, last sale, led the stock division in trading volume. Federal American National Bank came out at 335.

Bank Credit Bureau Planned.

Feature for Washington banks was forecast yesterday, as a definite plan following the spring meeting of the District of Columbia Bankers Association tomorrow afternoon, which will be preceded by a meeting of the association's council of administration.

The meeting of the association will be called to consider reports from all of the standing committees and sections, and probably will be the last business session prior to the annual convention at Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y., June 20-23, with the possible exception of one to act definitely on establishment of the credit bureau.

Sections reporting are those on fiduciaries, safe deposits and auditors and comptrollers, business of the committee on profitable accounts having been referred to the last named section, and a recommendation on uniformity of methods of analysis also being expected.

President Robert V. Fleming will make a report as a member of the executive council of the American Bankers Association, on the recent meeting of that group at Biloxi, Miss., and another as chairman of the credit bureau committee. Important discussion on the fraud law and its subsequent modifications is also predicted.

Bank Women's Club to Meet.

An anticipated large attendance at the dinner meeting of the Bank Women's Club of Washington tonight, which will be addressed by Miss Mina M. Bruere, national president of the Association of Bank Women and assistant secretary of the Central Union Trust Co., of New York, has led to a transfer of the meeting place from Women's City Club, 22 Jackson place, to the City Club, on G street. Ninety members had signified yesterday their intention of attending the meeting, which is scheduled to begin at 6:30 o'clock.

FORUM SPEAKER

CURB MARKET REVIEW

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Heavy profit taking checked a rally in today's curb market, leaving final quotations decidedly irregular. A higher renewal rate for call money and fears of a large increase in brokers' loans this week, coupled with the belief that the technical position of many issues had been weakened by the rapidity of the recent advance, prompted the selling movement.

The day's news was largely favorable, including a series of increased or special dividends, publication of optimistic weekly steel trade reviews and another batch of excellent earnings statements.

With the exception of South Penn, which moved up more than 4 points to a new high record, the oils were rather sluggish. Humble fell back more than 2 points. An extreme gain of nearly 5 points in United Gas Improvement, nearly half of which was lost, and a 2-point drop in American Superpower B were the only changes of consequence in the public utility group. United Gas Improvement has brought suit against Associated Gas & Electric to inquire into circumstances as to how the latter obtained control of General Gas & Electric.

Revival of activity and strength in Alexander industries featured the airplane group. Buying of this stock was influenced by reports that the company would manufacture two additional models of the bullet plane, one larger and one smaller than the model for which many orders were taken at the Detroit aircraft show. Travelair jumped 4 points on one sale and Sikorsky was again in good demand.

Establishment of a new high record by American Rolling Mills preceded the transfer of the stock to the "big board." Hiram Walker rallied sharply on the announcement of a three-for-one stock split-up and then lost most of its gain. International Projector, which sold as low as 12 earlier in the year, ran up to another new high at 79½ before it encountered profit taking. Arcturus Radio Tubes also moved into new high ground.

A brisk advance in Metropolitan Chain Stores, based on reports of expanding earnings and merger prospects, was the only feature of interest in the chain store and merchandising groups. Newberry advanced 2 points on a small turnover in response to the declaration of a 50 per cent stock dividend.

Common stock of the Perryman Electric Co. was admitted to trading today, opening at 24¼, or 9 points above the recent offering price, and then dropping to 21⅞. The company manufactures vacuum tubes and radio, television and talking picture equipment, and earned $207,581 last year, most of it in the final quarter.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—North American Wheat Export business estimated as high as 4,500,000 bushels in the last 48 hours gave grain values a decided new upturn today. Purchasing of wheat for Spain alone was said to equal four months' requirements.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at ¾c to 1¼c net advance. Corn finished 1c to 1¼c higher; oats, ⅜c to ⅞c up, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 12c.

With export dealings on a mammoth scale and with Liverpool wheat quotations today much higher than due, the wheat market in Chicago displayed pronounced strength. Liquidating sales here on the part of holders of May contracts who preferred to avoid acceptance of approaching deliveries did a good deal at times to bring about reactions from the day's top prices, but the effect of such selling failed to hinder subsequent rallies. Meanwhile, future delivery demand as a whole was of a broad general character in keeping with expansion of transatlantic call for shipments both from Canada and the United States, considerable amounts of No. 2, domestic hard winter and of durum wheat being included.

Advices telling of delayed seeding of spring wheat northwest, especially in North Dakota and Montana, counted as a further stimulus today to friends of higher prices. Seeding of North Dakota wheat in particular was stated officially to be well under the total of a year ago. There were also advices that winter-killing of wheat in Roumania amounted to as much as 20 per cent, and that European crop prospects elsewhere were not altogether promising. Removal of import duties by Spain was noted as a reason for the extra large buying abroad for that country.

Corn, Oats and Rye sympathized with the advance of wheat. Besides, yesterday's unusual selling pressure on corn had subsided and rains were threatening today to hamper plowing and planting already late in some sections of the corn belt, notably Iowa. Talk was current that oats acreage would be curtailed as a result of delays to seeding.

ATHLETICS POUND OUT 9 TO 4 VICTORY OVER NATS

N.Y.U. Honors G. U. on Grid Schedule

Annual Game Is Made Violets' Homecoming Feature.

700 Pay Tribute to Hilltop Stars at "G" Dinner.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY will honor its 1929 football game with Georgetown University by adopting it as the feature of its homecoming day for alumni, John F. (Chick) Meehan, coach of the N. Y. U. Football Team, stated in an address to more than 700 guests at the fifth annual Georgetown Varsity "G" dinner, held last night at the Willard Hotel in honor of past and present Hilltop athletics.

Greeted by salvos of applause from the assemblage of Georgetown officials, alumni, friends and undergraduates, Meehan's announcement was taken as an indication that the athletic rivalry which sprang up between the Violet and the Blue and Gray on the gridiron last fall will be made permanent.

Saturday, November 9, is the date of the next meeting of the Georgetown and New York University Elevens. The game will be played in New York, probably at the Polo Grounds. In their initial engagement last fall Georgetown registered one of the season's greatest upsets in beating the highly touted Gotham outfit by 7 to 2. Meehan referred to that battle last night and praised the Hilltop Team as the smartest football team he had ever seen in action.

Celebrities Pay Tribute to Prowess of G. U. Athletes.

The dinner, arranged by Lou Little, athletic director, and Georgetown alumni, was attended by national and international celebrities and in the opinion of many who have attended previous annual renewals was declared the most successful to date.

Tad Jones, famous football authority and coach of Yale University, and the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown, joined Meehan on the list of speakers. Jones and Meehan both emphasized the importance and necessity of spring practice in the building of a successful football team. Jones also explained that the new fumble rule was made with the idea of protecting the player who fumbles.

Certificates formally recognizing the winner of the varsity "G" were awarded to its members of various Georgetown teams which performed during the past year and to a group of "old timers" who played at the Hilltop prior to the year 1910. H. Don Keresey, graduate of the class of 1914 and president of the Georgetown Alumni of New York City, presented the certificates.

The following received varsity "G" certificates:

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS.

NEW YORK, April 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Cancellation of so many baseball games in the first week of the season left President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, with plenty of time on his hands. He might have used some of it in getting out from his files and rereading a letter he received last August from Robert Quinn, president of the Red Sox.

"I have come to the conclusion," wrote Mr. Quinn, "that the major leagues would be far better off from the standpoint of playing, finance and better health of players if we would cut our season to 140 games, to open about May 1 and close about October 1. It is true we might get considerable rain in May. In most cases, however, it is not a cold rain and does not chill the players and leave them with the 'flu' as does the April weather.

"Every season the double-headers pile up to such an extent that they have become a joke, some clubs having as many as five or six in a row, which wears out the players, particularly the pitchers.

Twenty Games Would Be Played With Each Club Under Plan.

"In playing 140 games you simply cut off two games from each club, one at home and one abroad. With a schedule of 140 games there could be two series of three games each and one of four games; that is, 20 games would be played with each club instead of 22 as called for under the present plan.

"The clubs would not have to go South until the first of April, and at that time they could train much closer to home if they so desired.

"I honestly believe that it would produce better baseball and help the game generally. I believe it is worth a trial."

Mr. Quinn's suggestion was duly laid before the big league magnates in winter meeting assembled. The majority uttered a polite, "Yeah?" and then delegated a committee to draw up a schedule of 154 games. Perhaps in the light of their added experience the magnates will give it more careful consideration next winter, but the chances are they will have forgotten all about it by then.

Slow Ball Hard to Teach Youngsters, Says Mitchell.

Fred Mitchell, Harvard baseball coach, who managed the Cubs and the Braves for several years after serving in big league ranks both as a pitcher and as a catcher, hands out an authoritative line of chatter about pitching that young twirlers would do well to ponder.

"The hardest thing to teach a young pitcher," says Mitchell, "is the value of a slow ball. They all want to breeze it by the batter. They can't understand why a batter can't hit a slow one. As the secret of hitting is timing, it follows that the secret of pitching is breaking up the batter's timing. By mixing them up a pitcher can keep a batter from getting set. The slow ball makes the fast one seem faster and the first you know the batter is breaking his back trying to connect with either one. Dick Randolph had no real fast ball, but opposing batsmen thought so, because he mixed them up so skillfully they couldn't guage his speed. The greatest arm in the world will get a pitcher nowhere unless he learns to use his head with it. He must constantly study batters, their strong points, weakness and mannerisms at the plate."

Tech Blanks St. John's; Batson Allows One Hit

Batson held the St. John's Prep School Nine to a lone safety yesterday on the No. 4 Monument diamond and Tech High scored a 4 to 0 victory. The contest was called at the end of the sixth session.

Hurley, quite a youngster, pitched good ball for the Johnnies, yielding but six hits to a usually dangerous Tech Team. Batson was master at all times, never being seriously threatened.

Sheely's Double Sends Traynor Home With Deciding Run.

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, April 24.—Thirty-five thousand fans welcomed the Pirates in their home inaugural this afternoon and watched them defeat the haughty Chicago Cubs in an absorbing thirteen-inning battle, 5 to 4.

First Baseman Earl Sheely, formerly of the White Sox, who played in the Coast League last season, won the game for the Pirates with a double that brought Capt. ("Pie") Traynor home with the deciding run. Sheely drove in three of the Pirates' runs.

The Cubs came from behind to tie the score with two runs in the seventh and another in the eighth after the Pirates had taken a four-run lead off Charlie Root in the third inning. Burleigh Grimes, the ace of the Pirates' staff, pitched eleven innings and "Swede" Swetonic held the Cubs in check in the last two frames. Horne relieved Root in the seventh.

Rogers Hornsby, the league's leading hitter, whose batting has been a feature of the Cubs' triumphant start in the pennant race, went hitless in six times at bat today, Angley, rookie catcher, leading the Cubs at bat with three hits, including a double.

Giants Find Batting Eyes And Trounce Phils, 9-2

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—The Giants made better use of their bats here today and easily defeated the Phillies in the second game of the series by 9 to 2. Lester Sweetland, starting southpaw for the visitors, was driven out by the Clan McGraw beneath a five-run assault in the fourth. Harold Elliott, who succeeded him, was little better, if any.

The Events Leading Up to the Tragedy. —By H. W. Webster

Johnson, Tired by Defeats, to Lecture Nats; Manager Disappointed; Likely to Use Harris

Pitching, Hitting Far Below Expectations of Old Master.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—The usually easy-going Walter Johnson was far from in a gentle mood tonight after this afternoon's game, and he intimated that he would have plenty to say to his charges at a meeting of the Washington players before tomorrow's game.

Johnson admits that his team has been a disappointment to him on no less than four counts—in hitting, as a combination, in pitching and in showing of Outfielders Emile ("Red") Barnes and Sammy West. No complaint could be made about the manner in which his baseball machine functioned in the exhibition series, but the opening bell of the season seems to have been the signal for four shortcomings named above to develop.

The two young fly chasers looked to be as good as any in the game just before the season started and Johnson thought he was "set" in this respect, not only for this season, but for many more to come. He seemed to have more confidence in West than in Barnes and the latter Sunday gave way to the veteran Sam Rice.

Johnson About Decided to Play Harris Instead of West.

Now the Nat leader has just about decided to give Spencer Harris a chance at the center field job, perhaps not tomorrow, but very shortly, if West does not start hitting. Johnson has been exceptionally patient with West because of that youngster's great batting streak late last season and because, even while slumping at bat, he has continued performing flashily afield. But West is still not hitting, while he appears to be "fighting" the ball afield and does not look like the player of this spring, and as the Nats are not winning, Johnson is just about ready to give Harris a chance. He still believes that both West and Barnes will show a return to top form, but he can not afford to keep them in there while waiting an indefinite period for them to do so.

As to his pitching staff, Johnson is not worrying, as he is convinced that the talent is there and that his moundsmen are likely to start pitching good ball most any day now. Regarding the batting feature, the Nat leader believes that some of his players are taking the wrong attitude at the plate and they will be so informed at tomorrow's meeting.

Manager Feels Certain That Pitchers Will Hit Their Stride.

He wants to see them swinging, rather than waiting for possible passes, especially with men on the bases. "Get up there and hit" will be the topic of his tomorrow's sermon. In recent games most of the Washington hitting has been made with the sacks empty and Johnson wants his men to take the same attitude with men on the bases and not to "tighten" up, and let the alien pitcher get them, in a hole when they are forced to swing at anything that looks like it might be even close to being a strike.

"Far too many 'fat' ones right down the groove have been allowed to go by," Johnson said tonight, "and the players are going to be instructed that from now on they are not to wait but are to hit any balls that look good to them when we have men on sacks."

The present series with the Mackmen will end here tomorrow, with either Adolph Liska or "Sad Sam" Jones doing the hurling for the Nationals and Ed Rommel expected to toe the slab for the home gang. Jones is clamoring for another chance, as his two former showings were disappointments, and he wants to prove to Manager Johnson that he can pitch winning ball. He has been putting in some hard training licks and declares that he has now reached his best form. The "sad one" was unable to work up a sweat in the 1929 opener against the Athletics, but he showed better form in his second start against the Red Sox and better things are expected of him henceforth.

College Park Duckpin Bowler Rolls 211 Game

The highest duckpin game ever rolled in Washington and vicinity was recorded yesterday by Henry Ashcroft, a garage owner, of College Park, on the University drives at College Park. His total was 211, 3 pins better than the District record held by Al Work.

Ashcroft spared in his third box, struck in the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth frames, then spared in the tenth and followed with a strike.

The owner of the new record is an average bowler ordinarily. It is his first bid to fame in duckpin circles.

Jones and Rommel Expected to Clash in Game Today.

Rice demonstrated a perfect hit-and-run in the Nats' first inning today when he singled behind Sammy West, who had been given base life on Earnshaw's error. The drive went through the space just vacated by Bishop as the second-sacker raced over to cover the bag.

Joe Judge contributed a sensational catch in the first inning today when he backed almost to the bull pen in right to snare Haas' pop foul. Just as the ball was about to sail over his head the Nat captain leaped and took it with his gloved hand, falling backward after the catch.

Johnson Now Finding Time To Work Into Condition.

With the season started and managing duties cut to a minimum in view of the fact that pregame activities are more or less "cut and dried," Skipper Walter Johnson has more time in which to try to get himself into pitching condition. He is working out daily and was on the hill fully fifteen minutes pitching to batters this afternoon. He still is considerably overweight, but admits that he lost about 7 pounds yesterday while sitting on the bench

MARBERRY HAMMERED FOR 4 RUNS IN 4TH; FOXX HITS HOME RUN

Simmons Returns to Game, Is Factor in A's Victory.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 24.—The value of bunching hits surely was demonstrated here this afternoon when the Mackmen, although making no more safeties than did the Nationals, scored more than twice as many runs and won, 9 to 4. Aside from hitting in the pinches, the Quakers specialized in long-distance blows, and their eleven bingles were good for no less than 23 bases, including as they did a homer by Jimmy Foxx, a triple by "Mule" Haas, two doubles each by Jimmy Dykes and Foxx and one by Mickey Cochrane.

Foxx also was credited with a single, which gave him a record of four hits in as many times at bat to lead both teams in the attack. Rice, Goslin and Bluege, with two hits apiece, were high guns for the Nats. The victory allowed the Athletics to sneak back into first place in the standings.

As to the game itself, it was no contest after the fourth. George Earnshaw, who went the route for the Athletics, was in hot water in only two frames until near the finish, when he did not have to worry because of his big lead. Fred Marberry blew up in the fourth, Lloyd Brown was no improvement and, by the time Paul Hopkins and Bob Burke got into the game, their scoreless innings did not mean anything.

Nats Miss Golden Opportunity To Score in First Inning.

Earnshaw started poorly and Marberry well, but before the game was half over conditions had been reversed and Marberry had given way to Brown with his team 2 runs in the rear. The Nats blew a golden opportunity in the first frame when Earnshaw's error on West's roller, Rice's single and a walk to Goslin packed the aisles with none out. Then Earnshaw bore down and escaped unscathed, fanning Myer and forcing Bluege and Judge to hit into easy outs.

In the third the Nats jumped into a 2-run lead, doing all of their damage after two were out, the result of successive doubles off the bats of Goslin, Myer and Bluege.

Marberry, who had pitched three good innings, met his Waterloo in the fourth, which netted four alien runs. Fred started the trouble himself by walking the first pair to face him, and then Simmons knotted the count on a drive which West misjudged as the ball left the bat and which went for three bases. The runner was held at third while Hayes was tossing out Hale at first, but

Tigers Beat Indians, 7-6; Rice's Catch Saves Game

Detroit, April 24 (A.P.).—A spectacular catch of a long fly by Harry Rice, in which he slid on his stomach for several feet, saved the Detroit Tigers from a ninth-inning rally by the Cleveland Indians today and allowed the Bengals to win, 7 to 6. Averill already had scored for the Indians in the ninth after getting a single and being advanced by J. Sewell's double and a feeble pop by Porter. Fonseca was thrown out by Gehringer, but Jamieson got a base on balls and stole second.

Thirty thousand fans groaned at the thought of the Tigers' slender one-run lead, but Rice dashed in almost to second to take L. Sewell's fly while flat on his face.

Schmeling Denies Bout With Paulino Arranged

Berlin, April 24 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling today denied announcements in New York that he would sail from Hamburg for United States Monday for bout with Paulino Uzcudun at the Yankee Stadium June 27. He told the Associated Press that such statements were premature.

The German heavyweight boxer said he would make no move in the direction of America until acceptance of his compromise offer of 100,000 marks ($25,000) to Arthur Buelow, repudiated manager who first took him to the United States. Schemling said he had not decided to fight in the United States until he is a free man again, "untrammeled by old ties."

Yankees Make 16 Hits In Beating Boston, 9-3

Boston, April 24 (A.P.).—The Yankees won the second game of their series against the Boston Red Sox here today by a score of 9 to 3, evening the count at one game each. Waite Hoyt was in the box for the world champions, who backed him up with sixteen hits, their smartest slugging of the year.

GOOD AS GOLD WINS ABERDEEN STAKES IN GALLOP

Swatter Runs Second, 4 Lengths Behind, in Juvenile Feature.

Victorian Wins, Sortie Second, Toro Third, in Shenandoah.

By CHARLES WATSON

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 23. Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Good as Gold, swift running daughter of Golden Broom-Bel Agnes, making her second appearance, won in a common gallop the $10,000 Aberdeen stakes at Havre de Grace today and added $9,600 to the earnings of the Jeffords Stable. Swatter, racing in the colors of Harry Payne Whitney and favorite in the wagering, finished in second place, four lengths behind the winner, and led J. E. Griffith's Guilford to the finish line by a nose. George D. Widener's St. Prisca was fourth.

Good as Gold was ridden by Jockey Eddie Ambrose, who piloted him cleverly out in front from the break of the barrier. There was some delay at the start by The Kid and Dunrock, which did not fancy entering the stalls. The anxiousness of the jockeys was primarily the cause of the delay, as they eased their mounts in for a fast break.

Banner Crowd Witnesses Sport Under Ideal Weather Conditions.

Keen interest was manifested in the classic race for 2-year-olds and a banner crowd was on hand to witness the event. The day was ideal and the track was at its best.

Happy Gordon, with his red coat, led eleven juveniles to the starting gate, Phillip declining the issue at the last minute. The start was good and it found Guilford out in front. Before the turn swing into the stretch was reached Good as Gold went into command under slight restraint and faced forwardly from there on.

Following the pacemaker came Guilford and Sun Palatine, with Swatter moving up speedily on the outside. The Kid was keeping pace with the leaders at this point. Coming into the stretch run Ambrose, on the winner, began to draw away from the eighth pole. The result was never in doubt.

Jockey S. O'Donnell tried his best to move on the leader with Swatter, but the speed of the winner carried her on to the finish line far in advance of the charging field. The Kind and Sun Palatine retired in the stretch run to allow St. Prisca to gain fourth place.

Victorian Scores Easy Victory For New Owner in Secondary.

The supporting feature of the afternoon's good card, namely, the Shenandoah, over the mile and 70 yard distance, proved an easy victory for Victorian, carrying the scarlet and black colors of the Warm Stable. Victorian, with Jockey A. Robertson aboard, raced well for his new owner and won by three lengths, pulled up. Sortie, from the A. C. Schwartz Stable, finish second to head the McLean Stable's Toro to the wire by a half length. Display carried on in his usual manner at the barrier and delayed the start. Balko went to the front like a flash when the gate was sprung, followed by Toro and Victorian. Nearing the first turn Victorian moved up into second place, with Toro leading the remaining three horses by a wide margin. At the half pole Victorian was running head and head with Balko, with Toro letting down a little.

Toro carrying four bandages ran away a quarter of a mile just before the horses reached the barrier.

Catholic U. Nine Opens Northern Card Today

Catholic University's Nine, winner of only one game in nine starts, today opens a three-day Northern trip at Newark, Del., where the University of Delaware Team will be met. Tomorrow the Cardinals clash with Drexel Institute at Philadelphia and on Saturday engage Manhattan College in New York City.

Lou Hurley, Jocko Conlin and Pete Mast likely will carry the brunt of the pitching burden with Al Flanagan doing the bulk of the catching.

LINDYS ARE READY.

The Lindbergh Boys Club Junior Nine is seeking games with teams in that class for Sunday and other dates. Call Business Manager Birch at Main 6464, branch 66, between 4 and 6 o'clock.

GAMES WANTED.

Radio Joe's Budget Boys Nine are hunting opponents for Saturday and Sunday games in the unlimited and senior classes. Communicate with O. Dodek, 1005 Pennsylvania avenue, or Main 151.

DELANO POST SEEKS FOE.

Delano Post wants a game with a strong midget nine for Saturday. Call Lincoln 4218 for arrangements. The Delanos will meet at 9 a. m. Saturday at Peabody School. All players and candidates for the team are requested to attend.

ISHERWOODS SIGN STAR.

L. Downes, reported to be a former minor leaguer, will pitch for the Isherwood A. C. Nine this season. Isherwoods want games with unlimited teams having use of diamonds for May 30 and July 4. Communicate with George Honey, Lincoln 5233 after 7 o'clock.

CABIN JOHN VS. LANHAM.

The Cabin John Junior Order Nine will practice today at 5 o'clock in preparation for its game Sunday at Lanham, Md., with the team of that town. For games with Junior Order, call Manager Sadtler at Bradley 201-F-14 or address him at Bethesda, Md., Route 6.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT L. COLLYER.

HERE comes the devil!

BLUE LARKSPUR, Kentucky Derby favorite, lines up at the barrier this afternoon. Over at Lexington. Nuf sed!

Just get in line and cash. If they trim this one the undertaker will bring out the embalming fluid for E. R. Bradley.

CLYDE VAN DUSEN and LORD BRAEDALBANE, which are counted upon as Derby contenders, will get the first crack at BLUE LARKSPUR. They also will get what the little boy shot at if the "Big Train" is as fit as the stable connections pronounce him.

DARK EAGLE is the "dark horse" for the opener. Has been working like an express train and should roll home.

In the second LADY EMBLEM has only to race to private trials in order to cop the grapes.

ATHENS did not do so well last time. This one may show improvement and earn brackets in the third.

BROWN WISDOM did not show the speed expected of him on Tuesday. I look for him to turn a complete form flop and walk the dog.

PRINCETON looks best in the sixth, while Old (Pop) Worthington may send over WILLIAM PENN in the closing spasm.

MURKY CLOUD looks good over in Maryland. Goes in the opener and will be right there at the finish.

The "Arsenic Kid" has old CUDGELER on edge for the second, while the ARCHIBALD ENTRY is peaches and cream for the third.

ON HER TOES may prove best in the fourth, but this is a good race to pass to your neighbor.

EDISTO, HEDGE FENCE and DANGER SIGNAL appear best in the other events on the card.

LEXINGTON.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PERFECT MODEL, $5.02, $3.26, $2.94; CONFIDENTIAL, $27.84, $10.30; CLARIE AMOUR, $5.58.

PERFECT MODEL, never far back, moved up rapidly on outside after first quarter, saved ground thereafter, but was doing best at end to hold CONFIDENTIAL safe. Latter, far back and in close quarters, came with a belated rush when clear finally and was rapidly gaining on winner near finish. CLARIE AMOUR also closed an immense gap through stretch to overhaul VERA C. Latter went well throughout and weakened last seventy yards. SPORT DRESS was outpaced. GRANDMA G. showed good speed to stretch turn, where she quit when headed.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. For 2-year-old maidens, colts and geldings. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:31. Off at 2:32. Winner, H. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANTE BELLUM, $14.34, $5.98, $5.88; SYDNEY, $3.30, $3.08; ROLL 'EM DOWN, $6.92.

ANTE BELLUM displayed a high order of early speed and was sent into a long early lead and, continuing gamely through stretch, had something in reserve at the finish. SYDNEY moved up steadily rounding the turn, closed courageously, but could never threaten winner, ROLL 'EM DOWN, much used securing contending position, tired badly in the drive. PROSE AND POETRY went well for entire trip. PANDOVER had no excuses. COLONEL HENRY raced greenly and was swerving out through stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TUM ON, $4.58, $3.56, $2.46; ONUP, $5.46, $2.84; SAUCY SUE, $2.30.

TUM ON raced under a stout restraint until reaching far turn and, responding gamely when hard urged gradually wore leaders down last sixteenth. ONUP was taken back sharply near half-mile ground and slipped through on inside entering stretch and held on determinedly and was rapidly gaining ground near the end. SAUCY SUE, forward from start, got to the front on the turn, but tired when put to a drive near end. ECHO LIGHT showed a fair effort. LOUISVILLE LOU lacked speed and was used up racing into contention, and tired badly after reaching stretch. STORM MAIDEN quit. MISS TORCH was sidewise when break came, impeding LOUISVILLE LOU and MARGUERITE WILLET.

FOURTH RACE—Futurity course. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:40. Winner, W. C. Godloe's b. f. Overweight—EXQUISITE PERDITA, 1. Winner entered for $2,800.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NARVA, $4.18, $2.68, $2.56; THISTLE STAR, $3.04, $2.84; MACK'S BABY, $13.42.

NARVA raced as if much the best, disposed of FUSS AND FEATHERS in first quarter and, continuing well, was drawing far out near end. THISTLE STAR raced forwardly throughout, lost some ground into stretch, but closed strongly when straightened out. MACK'S BABY encountered some early interference and closed gamely when taken to outside in the last eighth. FUSS AND FEATHERS displayed usual speed, but began tiring on last turn. CHATTER BLACK could never reach a contending position. CLOVER CLUB was badly cut on front leg when kicked while at post.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $3,000 added. The Ashland Oaks. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 4:01. Winner, D. E. Scratched—RAGUS, SPORTING LADY, VOTERESS.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROSE OF SHARON, $8.42, $4.16, $3.20; THISTLE FYRN, $3.40, $2.70; BEN MACHREE, $3.60.

ROSE OF SHARON, well up from start and cleverly ridden, was taken back nearing stretch turn and slipped in between leaders midway of the stretch, got up in final strides to outgame THISTLE FYRN. Latter worked way on outside, appeared the winner a sixteenth out, but began to falter near end when put to a drive. BEN MACHREE began sluggishly, was forced wide for most of the trip, but closed strongest of all last eighth. PRETTY POSE moved up determinedly when hard urged at head of the stretch, but weakened badly near end. VESTA went well. LADY WITT began swerving badly through stretch when tiring badly.

SIXTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:24. Off at 4:26. Winner, H. P. Headley's br. f. Scratched—LUCKY DREAM. Overweight—PRINCESS MARGARET, 1½. Winner entered for $1,800.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BETTY ANN, $3.02, $2.60, $2.20; PRINCESS MARGARET, $7.52, $3.74; LAKELAND, $2.46.

BETTY ANN assumed the lead immediately after the start, was hustled into a long lead rounding the turn and, continuing gamely, was never threatened. PRINCESS MARGARET, always in nearest pursuit of the leader, closed courageously, but was overmatched. LAKELAND suffered some early interference, but could never menace leaders when clear through stretch. STAR had no mishaps. APT broke fast but could not keep up thereafter.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:48. Off at 4:49. Winner, O. Collins' ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LINCOLN PLAUT, $3.70, $2.58, out; BIG CHIEF, $5.30, out; MOP UP, out.

LINCOLN PLAUT, reserved behind the pace, disposed of BIG CHIEF when ready at head of the stretch to draw out decisively thereafter. BIG CHIEF saved much ground throughout and, well in the drive, but could not withstand winner's challenge. MOP UP showed a good effort. NICK CULLOP was void of usual early speed. FIRE ON could not untrack himself.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:13. Winner, Al Smitha's blk. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUE BARKER, $71.32, $41.12, $10.72; THUNDER GIRL, $15.72, $7.18; MARHI, $9.34.

SUE BARKER, up well and racing under restraint first half mile, moved up steadily rounding stretch turn and, racing SOIREE into submission, lasted to hold THUNDER GIRL safe. Latter, away slowly, forced wide while improving position, responded gamely under punishment through stretch and was rapidly wearing down the winner. MARHI, much used forcing the pace, quit badly in the last sixteenth. HELEN E., far out of it to the turn, moved up menacingly midway of the stretch then faltered badly last seventy yards. PENDLETON had good speed for five-eighths.

VAN SANT ROLLS 4 STRAIGHT STRIKES IN TOURNEY

Feat All-Time Record for District

K. C. Bowler's Game of 179 Highest for Tournament.

Wilcox, Schweinhart Set New Class B Doubles Mark.

L. R. VAN SANT made Washington City Duckpin Association history last night at the Coliseum. For the first time in nineteen years of tournament competition a bowler made four successive strikes. Van Sant did the previously impossible.

He also turned in the highest game of the present tournament with a 179 total, collecting 125 pins in the last five boxes of his last game.

Van Sant, who is a postman, was rolling anchor for the Balboa Team of Knights of Columbus League in Class D competition. His remarkable work enabled his team to hang up a new record for that class with a 1,712 set and 645 game, both of which are likely to withstand any further assaults.

In collecting a quadruple strike, Van Sant accomplished that which Carl O. Weber narrowly missed the night before, and won himself the $20 prize offered for such a feat by the association.

Wilcox and Schweinhart collected 727 pins to go into the lead in class B doubles. This total is the highest of the tournament to date. Schweinhart contributed 392.

Dave McCarty, veteran pinman, turned in the best singles effort of the night. His 376 set gained him third place in class C.

Women's Pin Tourney Opens With Low Scores

The opening program of the Washington Women's Duckpin Association's eighth annual tournament at Lucky Strike last night failed to produce any sensational scores.

Bertha Greevy's 293 set in class A singles and Madeline Burke's 287 string in class B were the best in that division. Marie Frere and Marjorie Bradt collected 611 in class A doubles. The Redemption Team of class B hung up the best score with a 1,437 total.

Crooke Benefit Game Players Are Selected

The personnel was selected yesterday for the all-star college baseball team which will play the Quantico Marines at American League Park Saturday in a benefit game for the family of Tom Crooke, Washington umpire who lost his life recently in an automobile accident on the Washington-Richmond highway.

Members of the Georgetown and Maryland University Nines will compose the all-star aggregation. They are Outfielders McCarty, O'Neil and Duplin (Georgetown), and Kessler (Maryland); Infielders Dunn, Scalsi and Bozek (Georgetown), Radice and Gaylor (Maryland); Pitchers Poole, White and Higgins (Georgetown), Phipps (Maryland), and Catcher Donovan (Georgetown).

All of the proceeds of the game will go to the family of Crooke. The use of the park has been granted by the Washington Club free of charge. The famous baseball comedians, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, of the Nationals, also will render their services gratis.

A meeting of the general committee in charge will be held tonight at Spalding's. Collections will be turned in and additional tickets distributed.

HARTFORDS MEET.

All members of the Hartford Senior Nine are requested to meet tonight at 8 o'clock at 704 B street southwest.

MIDGETS CHALLENGE.

The Corinthian Midget Nine has hurled a challenge to the Barnes, Crandall and other teams of their class. Call Clarendon 1334-J-2 for games.

Fun Chases Winter Rules Off Columbia Club Course

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MORE than 200 members of the Columbia Country Club yesterday meandered around the course, playing an eighteen-hole round, all of them costumed in gay sashes and fancy hats of all the colors of the rainbow. The event was the celebration of the arrival of spring and the formal opening of the course for the season of 1929.

It was a great day for the golfers, although the fact that summer rules were inaugurated played havoc with the players who have been teeing up since last December. The golf committee, headed by its chairman, George P. James, whose attire rivaled Solomon in all his glory, were all in full regalia and looked like the principals in a comic opera. Hugh H. Saum was a pirate chief, with a hedge of black whiskers; Albert R. MacKenzie was thoroughly unrecognizable as an Alpine mountaineer; Fred McLeod, the club professional, wore the uniform of a British grenadier, including a sword which seriously interfered with his playing; D'Arcy Banagan had his massive form swathed in a clown costume a la Pagliacci, although he fortunately did not attempt to sing the part, and Collins and Hardy, the assistants in the golf shop, were twins in blue.

Golf on Exhibition as Weird As Procession of Costumes.

The procession of costumed players would have made a fortune for a movie picture cameraman, while the golf which was played was as weird as the attire. Competition was a Scotch foursome, and while the committee struggled with the cards the other members of the club burdened the air with "Sweet Adeline" and a few other familiar ditties. However, it was finally announced that the winners were Col. P. T. Haines and J. C. McLaughlin, whose total best ball, 91, with a handicap of 36, gave them a net of 55. This score spread-eagled the field.

There was a triple tie for second place, as follows: William J. Eynon and George Howard, 100—38—62; Allen D. Morrow and Thomas Cantwell, 96—32—62, and Joseph T. Sherrier and R. Carvel Leary, 93—31—62. The triple tie necessitated a draw, Morrow and Cantwell winning second prize and Sherrier and Leary winning third. Eynon and Howard lost out in the draw.

Players Fail to Drive Through Hoop During Afternoon.

During the afternoon a large hoop, 6 feet in diameter and covered with tissue paper, was hung across the first fairway, about 100 yards from the tee, and all the players were given an opportunity to drive a ball through the hoop for a prize. Curiously enough, no one was able to drive through the tissue paper, although Clyde B. Asher missed it by what seemed to be the fraction of an inch.

Then there was an event for the caddies, Miller B. Stevinson driving a number of balls from the practice tee, including five yellow balls. Each caddy who recovered a yellow ball was given a dollar, and it so happened that the winners were three brothers, Ted Harris, Louis Harris and James Harris, all of them being Stevinson's favorite caddies. This result led to rumors that the outcome of the competition would lead to an investigation by the board of governors, but nobody in the world would ever want to mar the ending of a perfect day.

Moorman Leads Field in Railroad Tournament.

The golf tournament of the Washington Railroad Passengers Golf Association ended yesterday afternoon on the course of the Town and Country Club. In the first flight the winners were A. F. Moorman, Baltimore & Ohio, 88; G. Z. Phillips, Seaboard Air Line, 89, and J. T. Ransom, Pullman, 93. The winners in the second flight were Ernest I. Ober, 101; Samuel Weill, Washington Terminal, 102, and J. F. Whittington, Baltimore & Ohio, tied for third place, each with 105. In the third flight the winners were T. V. Jacobs, Washington Terminal, 113; C. P. Crutchfield, C., M. & St. P., 114; W. A. Catanach, Pennsylvania, 115, and C. R. Tolson, Washington Terminal, 116. Other scores were:

M. P. Collins, Baltimore and Ohio, 112; T. O. Parker, Southern, 123; Grant Burnside, Washington Terminal, 123; Joseph Brennan, Missouri Pacific, 127; C. E. Bell, Seaboard Air Line, 130; Daniel Lifter, Missouri Pacific, 131; P. W. Chesley, Baltimore and Ohio, 132; G. V. McArt, Sunset Route, 135; N. Blum, Washington Terminal, 141; George Vierbuchen, Seaboard Air Line, 142; A. E. Irwin, Seaboard Air Line, 145; W. E. Harrison, Baltimore and Ohio, 147; C. W. Owings, Washington Terminal, 158; Frank Mah, Atlantic Coast Line, 124; G. E. C. Garrett, Pennsylvania, 109; George Fiver, Washington Terminal, 107; Richard Coleman, Baltimore and Ohio, 106; J. F. Corbin, Southern, 112.

The Georgetown University Prep Team made a clean sweep yesterday in the interscholastic golf team match against the players from Gonzaga College, winning all six points. The summary.

Owens (G. U.) defeated Edmonston (G), 2 and 1; Bowlf (G. U.) defeated Carroll (G), 3 and 2. Best ball, Georgetown, 2 and 1.

Reich (G. U.) defeated Chase (G), 1 up; Rehkopf (G. U.) defeated Fumeyer (G), 6 and 5. Best ball, Georgetown, 6 and 5.

G. U. Golfers Chosen; Await Army Match

Georgetown's golfers eagerly await the opening of their competitive season, which is scheduled for Saturday, when they will meet the links outfit of West Point at Congressional Country Club. Capt. Maurice McCarthy, intercollegiate champion, will lead the following Hilltoppers into action: Mark Flanagan, Chick Beger, Bob Manning, John Manning, and Norbert Weisler or Dick Wilson.

Weisler may not be able to play because of a previously arranged trip away from the city. Wilson, who likely will sub for him, was a semifinalist in the recent North and South Amateur Championship at Pinehurst, N. C.

RED BIRDS TO PLAY.

The Washington Red Birds and American Railway Express nines are booked for a practice game today at 5 o'clock on the Terminal Y diamond.

CALHOUNS ANXIOUS.

The Calhoun Juniors, who are prepping for their first game in the Capital City League, want to meet teams in their class, especially the Montrose Nine. Manager Bradley is scheduling games at Wisconsin 2969.

Gardner Leads Bunion Derby Into St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., April 24 (A.P.).—Ed Gardner, negro marathon star of Seattle, Wash., led the plodding pilgrims of C. C. Pyle over the Mississippi River and into Missouri today, finishing first at Maplewood, St. Louis suburb, the twenty-fifth control point.

Today's lap was the shortest of the entire derby, shorter even than the first lap of 24 miles from New York to Elizabeth, which was also won by Gardner.

HYATTSVILLE HIGH ROUTS DEVITT

Prep Nine Is Held to 2 Hits in 7-Inning, 5-2, Contest.

HYATTSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL'S baseball team won its ninth straight game, defeating Devitt School, of Washington, 5 to 2, in a seven-inning game at Riverdale Park.

Veneman and Haney, who pitched for Hyattsville, limited the visitors to two scattered singles, while Hyattsville reached Walker for six bingles.

Donaldson led Hyattsville at bat with a double and single in three tries. Robinson also got two singles.

After Devitt had scored one run in the first inning Hyattsville counted two in its half to gain the lead, which it never relinquished.

Brown Is Next Victim, Yielding Five Runs in Two Innings.

With the Macks in a scoring mood, Brown found the task of checking them too big for him, and they knocked his offerings for five more runs in the next two frames. A walk, Cochrane's double and Simmons' single accounted for two in the fifth, while the three they manufactured in the sixth resulted from singles by Foxx and Miller, a double steal by this pair, a second double by Dykes and a triple by Haas.

Meanwhile, Earnshaw had the Nats eating out of his hands in the stretch between the third and sixth, but they managed to score one marker in the seventh and another in the eighth. Singles by Tate, Rice and Goslin accounted for the first of these markers, while the ingredients in the second were one-basers by Bluege and Judge and Hayes' useful out.

Hopkins and Burke each pitched scoreless ball in the seventh and eighth, respectively, and these were the only bright spots of the game from a Washington angle.

Braves' Defense Fails Brandt; Robins Win, 5-3

Brooklyn, April 24 (A.P.).—The Robins made it two straight over the Braves here today, coming from behind to win by 5 to 3. Jim Elliott got credit for winning the game, although his wildness caused his removal in favor of Lou Koupal in the eighth.

The Braves collected all of their runs in the first three innings. Babe Herman put Brooklyn on even terms by hitting a home run into the left field seats in the fifth with one on base. The Boston defense crumpled behind Ed Brandt in the sixth when Brooklyn scored two runs on three errors. George Harper hit a home run for the Braves.

JONES AND ROMMEL PROBABLE PITCHERS

in the Macks' last half of the eleventh, when they all but beat the Nats.

A really great stop and peg by Max Bishop on Judge's grounder back of first robbed the Nats of a run in the third. The Nats made their first three hits in this frame, all doubles.

Capt. Joe Judge is not enjoying the visit here very much, as he lost his baggage on the trip from Washington. His "roomy," Sam Rice, loaned him a tooth brush and razor last night, but Joe had to go on a shopping tour this morning and make some replacements.

Simmons Adds Power To Macks' Attack.

In order to add some punch to his team, Connie Mack used Al Simmons in left field this afternoon, moving Bing Miller to right and benching Homer Summa. Al is still far from condition, but he showed that his batting eye is sharp by tripling home two runners to knot the score in the home fourth. While the ball was hard hit, West likely would have caught it had he not misjudged it and started in only to see the drive carry over his head almost to the center field fence. There was no question about Simmons' single in the fifth, however, which propelled another mate over.

Goose Goslin and Sam West, who have had several near-collisions this season, finally came together in the fourth inning while chasing Dykes' drive, which went as a double. Both went down in a heap, but, fortunately, neither was hurt.

Maliaros to Wrestle Tom Clayton at Strand

Paul Maliaros, middleweight wrestler of Atlantic City, N. J., has been obtained by Promoter Joe Freeman to engage Tom Clayton tonight in a finish match at the Strand Theater. He will appear for Pete Dallas, rugged Greek mat-man, who is limping from a dislocated knee.

Dallas received his injury in a gruelling match with Bobby Mainfort last Thursday night. It is reported that Maliaros is as clever as Dallas and will give strenuous opposition to Clayton.

Tonight's action will get under way as soon as the regular theater show ends.

TAKOMA TIGERS BUSY.

The Takoma Tigers have two events listed on their athletic program today. A practice will be held this evening at 5 o'clock on the Silver Spring diamond, while a meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Simpson's Grocery Store in Takoma Park. All players are requested to report to both events.

VALATOR NINE MEETS.

Players of the Avenue Valet Shop unlimited team will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at 311 Thirteen-and-a-half street northwest. A captain will be elected at this session.

ORIOLE TEAM WANTS GAMES.

Two games with Washington teams of the 16-year class are sought by the Lake A. A. of Baltimore. For arrangements, write Carl F. Gemundt, 1204 North Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

MOUNT RAINIERS SEEK GAME.

An opponent to help open its home season is sought by the Mount Rainier unlimited nine which plans to get under way Sunday at 3 o'clock. Call Mr. Bakersmith, Hyattsville 1548, between 8 and 9 p. m.

BRAVES SIGN AL NIXON.

Brooklyn April 24 (A.P.). — Emil Fuchs, president-manager of the Braves, announced today that he had obtained the services of the veteran outfielder, Al Nixon, formerly with Boston and other National League clubs. Nixon was ordered to depart from Austin, Tex., in time to report to the Braves at the Polo Grounds on Friday.

BOXERS MEET MONDAY AT CITY CLUB

Capital Amateurs and Picked Baltimore Team to Clash.

CITY CLUB'S boxing team is bent upon avenging its sad showing in the recent South Atlantic championship bouts when it encounters a team of picked Baltimore stars Monday night at the G street auditorium. The visiting aggregation probably will include several of the boxers who took the measure of the City Club boys in the title tournament.

So far only one of the Oriole lads is definitely known. He is Izzy Caplin, crack flyweight of the Baltimore Y. M. H. A. He defeated little Doug Swetman, of the City Club, and the local youth pleaded for a return bout. This pair should stage a merry scrap Monday night.

The bouts, which will be open to club members and guests (two guests may be brought by one member), are being arranged by Charles L. Ornstein, vice chairman of the City Club athletic commission, and Irving Silverman, director of athletics of the Emorywood A. C., of Baltimore.

Several of the City Club boxers who have been on the shelf with injuries during the past month again will see action. Al Satryb, 135; Joe Tamgni, 126; Leighton Miner, 160, and Ken Bryan, 160, are now working out, and, with the exception of Bryan, are nearing tip-top shape. Bryan has a trick rib and will not know whether he can risk fighting until he is examined the day of the bouts.

Stellabotta Replaces Lesser In 118-Pound Class.

Hugo Stellabotta is now in the 118-pound class, having taken the place of Joe Lesser who recently rejoined the Jewish Community Center Team. Stellabotta is a willing mixer and always pleases the crowds with his constant boring-in tactics.

Stewart Ball, probably the best of the City Club lightweigts, is due to don the mitts once more in the coming bouts. He has been suffering with an injured wrist. Others who will appear on the program for the local team are Henry Irving and Bill Stanley in the 160-pound class and Jimmy Spear in the 126-pound division.

Dr. C. U. Singer, chairman of the Athletic Commission, appointed the following officials for Monday night's card: Capt. Harvey L. Miller, referee; Dr. Rozier Biggs and Dr. C. N. Chipman, medical examiners; O. U. Singer and Oscar Thorup, timers, and Harry Angelico, announcer.

Central Netmen Beat Tech, 5-0; Near Title

Central High School's tennis team will have an opportunity to clinch the public high school championship next Tuesday when it faces Western, having disposed of Tech yesterday on the Sixteenth street reservoir courts, 7 matches to 0.

The central racketers yesterday won five of the matches in straight sets, Wilson, of Tech, defeated Smith, of Central, in the first set but dropped the next two. Wilson and Sexton also carried Robinson and Smith an extra set in the final doubles match.

The scores:

SINGLES.

Robinson (C.) defeated Talburt, 6—3, 6—4; Neale (C.) defeated Culp, 6—1, 6—4; Smith (C.) defeated Wilson, 3—6, 6—1, 6—3; Harlan (C.) defeated Sexton, 6—2, 7—5; Meyer (C.) defeated Mattern, 6—4, 6—0.

DOUBLES.

Neale and Harlan (C.) defeated Talburt and Culp, 6—4, 6—2; Robinson and Smith (C.) defeated Wilson and Sexton, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2.

COMMITTEE MEETS.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the baseball game to be played here Saturday for the benefit of the family of the late Tom Crooke will meet tonight at Spalding's Sport Store, 1338 G street northwest, at 8 o'clock.

BUSMEN TO START.

The A. B. & W. Busmen plan to stage their delayed opening game Sunday at 3 o'clock on the Arlington diamond with the Addisons furnishing the opposition. Benny Wormsley is expected to hurl for the Busmen, with Lefty Stevens scheduled to toil for the visitors.

CARDS CRIPPLED.

The National Press Building Cardinals will be without the services of Chamie Cotton, Joe Buscher and Len Harrington, who were injured last Sunday, when they face the Edmonds Art Stone Nine at College Park Sunday. Duryee, Medler and Fletcher will sub for the missing stars. Both of these teams plan to compete in the Capital City League unlimited race.

Charles Harrington, at Cleveland 4831, is booking games for the Cards.

FINAL MEETING.

The final meeting of the Georgetown Church Baseball League before the championship race starts, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Peck Memorial Chapel. All teams holding franchises and those wishing to make application for entry are asked to have representatives in attendance.

Teams will be required to post their fees and those not represented will be dropped from the league.

NAVAL NINE SCORES.

The Naval Hospital Nine added another win to its record yesterday by defeating Bolling Field Airmen at Bolling Field, 5 to 1. Ingram was effective in the pinches. Hamilton, Luckie, Wilkinson, Cross and Brown shone at bat.

BULLS FAIL TO HALT WIDE PROFIT TAKING

Selling Sweeps Over Stock Market After Day of Nervous Trading.

CALL MONEY 8 PER CENT

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Bull forces made a vigorous effort to gain complete control of the stock market today, but found traders highly nervous and quick to take profits at higher levels. Selling swept the market in such volume toward the close that the Associated Press index of 50 industrials recorded a loss for the day of 3 points. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000-share mark for the third time this month.

Firmer call money, which held at 8 per cent all day, and expectation of a large increase in brokers' loans to be shown in the Federal Reserve compilation after the close tomorrow, caused considerable uneasiness as to the probable course of action of banking authorities.

Under the stimuli of excellent earnings reports for the first quarter and generally satisfactory business conditions, prices have crept steadily higher in quiet trading since the March break, and with the revival of large scale bullish activity this week, Wall street believes the market has reached a critical testing period.

Business News Favorable.

The day's business news was decidedly favorable to the advance. An outstanding development was an increase to $4 from $3.50 in the annual dividend rate of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Calumet & Hecla increased its annual rate to $10 from $6 and Wright Aero placed its new stock on a $2 basis, in effect doubling the rate paid on the old.

Another assortment of good first quarter earnings statements appeared. Curtiss Aero showing profit of $1.10 per share, in contrast to 54 cents in the first quarter of 1928. A large gain in loadings of revenue freight, for the week ended April 13 was reported, both over the previous week, and the corresponding weeks of the past two years.

The weekly steel trade reviews were particularly cheerful, American Metal Market stating that indications are for still another new high record production this month, on top of a record-breaking March. Iron Age's weekly review tended to quiet apprehensions of a sharp decline in operations, stating that any slackening in the present pace is likely to be gradual and heavy schedules until well into June are virtually assured.

Allis Chalmers Strong Point.

Allis Chalmers was an outstanding strong point, jumping nearly 17 points to a record price at 905 in buying said to be for the account of interests close to the management. Earnings for the year are estimated at about $20 per share, and the company has no preferred stock or funded debt.

Calumet & Arizona soared nearly 12 points on the dividend action. Some of the chemical shares were again in demand, Union Carbide and Commercial Solvents setting new record prices.

Other shares breaking into new high ground included Bohn Aluminum, Childs Co., F. G. Shattuck, International Business Machine, Trico Products and Yellow Truck.

Motor body issues were accumulated on the strength of record production of automobiles. Hayes Body reaching a new high. Curtiss Aero moved up about 4 points, but lost most of its gain.

Postum Is Heavily Bought.

Postum was heavily bought. Simms Petroleum was again turned over in large volume reaching a new high at 24¼, but closing at 23½. U. S. Steel was firm, closing about a point higher.

Shares sinking 1 to 4 points in profit taking included Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Continental Baking A, Dupont, General Electric, General Motors, Mack Truck, Montgomery Ward, National Biscuit, New Haven, Paramount, Radio and Spicer.

Commodity markets steadied, cotton rebounding more than $1 a bale on firmer Liverpool cables and a less satisfactory weather outlook. Wheat rallied a cent or two a bushel on better export demand, and corn improved in sympathy.

Foreign exchanges remained dull, but firm, with sterling cables quoted a shade higher at $4.85⅝. The peseta which dropped to a new low for the year yesterday, rallied nearly 1-5 of a cent.

INVESTMENT BUYING STEADIES BOND LIST

Market Loses Some of Its Briskness; Government Issues Turn Soft.

FOREIGN LOANS RALLY

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Due largely to a sharp falling off in some of the speculative convertibles, the bond market lost some of its recent briskness today, but held its gain on investment buyings of selected rails, industrials and utilities. The day's sales dropped below $8,000,000.

While money rates remained stationary, the United States Government issues turned soft in the late trading after their advances of the last two weeks. This was indicative of a general tendency for the market's late recovery to slow down. Most of the slack that developed when prices touched the lowest levels since 1926 late in March has been taken up with the advent of easier credit and better investment demand.

In the foreign division, prime European government loans rallied fractionally, apparently in reflection of optimism over the reparations negotiations and the international implications of the United States' move for a cut in naval armament. British Goverment 5½s and German Republic 7s were under accumulation.

While trading in the rails was slower in comparison with yesterday's broad demand, buying was strong enough to send Atchison general 4s, which improved more than a point, and other obligations to higher levels. Chesapeake & Ohio refunding A 4½s, on a turnover of 141 bonds, gained nearly a point. Frisco 4½s, a recent favorite among the junior issues, advanced within a fraction of its year's high, a recent rise of more than 4 points, on sales of 176 bonds. St. Louis Southwestern 5s, Southern Railway issues, and such convertibles as Atchison 4½s and New Haven 6s also were bought. Denver & Rio Grande 4½s sold up more than 3 points.

The miscellaneous convertibles were irregular, with price movements narrow. North American Cement 6½s, carrying stock purchase privileges, were the strongest in the semispeculative group.

NEWS OF IMPORTANCE to WASHINGTON FAMILIES

The average family finds it necessary to place a want ad in a newspaper at least three times each year. The occasions necessitating the use of a want ad are the need of a worker; the desire to sell some used article; to secure a tenant; recover a lost article or to find a position.

Among the other reasons for the growth and popularity of these columns is the convenience with which an ad can be placed here. Just phone your want ad to The Post and a statement for the small charge will be mailed to you.

Chief Says His Duty to Enforce, Not to Urge, New Statutes.

PROGRAM PREPARED TO IMPROVE FORCE

1,500 Men, Longer Training, Probationary Terms and Fixed Posts Favored.

Law enforcement and not sponsorship or initiation of new laws is the policy which will guide his administration as superintendent of police of the District, Maj. Henry G. Pratt declared yesterday.

Maj. Pratt's declaration was made in reply to inquiries as to what, if any, new laws he will propose to Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the House District subcommittee, at the forthcoming conference the representative has announced he will hold with the District Commissioners and police chief to get their views on needed legislation.

"Recommendation of new laws is a matter which properly belongs with the District Commissioners and the United States district attorney," Pratt said.

"I believe that it is not a good policy to have the law enforcement department active in the initiation of laws it will have to enforce. There should be no personal feeling bout any law on the part of any policeman.

"Congress, the Commissioners and the district attorney can take care of the laws we need and we have enough to do to enforce properly the laws which are enacted."

Gibson to be Given Plan.

The police chief's attention is to be centered on improving the Police Department and keeping it to a high point of efficiency and he has under preparation a program which he will submit to the Commissioners and to Mr. Gibson and hopes will be approved by them and by Congress.

This program, it is understood, calls for increase of the strength of the police force to 1,500 men, exclusive of officers. An increase of 100 men, bringing the total strength to 1,485, is to be provided for in the next department estimates to be submitted soon to the District Commissioners. General revision of the department pay scale is another major plank in Pratt's program.

Lengthening of the probationary period from one to three years is another proposal.

Lengthening of the training period of newly appointed policemen also is desired. Pratt would provide a three months' course of training for every new policeman.

Material increase is needed in the motor equipment of the department. Pratt wants to establish a motor reserve at every precinct and bureau in the department ready at all hours to respond to emergency calls. Some of this equipment would be automobiles and some motorcycles with side cars.

Fixed Post to Be Asked.

Development of the fixed post, at which policemen will be constantly on duty, and in communication with his precinct and with police headquarters is another thing which the police chief believes would add to the efficiency of the department.

Such fixed posts would have the advantage of having guardians on duty at strategic points in every neighborhood at all times. This system has been increasingly used in England with success, Pratt has learned and believes the department here could use it to advantage. He would supplement the fixed post system, however, by detail of roving patrolmen so that law breakers would not have foreknowledge of the location of the nearest officer of the law.

Development of an analytical and chemical laboratory where the aid of science could be always available to the department is another of the projects Maj. Pratt will seek to have developed within the department.

Pratt does not expect to have all of these things provided for in the next appropriation act, but has listed them as things which are desirable to increase the efficiency of the department. Most of them are matters of police administration which could be put into effect as soon as Congress provided the money.

Fuller Authority Favored.

One of the most important questions still to be determined is whether District policemen shall be clothed with full authority to enforce the Volstead and other Federal liquor laws. They have not such authority at present.

Pratt, however, believes that the District Police Department should be clothed with authority to enforce all laws and he has not been shaken materially from that viewpoint despite the arguments that should the department be given such authority the radical drys would turn the department into a gigantic liquor raiding army.

What will be done about such proposed laws as the vagrancy law waged by the previous police administration and approved by the District Commissioners and sent to Congress, in view of Pratt's statement, is not known. Maj. Pratt refused to discuss that phase of the subject, but indicated that that particular law was not important enough to justify him from departing from the general policy he has determined on.

Should the new police administration fail to approve of the measure it is probable that it will fail of enactment, especially in view of the fact that the proposal has the unalterable opposition of officials of the District legal department.

Pratt conferred yesterday for more than an hour with District Attorney Lee A. Rover in the District Supreme Court Building, discussing the drive to rid the city of slot and other gambling machines and the prosecution of padlock injunctions against liquor and disorderly establishments.

Only one man, Edward Kelly, who conducts a store on L near Twentieth street northwest, was arrested in the police drive on slot machines following Justice Peyton Gordon's refusal to grant an injunction restraining the efforts of the police against those having the machines in their stores. Kelly forfeited $25 in Police Court yesterday.

ENGINEERS HONOR DEBUCHI AT DINNER

U. S. Delegates to Tokyo Conference Hear Talk by Japanese Envoy.

HAMMOND SEES ADVANCE

Engineers, scientists and industrialists who will represent the United States at the World Engineering Congress next November in Tokyo gathered at the Carlton Hotel last night at a banquet in honor of Katsuje Debuchi, the Japanese Ambassador.

The occasion marked the last formal meeting of the entire American committee, of which President Hoover is honorary chairman, prior to the departure of the engineering delegation for Japan.

Dr. Elmer A. Sperry, inventor of the gyroscope and chairman of the American committee, presided. The principal speakers were the Japanese Ambassador, John Hays Hammond and Gana Dunn, noted electrical engineer. Reports from various subcommittees of the American committee were made.

Ambassador Debuchi predicted that the congress would bring about a better understanding between the engineers and people of the West and East. He said that Japan is always ready to cooperate with the rest of the world in the advancement of learning and civilization. He expressed the hope that the bond of mutual understanding that has always existed between the United States and Japan will be cemented at the congress. He observed, in conclusion, that thoughts of war have been abolished and replaced by the promotion of comfort, happiness and prosperity.

Mr. Hammond predicted, in stressing the importance of the congress, that the engineer will become a real ambassador of good will. In the material development of civilization Mr. Hammond said that the engineer has played a most important role, and in no period have his activities been more important than during the last few decades. "If we eliminate any one of the engineering elements which underlie our present civilization, the entire structure collapses," he observed.

Mr. Dunn pointed to the rapid development of engineering in Japan, particularly to the electrical industries. He reviewed many of the brilliant achievements of Japan in the fields of pure science, medicine and other arts.

Floating Airports Described to Club

Plans for Ocean Landings Topic Before Exchange Organization.

Construction and use of floating airports stretching across the Atlantic Ocean were explained to members of the Exchange Club of Washington at its weekly luncheon yesterday by Edward R. Armstrong, formerly research engineer on the staff of DuPont de Nemours Co., of Wilmington, Del.

After fifteen years of experimentation and study, Mr. Armstrong has announced plans for erection of a chain of floating airports in the Atlantic, 400 miles apart. The ports will reach from New York to a point 400 miles from Cherbourg, Plymouth or Queenstown. The seadromes will be supported by 32 bouyancy chambers each with a 60-foot draft and will have a total buoyancy of 35,000 tons.

Vincent F. Callahan, commercial representative of the National Broadcasting Co., will address the Exchange Club at its meeting next Wednesday at the Carlton Hotel. His talk will deal with the future of broadcasting and television.

200 Voices to Sing Liturgical Music

Massed Chorus of Capital and Baltimore Tonight at Gonzaga College.

Three types of liturgical music, Gregorian, polyphonic and modern music, will be presented at Gonzaga College, I street, between North Capitol and First streets northwest, tonight by a massed chorus of 200 voices from various church choirs of Baltimore Catholic churches.

This concert is a repetition of the one given at the Alcazar, in Baltimore, last Sunday as the official celebration of the silver jubilee of the motu proprio on church music which was promulgated by Pope Pius X on November 23, 1903. The chorus is under the direction of the Rev. J. Leo Barley, archdiocesan director of church music and head of the commission of music appointed by Archbishop Curley to regulate and reform music in the Catholic churches of this archdiocese.

Among the Gregorian numbers will be "Salve Regina" and "Benedictus." The "Asperges" of Casciolini and "Tenebrae Factae Sunt" of Palestrina will be among the polyphonic numbers, while in modern music "Panis Angelicus," by Hamma, and Kaim's "Te Deum" will be heard.

NEW SURVEY ASKED FOR CITY'S TRAFFIC

FOR UNIFORM PENALTIES

A completely comprehensive survey of the whole traffic situation, and strictly enforced pedestrian control, were advanced as two progressive steps which should be taken to improve traffic conditions in Washington by Charles P. Clark, assistant general manager of the American Automobile Association, in an address at the City Club last night before the Washington Section of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

According to Mr. Clark, some of the $274,000 collected here from the renewal of operators' permits should be set aside for a thorough study of the entire traffic problem, not only with respect to present conditions, but with a view to those of the future. Regarding his stand in behalf of pedestrian control, Mr. Clark declared he believed it an absolutely essential step, and one which the National Capital eventually would have to embrace.

Mr. Clark detailed other major factors which he spoke of as vital with respect to the traffic problem. Among them were "bottlenecks" on main thoroughfares; need for centralized traffic control, and the desirability of greater uniformity in imposing sentences for traffic offenses in traffic courts. He laid particular emphasis on the need for enforcing the regulation prohibiting double parking.

In the discussion which followed the address, Traffic Director William H. Harland pointed out that the traffic office was convinced of the desirability of pedestrian control and its value in the interest of safety.

Some discussion centered upon the newly installed Dupont Circle traffic lights. Mr. Clark said a survey indicated a marked diversion of traffic away from the circle since their installation. Mr. Harland agreed that this probably would be the case, but said he felt some diversion to other arteries would be worth while in the reduction of congestion. Both Mr. Clark and Mr. Harland agreed that the lights served an important purpose in giving the pedestrian a chance at the circle.

Increasing the speed limit here as an aid in the movement of traffic was advocated by C. H. Warrington, S. A. E. member, who said the speed limit had been raised but 5 miles an our since operator's permit No. 88 was issued to him years ago and showed that the great number of cars now as compared with the total then made an upward revision of the limit necessary.

Thomas Neill, of the Bureau of Standards, presided at the meeting.

Porto Rican Conditions Deplorable, Lions Hear

Economic conditions in Porto Rico were pictured as deplorable by Dr. F. H. Newell, one of the group of scientists who recently visited the island, in an address yesterday before the Washington Lions Club, meeting in the Mayflower Hotel. He said new industries are needed. The native diet consists almost entirely of rice, beans and codfish, he added.

It was announced that the annual Lions dinner will be held in the Mayflower on May 8 at 6:30 p. m. Ralph Jones was named chairman of a committee to arrange for a "ladies' day" meeting of the club at an early date.

Legion to Commemorate Gen. Grant's Birthday

A committee from the Military Order of the Loyal Legion will commemorate the 107th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant by placing a wreath on the Grant memorial in the Botanic Garden Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Maj. Lawrence Crawford, Capt. E. J Dorn, Lieut. U. S. Grant 3d and Francis P. Williams compose the membership of the committee.

RED CROSS ENVOYS URGED TO PREPARE FOR EMERGENCIES

Secretary of War Good Tells 850 at Conclave Army Will Aid in Relief.

MORGENTHAU DECLARES CHAPTER WORK IS BASIC

Delegates View Air Carnival and First-Aid Exhibition at Bolling Field.

The necessity of preparedness for disaster and coordination of public agencies in time of national distress was emphasized last night by those speaking before the more than 850 delegates attending the eighth annual convention of the American National Red Cross in the auditorium of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary of War James W. Good, the principal speaker, declared the United States Army and the Red Cross are dominated by the same purpose, that of service. Both serve the Nation in time of war and in time of peace, he said.

"The Army, the Secretary pointed out, is not maintained only for purpose of war. Since its inception it has been one of the most important of all governmental agencies for the administration of relief activities.

Preparedness Held Essential.

"Many emergencies are handled by the Red Cross without the aid of the War Department or other governmental departments," the War Secretary said. "In time of great calamity, however, the Red Cross and the Army are called into action simultaneously, and it is necessary that both agencies be prepared and cooperate if their efforts toward relief are to be successful."

Secretary Good told the delegates who crowded the auditorium that the Red Cross flag stands as the bright symbol of help throughout the world. "In upholding the ideal of stretching the helping hand, the organization has become a source of inspiration to American youth."

The War Secretary assured the delegates that his department would be prepared to aid in any national service the organization might be called on to render.

Morgenthau Is Speaker.

Henry Morgenthau, former American Ambassador to Turkey and a member of the board of incorporators of the Red Cross, impressed the delegates with the necessity of greater chapter preparedness for disaster relief. The national organization can function only in proportion to the preparedness for relief work maintained by the local chapters, he pointed out.

Howard W. Selby, chairman of the West Palm Beach, Fla., chapter, and Dr. William De Kleine, medical assistant to the vice chairman of the national organization, also spoke. Mr. Selby told of the work done by the Florida Red Cross during the recent hurricane in that section. James B. Morgan, jr., chairman of the Chicago, Ill., chapter, presided.

Witness Air Carnival.

A spectacular air carnival, staged by Army aviators stationed at Bolling Field, featured the afternoon activities of the more than 850 delegates attending the eighth annual convention of the American Red Cross.

The Army transport plane Question Mark, which established a world endurance record of 150 hours, was used in demonstrating the use of airplanes in picking up injured persons and transporting them to hospitals. Capt. H. A. Dinger piloted the plane. Capt. John J. Devery and Lieuts. C. W. Sullivan, Guy Kirksey, M. S. Lawton and L. S. Stranathan thrilled the delegates with a half-hour of stunting and war maneuvers.

President Hoover, president of the American Red Cross, and a former member of the central committee, received the guests at the White House at noon yesterday. Headed by Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the organization, the delegates grouped in the south grounds of the White House and were given a cordial welcome.

Confession of Robbery Held False by Police

Police from Harrisburg, Pa., who came to Washington to investigate the confession of Nick Pete Conti, 20 years old, arrested a week ago at the Union Station, who told Washington detectives that he had staged robberies in Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday declared that Conti's confession of the Harrisburg robbery was false.

Conti told detectives that he was wanted in Harrisburg for a $15,000 robbery and in Pittsburgh for a $20,000 robbery. A copy of his confession of the Pittsburgh robbery has been sent to that city. He is being held for further investigation and observation.

$10,000 Damages Asked For Automobile Injuries

Medora A. Stouffer, of 1207 Kenyon street northwest, sued George W. Clarvoe and his son, Russell H. Clarvoe, both of 4106 Illinois avenue northwest, for $10,000 damages yesterday in the District Supreme Court, as the result of a traffic mishap.

Through Attorneys John Lewis Smith and John Paul Jones, the plaintiff declared she was seriously injured by an automobile owned by the elder Clarvoe and driven by the son at Thirteenth and Kenyon streets northwest on October 18, 1928.

Residence Robbery Reported.

Robert H. Stone, 4901 Forty-seventh street northwest, told police yesterday that his residence had been robbed on the preceding night of a watch, chain and purse, valued at $55.50.

BOSTON MAN ASSERTS HOOVER UNDERSTANDS

Federal Reserve Board Is Rapped for Policy to Curb Speculation.

Cooperation of the American Institute of Architects with the Federal and State governments in their policies seeking the stabilization of employment and the elimination of periods of business depression was pledged at yesterday's session of the three-day annual convention which closes today at the Mayflower Hotel with the election of officers.

The action came in the form of resolutions, sponsored by William Stanley Parker, of Boston, Mass., following a principal address on the subject by William T. Foster, also of Boston, director of the Pollock Foundation for Economic Research.

"For the first time in its history, the United States has a Chief Executive who understands the problem of unemployment and business depression in all its aspects," declared Mr. Foster. He predicted that under the Hoover administration a Nation-wide response will be given to the need of concerted Federal and State action in setting up here complete machinery for assembling data by which business may be guided, and billions of dollars annually appropriated by the Government and States for public works may be wisely spent.

Accurate Data Needed.

"Mr. Hoover has requested the cooperation of all the States with the Federal Government in using public expenditures as far as feasible for sustaining business and preventing unemployment," he continued. "Any such program requires, first of all, long arranged planning of public works. It also requires advance arrangements so that public credit in city, State and Nation can be used promptly in constructing public works when the need arises.

"To determine when the need does arise we must have more adequate and more timely measurement of economic trends. Most important for the purpose are index numbers of unemployment, consumer income and commodity prices. Thus governments will be enabled to increase expenditiures promptly when business lags, and to decrease expenditures promptly when business is headed for a boom.

"This plan does not involve spending a single dollar merely to create jobs. It does not involve spending any more money during a so-called cycle of business than otherwise would be spent. Most emphatically it does not involve any further control of the Federal Government over State and local governments. Nor does this plan call for the accumulation of reserve funds piled up somewhere as a temptation to cheerful spenders.

"The plan is that a part of such public works as are to be constructed any way shall be constructed through the increased use of public credit when measurements and not opinions show that business in general is in special need of the stimulus of added pay rolls. The trouble now is that the Federal Government, as well as the States and cities, spends its billions of dollars every year with scarcely any thought of the effect of these expenditures upon trade and employment.

Reserve Board Chided.

"Obviously, the plan requires the intelligent cooperation not only of all the States, but of all branches of the Federal Government. Especially necessary is the cooperation of the Federal Reserve Board. If the board, acting upon opinions instead of facts, arbitrarily forces up interest rates when commodity prices are falling off, thereby discouraging construction activities, both private and public, and decreasing pay rolls throughout the country, it may more than offset all the efforts of other agencies to sustain the demand for goods and labor."

There is no basis, he contended, for attacking speculation as a means of preventing money from going into productive enterprises. Surplus funds, he maintained, are being diverted to speculation and to foreign enterprises because it must have an outlet. The Federal Reserve Board must act upon facts and not upon opinions, he warned.

He also took occasion to rap installment buying as a palliative in declaring that more than $2,000,000 worth of goods in the hands of the public has not been paid for. In conclusion, he lauded President Hoover as the chief spokesman of the new economics of hope supplanting "the old economics of despair."

Modernism Is Sanctioned.

Modernism in architecture was sanctioned by the board of directors in submitting a continued report stressing the contention that spirit and not form in architecture is paramount. Modernism was listed as a subject of major discussion at the institute convention next year.

"The art of architecture, like all other arts, must be free to respond to man's developing needs and widening horizon," the report said. "To cramp it by rigid adherence to the technique or formulae of other times, or uncongenial dogmas, would be to stop up the springs of its inspiration."

Humanization of industry through organization of building congresses and of committees for the recognition of craftsmanship throughout the Nation was advocated in a report of the committee of industrial relations, presented by William Orr Ludlow, of New York, as chairman.

Methods to recognize the practical work of the craftsmen in the building trades in New York, Philadelphia, Portland, Oreg., and elsewhere have been worked out, the adopted report stated.

Friendly Spirit Stressed.

"Peace, harmony and cooperation in the building trades will never be brought about through the pay envelope or by the master and man attitude," the report continued. "Employers must have the friendly spirit toward their men and architects the friendly spirit toward both."

N. G. Walker, of Fort Myers, Fla., and William H. Lord, of Asheville, N. C., also addressed the convention. Thomas D. Brophy, of the Producers Council, and Charles Evan Fowler, of the American Society of Civil Engineers, were speakers at a luncheon yesterday under auspices of the structural service department of the institute.

Diego Rivera, mural painter, of Mexico City, last night was awarded the fine arts medal of the institute at a session on architectural education presided over by William Emerson, of Boston, head of the department of architecture, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The citation was read by Arthur Covey, president of the National Society of Mural Painters.

The craftsmanship medal of the institute was awarded to Cheney Brothers, of South Manchester, Conn., the citation being read by J. Monroe Hewlett, of New York. Frederick P. Keppel, of New York, president of the Carnegie Corporation, was the principal speaker of the occasion.

Trial Is Taken Downstairs For Sake of Injured Woman

Mrs. Ella Brown, of 1427 Thirty-fourth street northwest, went to the Police Court Building yesterday to testify against the driver of an automobile, which recently struck and injured her, but found she was unable to ascend the two flights of stairs to the traffic division of the court.

Advised of the woman's condition, Judge John P. McMahon ordered his court moved to the press room, which is located on the street floor. Hearing of the magistrate's plans, reporters rushed to the press room, removed a few pictures and decorations from the wall and tidied up the room for the occasion.

With a typewriter stand as his bench, Judge McMahon proceeded with the case. Mrs. Brown declared she was in a hospital unconscious for 36 hours as a result of the mishap, which occurred February 16. She said she was standing in a safety zone at Wisconsin and Cathedral avenues northwest when the automobile felled her. Since the accident, she said, she has found difficulty in walking.

David W. Evans, 28 years old, of 3322 Wisconsin avenue, driver of the car, who was charged with reckless driving, said Mrs. Evans had a dog on a leash, which pulled her out of the safety zone. He said he swerved his car and entered the zone to avoid striking her, but she returned to the zone before he could stop.

Judge McMahon ordered the case continued until May 1, declaring he intended to make personal inspection of the accident scene before making a decision.

Holdings of Traction Firms Ruled Illegal

Investments in Other Utilities Held Not Lawful by Bride.

The street car companies illegally are holding stock in other local utility corporations, William W. Bride, corporation counsel and general counsel of the Public Utilities Commission, ruled in a formal opinion transmitted to the commission yesterday.

Both the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Captial Traction Co. are affected by the ruling. The former company owns $31,000 worth of stock in the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and the latter owns $50,000 worth of stock in the Georgetown Gas Light Co., a subsidiary of the Washington Gas Light Co.

The question was raised some time ago and was referred by commision officials to Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, who said that he believed the railway companies held the stock legally and nothing could be done about the mater.

Bride's opinion submitted to the commision yesterday, however, disagreed with that of Fleharty and declared that such ownership of the stock of one utility corporation by another was specifically prohibited by law.

The prohibition, he said, is contained in section 11 of the antimerger law passed by Congress several years ago, which forbade any "foreign" or "local" street railway or other utility company to acquire stock in another District utility unless the transaction was specifically authorized by Congress.

The opinion probably will be considered by the commision at its regular meeting today, but whether definite action will be taken immediately is doubtful. There is apparently no disposition on the part of officials to question the manner in which the stock was acquired by the two companies and there is no disposition to cause either company to lose heavily through a forced quick sale of their holdings.

Unless the commission goes contrary to the opinion of its legal counsel, however, it must take steps to compel the companies to get rid of the stock.

CHILLUM AIR FIELD PRICE CALLED FAIR

Real Estate Board Answers Representative Underhill's Suggestion of Scandal.

HOLDS SPECIAL MEETING

The executive commitee of the Washington Real Estate Board gave a clean bill of health at a called meeting yesterday to Sullivan Bros., real estate dealers, 819 Fifteenth street northwest, who were criticized adversely by Representative Underhill (Republican), of Massachusetts, on Monday, for the prices they quoted on the municipal airport site available at Chillum, Md.

Sullivan Bros. quoted the 500 acres at from $1,000 to $2,000 an acre through their atorney, Edward Morey Maj. Carey Brown, engineer officer of the Capital Park and Planning Commission, had estimated the site could be bought at less than one-half the price. The contrast caused Underhill to declare there must be "no real estate scandal."

The real estate commitee said the involved firm "should be commended for its vision and public spirited service in assembling such desirable land for consideration of the Joint Airport Commision" and that it had found by its investigation that Sullivan Bros. were asking "exactly the same price given them by the owners, they merely acting as brokers in the transaction on a commission basis."

Bostonian Is Sued For Traffic Injuries

Fred R. Hipson, of Boston, Mass., was sued for a total of $11,850 yesterday in the District Supreme Court by Clinton O. Buckingham and his wife, Mrs. Emma I. Buckingham, of 19 T street northeast, charging they were injured in a traffic mishap as a result of negligence on the part of the defendant.

Through their counsel, John A Thompson, the plaintiffs declared the automobile in which they were riding was struck and overturned in a collision with Hipson's automobile on Rhode Island avenue near Eighteenth street northeast on April 1 last. Buckingham asked $10,350 for personal injuries and damages to his car, while his wife requested $1,500 damages for personal injuries.

War Mothers to Observe Virginia Night Tomorrow

Virginia night will be celebrated tomorrow at the Hamilton Hotel when a joint meeting of the Piedmont Chapter Virginia American War Mothers and the District of Columbia Chapter of the same organization is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Members of Congress from Virginia, Sons of the Revolution and the Kenneth Nash Post, American Legion, will be special guests of the mothers. The Marine Band Orchestra will offer a program of Southern and patriotic airs while an essay on "Virginia's Contribution to the Revolutionary War," by Charles William Hart, will be read.

Jail Term, Fine For Naval Officer

A two-month jail sentence on a charge of assault upon a detective and a fine of $15 on a charge of drunkenness and disorder were imposed on Chief Petty Officer Harold E. Wheeler, U. S. N., yesterday by Judge Ralph Given, in Police Court.

The case was brought into court on Saturday, when Detective S. F. Gravelly, of the Third Precinct, testified the naval officer struck him when he and Policeman R. F. McCarthy went into an apartment at 1930 K street northwest for an investigation. The police said they were walking past the apartment house on Friday night when they heard a woman scream for help.

Rushing into the apartment, the police said, they found Wheeler engaging in an altercation with Miss Alma Williams. Judge Given continued the case until yesterday so that the young woman might be summoned. Miss Williams appeared but declined to testify against the officer.

Women Autoists Meet At Crossing; One Hurt

Miss Dorothy Meyers, 26 years old, 639 Quebec place northwest, suffered cuts on the head and a wrenched back yesterday afternoon when the automobile she was driving collided at Fifth and Randolph streets with an automobile driven by Miss Olive Cook, 22, 3314 Mount Pleasant street northwest.

Miss Cook was reported to have been uninjured. Miss Meyers was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital for treatment.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO DISCUSS AFFAIRS OF DISTRICT TODAY

Question as to Pressing Bills at This Session Are to Be Considered.

MERGER PROPOSAL HELD TO FOREFRONT

Measures Passed Now Would Wait in House for December Meeting.

The Senate District committee will hold its first meeting of the Seventy-first Congress tomorrow, and will decide whether or not to push any local legislation at the special session.

In calling the meeting for 10 o'clock tomorrow, Chairman Capper explained that he wanted to get his colleagues around a table and have a general discussion of local matters.

The principal local problem, as far as Congress is concerned, is, of course, the street car merger. Capper proposes to ask the committee members whether, in their opinion, the merger resolution should be reintroduced and pushed at the special session.

Little Chance in Senate.

Recently Capper expressed the opinion that there was little chance of getting any action on the merger resolution at this session because of the determination of the leaders to limit the Senate's program to tariff, farm relief, census and reapportionment.

Harley P. Wilson, sponsor of the merger, is convinced that the Senate would be willing to take up the merger question at this session, but the indications were yesterday that Capper, rather than he, is right. In other words, there seems to be no chance of action until the regular session in December.

Other Proposals Pending.

The other outstanding pieces of local legislation before the Senate and House now are the bill to provide free textbooks for high school pupils, the bill to expand the public library system, and the Cramton bill to acquire additional park lands.

The House leaders are even more determined to limit the legislative program than are the Senate leaders, and there is consequently less likelihood of the House acting on any local legislation. Should the Senate pass a local bill at the special session, however, it would retain its status through the regular session, and it would then only be necessary for the House to act.

CAPITAL RESIDENTS BENEFIT BY WILLS

9 HERE SHARE IN ESTATES

Nine residents of Washington received bequests aggregating more than $450,000 in four wills filed in New York City yesterday, either for appraisal by the New York State Transfer Tax Department, or for probate in surrogates' court.

Mrs. Edith Root Grant, wife of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public parks and buildings, receives $251,350 of the $650,606 estate of her late mother, Mrs. Elihu Root, who died June 8, 1928.

The late George F. Casilear, who died April 6 at Neuilly Sur Seine, France, willed a life estate of $60,000 to his sister, Mrs. Isabel Casilear Green, and $40,000 to her husband, Devereaux Green, of 1679 Thirty-first street northwest. The will also gives $60,000 to Bessie Hopkins, of 2122 Decatur place, and $20,000 to Ida J. Twyman, of 1317 Riggs street northwest. Ten other relatives, all in Virginia, share the residuary estate.

The $20,425 estate of the late Duncan Joy is willed equally to his widow and daughter, Mrs. Frances Courts, both of 3328 O street northwest, and Charles Turney Joy, his son, of the Navy Department.

Mrs. Helen M. d'Espard, of 3000 Connecticut avenue, is willed $2,968 of the $15,759 estate of her late mother, Mrs. Gertrude V. Morgan, who died May 11, 1927.

Hoover Is Invited To Address Dentists

20,000 Are Expected to Attend Convention in Capital in October.

A committee representing the American Dental Association, which will hold its annual convention in Washington October 7 to 11, yesterday extended an invitation to President Herbert Hoover to address the convention.

The President informed the committee that he is in sympathy with the aims and work of the association in its efforts to prevent and cure disease and promised to give serious consideration to the invitation to speak before the convention. It is expected that 20,000 dentists will attend the meeting of the organization next October.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, majority leader of the House headed the committee which called upon Mr. Hoover. Other members were Dr. Percy R. Howe, Boston, president of the association; Dr. Harry B. Pinney, Chicago; Dr. C. Willard Camalier, Dr. William M. Simkins, Dr. C. D. Cole and Dr. Thomas J. Rice.

Cooperation With Russia Urged Before Rotarians

Development of cordial relations and a spirit of cooperation between the United States and Russia was asked by Dr. Lenoid Strakhovsky, dean of research of Georgetown University, as principal speaker yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Willard Hotel.

Dr. Strakhovsky, in discussing the Russian revolution of 1918, which led to his imprisonment and final emigration, declared that "Russians will have to find themselves before they make any rapid progress, but it is inevitable that they will work out their problems some day." He declared Russians generally had a friendly attitude toward the United States, and that they hoped for a similar feeling of kindliness in turn.

Eight new members received since January were welcomed in the presentation of the Rotary code of ethics to each by Dr. Arthur Christie.
